STATE INCOME TAX PROPOSED BY COMSTOCK

MESSAGE LAYS NEW ISSUES BEFORE LEGISLATURE

BY GILBERT T. SHILSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 4. (AP)—In a special message to the legislature tonight, Governor Comstock opened the way for consideration of an income tax amendment to the state constitution.

"It becomes increasingly apparent that all taxation systems not only of the state but of all municipal sub-divisions, must be redesigned to meet changed conditions," the governor's message said, "I am therefore submitting for your consideration the submission to a vote of the people of an amendment to the constitution to permit taxation of income to provide taxes and revenue for the support of all governmental units and to provide for the assessment of property by a state board."

School Aid Later

The message also let down the bars to permit the special session to consider an anti-lobbying bill and other un-controversial measures. He withheld until a later date the major issues of school aid and public works financing. He indicated these proposals will not be laid before the legislature until a liquor control law has been enacted.

The change in the state's method of taxation proposed in the message would authorize the legislature to enact a graduated income tax in the state. The constitution at present insists upon a uniform taxation of property. A joint resolution initiating the proposed amendment was introduced immediately following the reading of the executive message, as were similar resolutions on all the other measures suggested for consideration.

Goes to Voters

Should the income tax resolution be approved by the legislature, the proposed amendment would be submitted to the voters in the general election of November, 1934.

The administration program would permit a complete reorganization of the taxation system. Under the terms of the resolution drafted by the legislative council and bearing the governor's approval, the legislature could take into its own hands all state as well as local tax problems. It could, if it were so disposed, enact an income tax large enough so that the state could disburse back to the various local units, revenues sufficient to entirely supplant real estate taxes.

Emergency Measure

The governor said it was not his idea that the legislature could go to that extreme. He wishes the adoption of the amendment so that barriers to new forms of taxation, now present in the constitution, may be wiped out. His theory, he explained, is that greater emergencies than now exist may lie ahead for the state government. In case the people are unable to pay property taxes, the state may have to step in with an income tax levy to provide funds for schools and for local govern-

Kidnap Aide Admits Robbery of Brooks

Marshall, Mich., Dec. 4 (AP)—Lyle Daly, 25-year-old former Genesee county resident, pleaded guilty today in circuit court here to a charge of robbery armed in connection with the kidnaping October 31 of Louis Brooks, wealthy Marshall manufacturer, and half an hour later his attorney said Daly had admitted he was one of the two men who waylaid Brooks and held him prisoner after a $48,000 robbery.

Daly, held here for several days for questioning in the strange case, waived examination in justice court today, and immediately was taken to circuit court where he entered his guilty plea. Judge Blaine W. Hatch indicated he would not pass sentence for at least a week.

E. E. Storkan, Battle Creek, attorney for Daly, revealing that Daly had admitted he was one of the men who imprisoned Brooks and a woman, after forcing Brooks to open his office safe here, said Daly had told him he saved Brooks' life when an accomplice, whose name was not revealed, attempted to shoot the prisoner.

Daly, said Storkan, told him he knocked the gun from the man's hand, after the accomplice had become angered when Brooks, trying to escape, kicked the man in the back. The attorney also said that Daly told him the accomplice was not satisfied with bonds and jewelry worth $48,000 obtained in the holdup and kidnaping, but wanted to take Brooks from the state and hold him for ransom. Storkan said Daly declared he persuaded the accomplice to abandon the plan.

The defendant, his attorney said, declared the others involved in the case took the money and jewels, and that he did not obtain anything from the holdup.

Brooks was taken to his factory here early on the morning of October 31 by two men and a woman, who forced him to open the safe. Later he was found at his farm home near here, suffering from a head wound. He said one of his abductors had struck him.

In addition to Daly, Melvin Brown, paroled convict, and two women, Margie Devere and Jane Edwards, have been held in the jail here for several weeks for questioning. Their examination was set for last Wednesday, then postponed until next Wednesday.

Prosecutor Andrew J. Kearney spent several hours questioning Daly today, but did not reveal the details of the kidnaping.

SUPREME COURT AGAINST FACTOR

Must Face $12,000,000 Fraud in England, Says Ruling

Chicago, Dec. 4 (AP)—The United States supreme court's ruling that he must return to England for trial comes at a time when much of John Factor's fortune, estimated to run high into the millions, has melted away.

A three year legal battle against extradition from America has cost many thousands of the dollars he allegedly took from British investors in fraudulent stock transactions. He had paid a reported $120,000 to kidnapers of himself and his son.

Thousands more have been spent in attempting to run down the kidnapers. The United States government has levied half a million dollars against him for overdue income taxes, interest and penalties.

Factor surrendered here June 20, 1931, on charges of defrauding British investors of $1,500,000. Since then he has signed an agreement, approved by the federal district court, to repay $1,300,000 to the investors.

However, the investors have filed claims for $12,000,000, including interest and penalties, and the amount fraudulently obtained has generally been set in England at more than $7,000,000.

Lindberghs Flight Across Ocean Held Up By Dead Calms

Bathurst, Gambia, Dec. 4 (AP)—Their big red monoplane held in the Gambia river by an almost dead calm, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh waited tonight for the first fresh wind to lift them on a flight to South America.

How long the calm will continue could only be guessed at. That such conditions often last many days along the west African coast is known to the sorrow of many mariners.

Repeatedly Colonel Lindbergh has tried to lift the heavy plane from the unruffled surface of the lower river. With a load of fuel sufficient to carry them across nearly 1900 miles of open sea the craft refused to rise. Surface tension held the pontoons as in a groove.

From November to March is the season for what is known as the "harmattan", a hot dry desert wind which comes from the vast interior region. The "harmattan" blows intermittently, but if it comes, it would speed the Lindberghs on their way.

The colonel spent the morning overhauling the big monoplane after failure of repeated attempts to take off last night. Mrs. Lindbergh helped him. Later she slept for a short time while additional gasoline was jettisoned to lighten the load.

Previously 40 gallons of fuel and considerable baggage was unloaded but the craft still was too heavy to overcome a lack of headwind for a takeoff.

ITALY DECIDES LEAGUE POLICY

Fascist Council Debates Important Questions In Rome Tonight

BY ANDRE BERDING
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

Rome, Dec. 4 (AP) Meeting tomorrow night in possibly the most important session of its history, the fascist grand council is expected by observers here to decide that the league of nations is not effective without participation of the United States, Russia, Japan and Germany.

Whether Italy shall remain in the league is to be debated.

One group, following Mussolini's statement in November that the league "by its very name is absurd," believes the country's withdrawal is assured. Another group believes that the campaign in Italy against the league was in the nature of a threat toward France to induce it to come to Rome for a four-power disarmament conference.

Other arguments that Italy will not withdraw are that she would alienate England, whose goodwill she wishes to retain; and that she would align herself with Germany, while France would align herself with England.

BOND BUYING BY TREASURY IS CUT DOWN

REFINANCING PLAN WILL BE GIVEN OUT SOON

BY RICHARD L. TURNER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—An abrupt drop in treasury purchases of government bonds was announced today by Acting Secretary Morgenthau while other officials pointed to recent advances in federal security prices as evidence that they could hold their own without support from within.

A total of $2,545,000 was invested in the bonds last week, Morgenthau said, as compared with $8,748,000 the week before. Meanwhile, all issues of governments, except one had plus signs before the figure that showed their net change for the week.

Gold Up 25 Cents

Officials pointed out that during last week, the price of domestic newly mined gold was advanced 25 cents, its largest increase in the last several weeks. This failed to disturb the bond market; commodity prices were soft and the dollar turned strong.

These developments with the related problems of the approaching December financing, involving the refunding of $727,000,000 of maturing treasury obligations, were gone over in detail in a conference between President Roosevelt and Morgenthau shortly after the chief executive's return from Warm Springs.

In a few days, Morgenthau said later, a refinancing plan will be announced. New issues of government paper will be offered in exchange for that which is maturing. In addition there may be an offer of bonds or certificates of indebtedness for cash and in exchange for fourth Liberties which were called in October.

The elation of adherents of the administration monetary policy was countered by its opponents with assertions that the improvement in bond prices was due to the strength of the dollar, which, they said moved in a direction contrary to that expected as a result of the increase in the gold price.

The gold purchasing is being done for the avowed purpose of working commodity prices upward on the theory that if gold costs more commodity quotations will automatically adjust themselves upward. In this connection, the agriculture department today said that price increases ranging from 15 per cent for cotton to 65 per cent for corn had taken place since mid-October, just before the gold program was undertaken. Cattle and hog prices, meanwhile, worked downward.

The domestic gold price was announced today as $34.01, unchanged from Saturday. Meanwhile, the dollar value of gold at London was $32.38 an ounce, at the opening exchange quotation of $5.19⅛ to the pound, the dollar later strengthened to $5.03, broadening the difference between the London and Washington gold figures. It turned weak late in the day however, dropping to $5.11 3-4.

WYNEKOOP TRIAL SET FOR JAN. 4

Woman Doctor to Remain Prisoner, Interviews Are Barred

Chicago, Dec. 4. (AP) Judge Joseph B. David gave orders today for the trial of Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop to begin a month from today and clamped down, meanwhile, on further public statements by state and defense attorneys on the operating room murder case.

Her own illness and the desire of the court to remain unprejudiced until the trial will keep the elderly woman a prisoner in the county jail until Jan. 4.

Another collapse as Dr. Alice tried to walk from her jail cell kept her from pleading today to the charge of murdering Rhoda, wife of her son, Earle. Dr. Francis McNamara said she left faint and dizzy, and the court instructed that she need not appear until the day of trial.

Attorney Frank Tyrrell withdrew a motion to release Dr. Wynekoop under bond when Judge David said:

"While the defense has a right to ask for bail, I ask that they do not make this request. It is necessary for the court to hear much evidence to rule on the question of bond, and this evidence will undoubtedly prejudice the court's mind one way or another. The court wishes to enter the case entirely unbiased."

Judge David then warned prose-

CONTROL BILL FOR MICHIGAN MEETS DELAY

ENFORCEMENT LEFT UP TO LOCAL AGENCIES

(By The Associated Press)

Tuesday marks the end of prohibition's 15-year reign as far as the United States government is concerned, but in Michigan the interim between national repeal and the passing of the state control bill left doubt as to the exact status of affairs.

In Detroit, some officials said they had been assured by prosecutors of other counties, state police and other officials that there will no longer be a strong effort to enforce prohibition in Michigan, despite the fact that the state liquor bill is awaiting final legislative action.

No More Arrests?

From other official sources, however, came firm statements that repeal of the 18th amendment will bring no change in enforcement of the state's liquor laws. One of those backing this statement was Governor William A. Comstock, who said "things in Michigan probably will go along just as they did under the 3.2 beer law."

"The short interim there will be in this state between the repeal of the 18th amendment and the enforcement of the liquor law should not seriously injure anyone," said the governor.

Enforcement, it was generally admitted, will be left to local peace agencies in the state. The federal government ended its enforcement attempts Tuesday. Detroit officials said that they had been advised by many prosecutors that no more arrests will be made for liquor violation, unless the violations are so flagrant as to demand official action.

Legion Celebrates

The federal government has ruled that Detroiters, as well as others living along the Canadian border, will be permitted to go to Canada and purchase liquor from the Ontario dispensaries without being required to obtain a U. S. commercial permit. A limit, however, probably will be placed on the amount they can bring into the state. The only payments necessary will be the purchase of permits from the Ontario government and the payment of the specified tariff on liquor.

In Detroit, members of the American Legion announced that they would hold a celebration Tuesday to welcome the arrival of national repeal.

SENATE DELAYS

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 4 (AP) The possibility of an early vote in the senate tomorrow on the state liquor control law was eliminated tonight when the senate prohibition committee adjourned until 9 a. m. Tuesday with its study of the measure as yet unfinished.

Members of the committee said an effort would be made to report the bill out Tuesday afternoon for a vote on the floor of the senate.

State Stores Restored

One change was made in the measure during tonight's deliberations. Senator Leo G. Karwick (D. Detroit) introduced an amendment restoring to the bill the system of state operated liquor stores which was in the measure as originally drafted by the legislative council. The amendment was adopted by the

Two Duck Hunters Given Up as Lost In Lake Michigan

St. Joseph, Mich., Dec. 4. (AP) Hope for two duck hunters who disappeared Saturday after putting out into Lake Michigan from Harbert in a frail, 50-pound canoe was abandoned today with the finding of the craft, which drifted ashore, bottom-side up, near Bridgman, 15 miles south of here.

The hunters were Roy Rutledge, East Chicago, Ind., a school principal, and his brother Paul, an assistant principal at De Kalb, Ill. The canoe was found by deputies who were patrolling the beach.

Finding of the craft strengthened the belief that the canoe capsized in the choppy water and that both men, dressed in heavy hunting boots and leather jackets, were unable to cling to the craft. The canoe was last reported seen about two miles off shore at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

When dusk came and the lake became choppy, friends notified coast guard officials here. Crews from this city and Michigan City searched the lake and beach Saturday and Sunday nights, helped by airplanes

New York. The liner Gripsholm steamed up the bay here Monday with the bar wide open, the first inbound vessel to do so since prohibition went into effect. Passengers, languidly sipping the cocktails watched the docking operations. The bar was not closed until the vessel had been eased into its berth.

Philadelphia.—An appeal will be taken to Harrisburg Tuesday from the action of the Dauphin county court which refused to enjoin the holding of Pennsylvania's repeal convention. Lawyers said Monday night that the appeal, sought by the International Reform federation, would not halt the convention.

Columbus. Delegates to Ohio's repeal convention arrived in this city Monday night in preparation for Tuesday's convention which will mark the state's formal ratification of the 21st amendment. The general assembly also will meet Tuesday for the purpose of drafting liquor control measures with spirited argument anticipated over a proposal to authorize sales by the glass.

Olympia. The Washington state legislature convened here on Monday in special session to consider liquor control laws. Some cities are making efforts to control the sale of liquor until state regulation has been effected but the state generally will be "wide open" Tuesday.

New York. Applicants for beverage licenses Monday night awaited word from the liquor control board while Broadway hung up decorations and made elaborate plans for the welcoming back of "old John Barleycorn" whom they last knew legally 14 years ago.

Salt Lake City. Utah is prepared to drive the 36th nail in prohibition's coffin Tuesday, assembling its repeal convention at noon (Mountain Standard Time) which will be after Pennsylvania and Ohio have acted. Due to an elaborate ceremony it is not expected that the actual vote of ratification will be cast until late in the afternoon.

Salem, Ore. The state senate committee on alcoholic control held a public hearing Monday night on a proposed state liquor control bill. At present Oregon is without a state liquor law. TROUBLE BEGINS IN BATON ROUGE

More Bloodshed Feared in Election; Effigy of Long Burned

Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 4 (AP)—Shots were exchanged on the Amite River bridge tonight between a group of Livingston Parish citizens and occupants of a truck on which it was believed new ballots were being hauled from Baton Rouge to replace those burned earlier in the night on the main street of Denham Springs in protest against the Sixth district congressional election called for tomorrow.

The truck ran off the bridge and served into a swamp road and escaped from the 25 armed citizens angered over the calling of the election without holding a Democratic primary.

No one was injured in the exchange of some 20 shots, but the shooting added to the grave fears of bloodshed held by officials.

Seven days of citizens' demonstrations against the administration reached a crescendo in Hammond this afternoon when a laughing, hooting crowd hanged effigies of Senator Long and Chairman Leo Pondre of the district Democratic committee on the courthouse square and then burned the figures at the stake.

In three parishes of the district a district judge swore in 300 special deputies to see that the court's order against the holding of the election was not violated.

Earlier in the day the town of Hammond, with others in the area had defied the state by seizing and burning ballots prepared for tomorrow's election, in which the administration hoped to send Mrs. Bolivar E. Kemp, Senator Long's candidate, to congress without opposition and without a party primary.

LEGAL LIQUOR GOES ON SALE IN 23 STATES

FEDERAL MACHINERY DESIGNED TO NIP HIGH PRICES

BY CECIL B. DICKSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—Repeal eve found President Roosevelt ready to affix his signature to a proclamation that will strike prohibition from the constitution upon ratification tomorrow by the thirty-sixth state.

Hurried preparations were made for the event after the chief executive 's arrival from Georgia to survey the machinery created to regulate the liquor industry until congress has time to enact legislation looking to permanent control.

Three states—Pennsylvania, Ohio and Utah—hold ratifying conventions tomorrow, making the full three-fourths that are necessary for a constitutional change. Governors of those states are to notify the state department immediately after action is taken.

Utah convention delegates decided last night to defer meeting for final action until 7 p. m. (mountain standard time), thus delaying still more the hour when a legal drink could be obtained.

Doran Resigns

Mr. Roosevelt conferred today with Secretary Wallace and Joseph H. Choate, Jr., director of the federal alcohol control administration, in charge of regulating liquor industries, and approved plans for post-repeal.

This was one of a series of important developments in the situation.

Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of industrial alcohol, resigned effective tomorrow, to become director of the domestic distillers' code authority.

Acting Secretary Henry Morgenthau, Jr., of the treasury, announced Doran's action simultaneously with an announcement that the bureau of industrial alcohol would be returned to the bureau of internal revenue tomorrow, where it was in the pre-prohibition days.

A last minute effort of prohibitionists to block repeal was made in the District of Columbia supreme court today and a decision is to be handed down tomorrow by Justice F. Dickinson Letts.

States in which liquor will be sold immediately after repeal or is expected to be legalized soon are: Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, New York, Maryland, New Jersey New Mexico, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Washington and Wisconsin.

(By The Associated Press)

Under the watchful eyes of state and federal officials, plans went forward last night for reviving the legal sale of liquor in 23 states of the Union.

The formal ratification by three additional states, transmission by them of word to the state department that they had approved repeal of the eighteenth amendment, and the proclamation by President Roosevelt of the adoption of the repealing amendment were the legal steps that remained to be taken to break down national prohibition.

Twenty-five Dry

Twenty-five states, however, will remain dry under state laws, although some of these permit the importation of whiskey from other states.

In Pennsylvania, Ohio and Utah the three states that hold ratifying conventions today plans were made for quickly going through the formality of disposing of prohibition. All three voted on November 7 to repeal the eighteenth amendment. Utah arranged a program of formalities for doing away with the thirteen year old dry law that bade fair to withhold legal liquor from the nation until late in the afternoon. Ohio and Pennsylvania planned prompt ratification.

In the states permitting immediate sale, the tendency was away from the old-fashioned, brass-railed bar with leanings generally toward

MESSAGE LAYS NEW ISSUES BEFORE LEGISLATURE

BY GILBERT T. SHILSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 4. (AP)—In a special message to the legislature tonight, Governor Comstock opened the way for consideration of an income tax amendment to the state constitution.

"It becomes increasingly apparent that all taxation systems not only of the state but of all municipal sub-divisions, must be redesigned to meet changed conditions," the governor's message said, "I am therefore submitting for your consideration the submission to a vote of the people of an amendment to the constitution to permit taxation of income to provide taxes and revenue for the support of all governmental units and to provide for the assessment of property by a state board."

School Aid Later

The message also let down the bars to permit the special session to consider an anti-lobbying bill and other un-controversial measures. He withheld until a later date the major issues of school aid and public works financing. He indicated these proposals will not be laid before the legislature until a liquor control law has been enacted.

The change in the state's method of taxation proposed in the message would authorize the legislature to enact a graduated income tax in the state. The constitution at present insists upon a uniform taxation of property. A joint resolution initiating the proposed amendment was introduced immediately following the reading of the executive message, as were similar resolutions on all the other measures suggested for consideration.

Goes to Voters

Should the income tax resolution be approved by the legislature, the proposed amendment would be submitted to the voters in the general election of November, 1934.

The administration program would permit a complete reorganization of the taxation system. Under the terms of the resolution drafted by the legislative council and bearing the governor's approval, the legislature could take into its own hands all state as well as local tax problems. It could, if it were so disposed, enact an income tax large enough so that the state could disburse back to the various local units, revenues sufficient to entirely supplant real estate taxes.

Emergency Measure

The governor said it was not his idea that the legislature could go to that extreme. He wishes the adoption of the amendment so that barriers to new forms of taxation, now present in the constitution, may be wiped out. His theory, he explained, is that greater emergencies than now exist may lie ahead for the state government. In case the people are unable to pay property taxes, the state may have to step in with an income tax levy to provide funds for schools and for local govern-

Kidnap Aide Admits Robbery of Brooks

Marshall, Mich., Dec. 4 (AP)—Lyle Daly, 25-year-old former Genesee county resident, pleaded guilty today in circuit court here to a charge of robbery armed in connection with the kidnaping October 31 of Louis Brooks, wealthy Marshall manufacturer, and half an hour later his attorney said Daly had admitted he was one of the two men who waylaid Brooks and held him prisoner after a $48,000 robbery.

Daly, held here for several days for questioning in the strange case, waived examination in justice court today, and immediately was taken to circuit court where he entered his guilty plea. Judge Blaine W. Hatch indicated he would not pass sentence for at least a week.

E. E. Storkan, Battle Creek, attorney for Daly, revealing that Daly had admitted he was one of the men who imprisoned Brooks and a woman, after forcing Brooks to open his office safe here, said Daly had told him he saved Brooks' life when an accomplice, whose name was not revealed, attempted to shoot the prisoner.

Daly, said Storkan, told him he knocked the gun from the man's hand, after the accomplice had become angered when Brooks, trying to escape, kicked the man in the back. The attorney also said that Daly told him the accomplice was not satisfied with bonds and jewelry worth $48,000 obtained in the holdup and kidnaping, but wanted to take Brooks from the state and hold him for ransom. Storkan said Daly declared he persuaded the accomplice to abandon the plan.

The defendant, his attorney said, declared the others involved in the case took the money and jewels, and that he did not obtain anything from the holdup.

Brooks was taken to his factory here early on the morning of October 31 by two men and a woman, who forced him to open the safe. Later he was found at his farm home near here, suffering from a head wound. He said one of his abductors had struck him.

In addition to Daly, Melvin Brown, paroled convict, and two women, Margie Bevere and Jane Edwards, have been held in the jail here for several weeks for questioning. Their examination was set for last Wednesday, then postponed until next Wednesday.

Prosecutor Andrew J. Kearney spent several hours questioning Daly today, but did not reveal the details of the kidnaping.

Must Face $12,000,000 Fraud in England, Says Ruling

Chicago, Dec. 4 (AP)—The United States supreme court's ruling that he must return to England for trial comes at a time when much of John Factor's fortune, estimated to run high into the millions, has melted away.

A three year legal battle against extradition from America has cost many thousands of the dollars he allegedly took from British investors in fraudulent stock transactions. He had paid a reported $120,000 to kidnapers of himself and his son.

Thousands more have been spent in attempting to run down the kidnapers. The United States government has levied half a million dollars against him for overdue income taxes, interest ,and penalties.

Factor surrendered here June 20, 1931, on charges of defrauding British investors of $1,500,000. Since then he has signed an agreement, approved by the federal district court, to repay $1,300,000 to the investors.

However, the investors have filed claims for $12,000,000, including interest and penalties, and the amount fraudulently obtained has generally been set in England at more than $7,000,000.

Lindberghs Flight Across Ocean Held Up By Dead Calms

Bathurst, Gambia, Dec. 4 (AP)—Their big red monoplane held in the Gambia river by an almost dead calm, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh waited tonight for the first fresh wind to lift them on a flight to South America.

How long the calm will continue could only be guessed at. That such conditions often last many days along the west African coast is known to the sorrow of many mariners.

Repeatedly Colonel Lindbergh has treid to lift the heavy plane from the unruffled surface of the lower river. With a load of fuel sufficient to carry them across nearly 1900 miles of open sea the craft refused to rise. Surface tension held the pontoons as in a groove.

From November to March is the season for what is known as the "harmattan", a hot dry desert wind which comes from the vast interior region. The "harmattan" blows intermittently, but if it comes, it would speed the Lindberghs on their way.

The colonel spent the morning overhauling the big monoplane after failure of repeated attempts to take off last night. Mrs. Lindbergh helped him. Later she slept for a short time while additional gasoline was jettisoned to lighten the load.

Previously 40 gallons of fuel and considerable baggage was unloaded but the craft still was too heavy to overcome a lack of headwind for a takeoff.

BOND BUYING BY TREASURY IS CUT DOWN

REFINANCING PLAN WILL BE GIVEN OUT SOON

BY RICHARD L. TURNER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—An abrupt drop in treasury purchases of government bonds was announced today by Acting Secretary Morgenthau while other officials pointed to recent advances in federal security prices as evidence that they could hold their own without support from within.

A total of $2,545,000 was invested in the bonds last week, Morgenthau said, as compared with $8,748,000 the week before. Meanwhile, all issues of governments, except one had plus signs before the figure that showed their net change for the week.

Gold Up 25 Cents

Officials pointed out that during last week, the price of domestic newly mined gold was advanced 25 cents, its largest increase in the last several weeks. This failed to disturb the bond market; commodity prices were soft and the dollar turned strong.

These developments with the related problems of the approaching December financing, involving the refunding of $727,000,000 of maturing treasury obligations, were gone over in detail in a conference between President Roosevelt and Morgenthau shortly after the chief executive's return from Warm Springs.

In a few days, Morgenthau said later, a refinancing plan will be announced. New issues of government paper will be offered in exchange for that which is maturing. In addition there may be an offer of bonds or certificates of indebtedness for cash and in exchange for fourth Liberties which were called in October.

The elation of adherents of the administration monetary policy was countered by its opponents with assertions that the improvement in bond prices was due to the strength of the dollar, which, they said moved in a direction contrary to that expected as a result of the increase in the gold price.

The gold purchasing is being done for the avowed purpose of working commodity prices upward on the theory that if gold costs more commodity quotations will automatically adjust themselves upward. In this connection, the agriculture department today said that price increases ranging from 15 per cent for cotton to 65 per cent for corn had taken place since mid-October, just before the gold program was undertaken. Cattle and hog prices, meanwhile, worked downward.

The domestic gold price was announced today as $34.01, unchanged from Saturday. Meanwhile, the dollar value of gold at London was $32.38 an ounce, at the opening exchange quotation of $5.19½ to the pound, the dollar later strengthened to $5.03, broadening the difference between the London and Washington gold figures. It turned weak late in the day however, dropping to $5.11 3-4.

ITALY DECIDES LEAGUE POLICY

Fascist Council Debates Important Questions In Rome Tonight

BY ANDRU BERDING
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

Rome, Dec. 4 (AP)—Meeting tomorrow night in possibly the most important session of its history, the fascist grand council is expected by observers here to decide that the league of nations is not effective without participation of the United States, Russia, Japan and Germany.

Whether Italy shall remain in the league is to be debated.

One group, following Mussolini's statement in November that the league "by its very name is absurd," believes the country's withdrawal is assured. Another group believes that the campaign in Italy against the league was in the nature of a threat toward France to induce it to come to Rome for a four-power disarmament conference.

Other arguments that Italy will not withdraw are that she would alienate England, whose goodwill she wishes to retain; and that she would align herself with Germany, while France would align herself with England.

WYNEKOOP TRIAL SET FOR JAN. 4

Woman Doctor to Remain Prisoner, Interviews Are Barred

Chicago, Dec. 4. (AP)—Judge Joseph B. David gave orders today for the trial of Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop to begin a month from today and clamped down, meanwhile, on further public statements by state and defense attorneys on the operating-room murder case.

Her own illness and the desire of the court to remain unprejudiced until the trial will keep the elderly woman a prisoner in the county jail until Jan. 4.

Another collapse as Dr. Alice tried to walk from her jail cot kept her from pleading today to the charge of murdering Rheta, wife of her son, Earle. Dr. Francis McNamara said she left faint and dizzy, and the court instructed that she need not appear until the day of trial.

Attorney Frank Tyrrell withdrew a motion to release Dr. Wynekoop under bond when Judge David said:

"While the defense has a right to ask for bail, I ask that they do not make this request. It is necessary for the court to hear much evidence to rule on the question of bond, and this evidence will undoubtedly prejudice the court's mind one way or another. The court wishes to enter the case entirely unbiased."

Judge David then warned prose-

ENFORCEMENT LEFT UP TO LOCAL AGENCIES

(By The Associated Press)

Tuesday marks the end of prohibition's 15-year reign as far as the United States government is concerned, but in Michigan the interim between national repeal and the passing of the state control bill left doubt as to the exact status of affairs.

In Detroit, some officials said they had been assured by prosecutors of other counties, state police and other officials that there will no longer be a strong effort to enforce prohibition in Michigan, despite the fact that the state liquor bill is awaiting final legislative action.

No More Arrests?

From other official sources, however, came firm statements that repeal of the 18th amendment will bring no change in enforcement of the state's liquor laws. One of those backing this statement was Governor William A. Comstock, who said "things in Michigan probably will go along just as they did under the 3.2 beer law."

"The short interim there will be in this state between the repeal of the 18th amendment and the enforcement of the liquor law should not seriously injure anyone," said the governor.

Enforcement, it was generally admitted, will be left to local peace agencies in the state. The federal government ends its enforcement attempts Tuesday. Detroit officials said that they had been advised by many prosecutors that no more arrests will be made for liquor violation, unless the violations are so flagrant as to demand official action.

Legion Celebrates

The federal government has ruled that Detroiters, as well as others living along the Canadian border, will be permitted to go to Canada and purchase liquor from the Ontario dispensaries without being required to obtain a U. S. commercial permit. A limit, however, probably will be placed on the amount they can bring into the state. The only payments necessary will be the purchase of permits from the Ontario government and the payment of the specified tariff on liquor.

In Detroit, members of the American Legion announced that they would hold a celebration Tuesday to welcome the arrival of national repeal.

SENATE DELAYS

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 4 (AP)—The possibility of an early vote in the senate tomorrow on the state liquor control law was eliminated tonight when the senate prohibition committee adjourned until 9 a. m. Tuesday with its study of the measure as yet unfinished.

Members of the committee said an effort would be made to report the bill out Tuesday afternoon for a vote on the floor of the senate.

State Stores Restored

One change was made in the measure during tonight's deliberations. Senator Leo G. Karwick (D. Detroit) introduced an amendment restoring to the bill the system of state operated liquor stores which was in the measure as originally drafted by the legislative council. The amendment was adopted by the

Two Duck Hunters Given Up as Lost In Lake Michigan

St. Joseph, Mich., Dec. 4. (AP)—Hope for two duck hunters who disappeared Saturday after putting out into Lake Michigan from Harbert in a frail, 50-pound canoe was abandoned —today with the finding of the craft, which drifted ashore, bottom-side up, near Bridgman, 15 miles south of here.

The hunters were Roy Rutledge, East Chicago, Ind., a school principal, and his brother Paul, an assistant principal at De Kalb, Ill. The canoe was found by deputies who were patrolling the beach.

Finding of the craft strengthened the belief that the canoe capsized in the choppy water and that both men, dressed in heavy hunting boots and leather jackets, were unable to cling to the craft. The canoe was last reported seen about two miles off shore at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

When dusk came and the lake became choppy, friends notified coast guard officials here. Crews from this city and Michigan City searched the lake and beach Saturday and Sunday nights, helped by airplanes.

Repeal is Wet Dry and Moist

(By The Associated Press)

New York.—The liner Gripsholm steamed up the bay here Monday with the bar wide open, the first inbound vessel to do so since prohibition went into effect. Passengers, languidly sipping the cocktails watched the docking operations. The bar was not closed until the vessel had been eased into its berth.

Philadelphia.—An appeal will be taken to Harrisburg Tuesday from the action of the Dauphin county court which refused to enjoin the holding of Pennsylvania's repeal convention. Lawyers said Monday night that the appeal, sought by the International Reform federation, would not halt the convention.

Columbus.—Delegates to Ohio's repeal convention arrived in this city Monday night in preparation for Tuesday's convention which will mark the state's formal ratification of the 21st amendment. The general assembly also will meet Tuesday for the purpose of drafting liquor control measures with spirited argument anticipated over a proposal to authorize sales by the glass.

Olympia. — The Washington state legislature convened here on Monday in special session to consider liquor control laws. Some cities are making efforts to control the sale of liquor until state regulation has been effected but the state generally will be "wide open" Tuesday.

New York.—Applicants for beverage licenses Monday night awaited word from the liquor control board while Broadway hung up decorations and made elaborate plans for the welcoming back of "old John Barleycorn" whom they last knew legally 14 years ago.

Salt Lake City.—Utah is prepared to drive the 36th nail in prohibition's coffin Tuesday, assembling its repeal convention at noon (Mountain Standard Time) which will be after Pennsylvania and Ohio have acted. Due to an elaborate ceremony it is not expected that the actual vote of ratification will be cast until late in the afternoon.

Salem, Ore.—The state senate committee on alcoholic control held a public hearing Monday night on a proposed state liquor control bill. At present Oregon is without a state liquor law. Druggists and other groups are urging that bottled liquor be dispensed under state supervision through drug stores.

Washington.—Spokesmen for the principal dry organizations said Monday night that the struggle against liquor would be carried back to the states through educational campaigns and campaigns to hold or regain state and

TROUBLE BEGINS IN BATON ROUGE

More Bloodshed Feared in Election; Effigy of Long Burned

Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 4 (AP)—Shots were exchanged on the Amite River bridge tonight between a group of Livingston Parish citizens and occupants of a truck on which it was believed new ballots were being hauled from Baton Rouge to replace those burned earlier in the night on the main street of Denham Springs in protest against the Sixth district congressional election called for tomorrow.

The truck ran off the bridge and served into a swamp road and escaped from the 25 armed citizens angered over the calling of the election without holding a Democratic primary.

No one was injured in the exchange of some 20 shots, but the shooting added to the grave fears of bloodshed held by officials.

Seven days of citizens' demonstrations against the administration reached a crescendo in Hammond this afternoon when a laughing, hooting crowd hanged effigies of Senator Long and Chairman Lee Ponder of the district Democratic committee on the courthouse square and then burned the figures at the stake.

In three parishes of the district a district judge swore in 300 special deputies to see that the court's order against the holding of the election was not violated.

Earlier in the day the town of Hammond, with others in the area had defied the state by seizing and burning ballots prepared for tomorrow's election, in which the administration hoped to send Mrs. Bolivar E. Kemp, Senator Long's candidate, to congress without opposition and without a party primary.

LEGAL LIQUOR GOES ON SALE IN 23 STATES

BY CECIL B. DICKSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—Repeal eve found President Roosevelt ready to affix his signature to a proclamation that will strike prohibition from the constitution upon ratification tomorrow by the thirty-sixth state.

Hurried preparations were made for the event after the chief executive 's arrival from Georgia to survey the machinery created to regulate the liquor industry until congress has time to enact legislation looking to permanent control.

Three states—Pennsylvania, Ohio and Utah—hold ratifying conventions tomorrow, making the full three-fourths that are necessary for a constitutional change. Governors of those states are to notify the state department immediately after action is taken.

Utah convention delegates decided last night to defer meeting for final action until 7 p. m. (mountain standard time), thus delaying still more the hour when a legal drink could be obtained.

Doran Resigns

Mr. Roosevelt conferred today with Secretary Wallace and Joseph H. Choate, Jr., director of the federal alcohol control administration, in charge of regulating liquor industries, and approved plans for post-repeal.

This was one of a series of important developments in the situation.

Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of industrial alcohol, resigned effective tomorrow, to become director of the domestic distillers' code authority.

Acting Secretary Henry Morgenthau, Jr., of the treasury, announced Doran's action simultaneously with an announcement that the bureau of industrial alcohol would be returned to the bureau of internal revenue tomorrow, where it was in the pre-prohibition days.

A last minute effort of prohibitionists to block repeal was made in the District of Columbia supreme court today and a decision is to be handed down tomorrow by Justice F. Dickinson Letts.

States in which liquor will be sold immediately after repeal or is expected to be legalized soon are: Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, New York, Maryland, New Jersey, New Mexico, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Washington and Wisconsin.

(By The Associated Press)

Under the watchful eyes of state and federal officials, plans went forward last night for reviving the legal sale of liquor in 23 states of the Union.

The formal ratification by three additional states, transmission by them of word to the state department that they had approved repeal of the eighteenth amendment, and the proclamation by President Roosevelt of the adoption of the repealing amendment were the legal steps that remained to be taken to break down national prohibition.

Twenty-five Dry

Twenty-five states, however, will remain dry under state laws, although some of these permit the importation of whiskey from other states.

In Pennsylvania, Ohio and Utah —the three states that hold ratifying conventions today—plans were made for quickly going through the formality of disposing of prohibition. All three voted on November 7 to repeal the eighteenth amendment. Utah arranged a program of formalities for doing away with the thirteen year old dry law that bade fair to withhold legal liquor from the nation until late in the afternoon. Ohio and Pennsylvania planned prompt ratification.

In the states permitting immediate sale, the tendency was away from the old-fashioned, brass-railed bar with leanings generally toward

Seek Action to Prevent Further Exhaustion of Forests

Milwaukee—"The forest drain in the lakes states district is more than 20 times the forest growth," Gov. Schmedeman declared in a talk Saturday afternoon at a luncheon at the Hotel Pfister to delegates of lakes states forestry conference.

"The region is definitely facing timber exhaustion," the governor said. "It is consuming its forest capital and destroying its forest productivity."

The conference was called by Gov. Schmedeman to define requirements of saw timber forest management, protection and taxation necessary to perpetuate forest industries in Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan. Conservation experts and federal foresters attended.

Asks Forest Pact

Pointing out that the forestry resources provide a substantial source of industrial prosperity in this district, the governor urged steps by the conference that will lead to a pact between the states and government to end destructive exploitation of forests, regulate cutting and develop sustained production.

Gov. Schmedeman cited the advances that have been made in Norway and Sweden in state controlled forest management, and said that the success there is proof of the practicability of public management as a means of developing sustained production.

"In Norway and Sweden, in less than 30 years, the development of public forest ownership and management to a dominant position has demonstrated itself to be in the public interest and to be self-sustaining on its own account," he declared.

Seeks Definite Projects

Holding that this region is in danger of losing all of its timber industries because of a lack of adequate raw materials, the governor asked that steps be taken to insure the continuance of the lumber and timber products industries.

The conclusions of the conference are to be purely informative for the benefit of each state and for the benefit of the forest service, so that definite projects may later be worked out. L. F. Kneipp, assistant forester of the United States, was named general chairman.

BALBO IS GIVEN COLONIAL POST

Adventure Again Beckons Famous Italian Aviator

By ANDRUE BERDING

Rome (AP)—When Italo Balbo, air marshal, goes to Tripoli early in January to assume his new post as governor of Libya, he will plunge into a life entirely different from that of Rome, but one that may offer him opportunity for further excitement, adventure and achievement.

BALBO

He will give up the social life of the capital for a colonial city of 60,000 inhabitants, of whom less than 20,000 are Europeans.

Big Man in Small Pond

But he will become the big man in the little pond, whereas in Rome he was but one of many in the big pond, with the skipper always at hand to lay down the law. He will be the commander of 1,000 officers and 24,500 men. And he will have a chance to demonstrate whether he has administrative ability.

Despite the admirable five-year administration of Marshal Badoglio as governor of Libya, there still remains a vast field for development in the colony Italy wrested from Turkey in 1912.

The population remains small, as compared with the French north African colonies and Egypt. It numbers 735,000 natives and 32,000 Europeans. Colonists are coming from the mainland with disappointing slowness. Places must be prepared for new colonists, and inducements must be offered them to leave their homes on the peninsula.

Try to Reclaim Desert

The desert must be driven back. Badoglio began this work by running irrigation into the sand dunes and planting literally millions of trees.

History records that many centuries ago before the desert pushed its way almost down to the coast, a large population existed in Libya. If the desert is driven back, this vast territory again can support a similar population.

The dashing young air leader's experience thus far has not been concerned much with money matters. As governor of Libya he will be flooded with such affairs. Exports of Libya average around 53,250,000 lire annually and imports, 517,300,000 lire. One of Balbo's duties will be to reduce this unfavorable trade balance of about $25,000,000.

There is one feature about his new post that should please Balbo greatly. This is the possibility of improving the air services there, both military and civil. Regular and bettered service between Tripoli, the capital of Tripolitania, and Bengasi, capital of Cirenaica, the two divisions that make up Libya, is the first step.

This line might be extended to Alexandria, Egypt, and from there through the Red Sea to the other Italian colonies of Eritrea and Italian Somaliland.

Service between Tripoli and the mainland also might be increased. The civil planes now in use on this latter line are almost identical with those Balbo used in his flight to Chicago.

The military airforce in the colony is of much importance, owing to its effect on the tribesmen. The hinterland's rebellious tribesmen were pacified only two years ago and aircraft played an effective part in the Italian military operations.

THIEVES STEAL CAR, ROB STORE

Noise from Cut Air Hose Causes Culprits to Flee

Thieves entered the Erickson store in Bark River early Sunday morning, escaping with some cigarets and confectionery.

The sheriff's department believes that the burglars were the persons, who about 11 o'clock Saturday night stole a sedan, owned by Swan Widar of Gladstone, from near the North Western railway shops, where he is employed.

The car was found abandoned, with the gasoline tank empty, on a side road two miles south of Nahenta Sunday morning.

Families living in the vicinity of the Erickson store were awakened at 2 o'clock Sunday morning by the screeching noise from an air hose, which had been apparently cut by the thieves for use as a siphon in an endeavor to replenish the tank of the stolen car. The noise of the escaping air, however, caused the thieves to flee from the scene.

FEARS TIMBER CRISIS IS NEAR

Seek Action to Prevent Further Exhaustion of Forests

Milwaukee—"The forest drain in the lakes states district is more than 20 times the forest growth," Gov. Schmedeman declared in a talk Saturday afternoon at a luncheon at the Hotel Pfister to delegates of lakes states forestry conference.

"The region is definitely facing timber exhaustion," the governor said. "It is consuming its forest capital and destroying its forest productivity."

The conference was called by Gov. Schmedeman to define requirements of saw timber forest management, protection and taxation necessary to perpetuate forest industries in Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan. Conservation experts and federal foresters attended.

Asks Forest Pact

Pointing out that the forestry resources provide a substantial source of industrial prosperity in this district, the governor urged steps by the conference that will lead to a pact between the states and government to end destructive exploitation of forests, regulate cutting and develop sustained production.

Gov. Schmedeman cited the advances that have been made in Norway and Sweden in state controlled forest management, and said that the success there is proof of the practicability of public management as a means of developing sustained production.

"In Norway and Sweden, in less than 30 years, the development of public forest ownership and management to a dominant position has demonstrated itself to be in the public interest and to be self-sustaining on its own account," he declared.

Seeks Definite Projects

Holding that this region is in danger of losing all of its timber industries because of a lack of adequate raw materials, the governor asked that steps be taken to insure the continuance of the lumber and timber products industries.

The conclusions of the conference are to be purely informative for the benefit of each state and for the benefit of the forest service, so that definite projects may later be worked out. L. F. Kneipp, assistant forester of the United States, was named general chairman.

BALBO IS GIVEN COLONIAL POST

By ANDRUE BERDING

Rome (AP)—When Italo Balbo, air marshal, goes to Tripoli early in January to assume his new post as governor of Libya, he will plunge into a life entirely different from that of Rome, but one that may offer him opportunity for further excitement, adventure and achievement.

BALBO

He will give up the social life of the capital for a colonial city of 60,000 inhabitants, of whom less than 20,000 are Europeans.

Big Man in Small Pond

But he will become the big man in the little pond, whereas in Rome he was but one of many in the big pond, with the skipper always at hand to lay down the law. He will be the commander of 1,000 officers and 34,500 men. And he will have a chance to demonstrate whether he has administrative ability.

Despite the admirable five-year administration of Marshal Badoglio as governor of Libya, there still remains a vast field for development in the colony Italy wrested from Turkey in 1912.

The population remains small, as compared with the French north African colonies and Egypt. It numbers 735,000 natives and 32,000 Europeans. Colonists are coming from the mainland with disappointing slowness. Places must be prepared for new colonists, and inducements must be offered them to leave their homes on the peninsula.

Try to Reclaim Desert

The desert must be driven back. Badoglio began this work by running irrigation into the sand dunes and planting literally millions of trees.

History records that many centuries ago before the desert pushed its way almost down to the coast, a large population existed in Libya. If the desert is driven back, this vast territory again can support a similar population.

The dashing young air leader's experience thus far has not been concerned much with money matters. As governor of Libya he will be flooded with such affairs. Exports of Libya average around 53,250,000 lire annually and imports, 517,300,000 lire. One of Balbo's duties will be to reduce this unfavorable trade balance of about $25,000,000.

There is one feature about his new post that should please Balbo greatly. This is the possibility of improving the air services there, both military and civil. Regular and bettered service between Tripoli, the capital of Tripolitania, and Bengasi, capital of Cirenaica, the two divisions that make up Libya, is the first step.

This line might be extended to Alexandria, Egypt, and from there through the Red Sea to the other Italian colonies of Eritrea and Italian Somaliland.

Service between Tripoli and the mainland also might be increased. The civil planes now in use on this latter line are almost identical with those Balbo used in his flight to Chicago.

The military airforce in the colony is of much importance, owing to its effect on the tribesmen. The hinterland's rebellious tribesmen were pacified only two years ago and aircraft played an effective part in the Italian military operations.

INTER-AMERICAN MONEY DESIRED

Cuba Asks Recognition at Conference Held In Montevideo

By G. D. SEYMOUR
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

Montevideo, Dec. 4 (AP)—A proposal for an Inter-American system of money and banking and a plea for the recognition of the Cuban government were heard by delegates to the seventh Pan-American conference today.

Dr. Jose M. Puig Casaurane, foreign minister of Mexico, offered the radical suggestion of a Pan-American banking institution in an amendment to the conference Agenda which was concerned with silver and monetary problems.

The Mexican diplomat suggested that a central banking house be established which would have supervision over a series of central banks. At the same time he advocated the establishment of a Pan-American currency, backed in part by silver, and established on the basis of commodity price levels.

Dr. Alberto Giraudy of Cuba asked that all nations grant diplomatic recognition to the admistration of President Ramon Grau San Martin. He said his government lamented the fact that thus far only Mexico, Peru, Panama, and Spain have granted this courtesy.

Previously to the presentation of the Cuban remarks, somewhat of a tempest had been raised among the delegates by the fact that the conference secretariat was not pleased with the speech draft as first prepared and members of the Colombian delegation were asked to suggest to the Cubans that controversial remarks regarded as unfriendly to the United States and in poor taste be erased.

cution and defenders he would consider it unethical for either side to give any more interviews. Since the mystery began intriguing the country two weeks ago, solutions, confessions, repudiations and new theories have been offered almost daily by accused and accusers.

BODY EXHUMED

Indianapolis, Dec. 4 (AP)—The body of Rheta Gardner Wynekoop was taken from its grave here today, examined by two physicians representing Coroner Frank Walsh of Chicago, and was quickly returned to its resting place.

Dr. John G. Frost and Dr. Jerry Kearns obtained an order from Judge Frank P. Baker of the criminal court for examination of the body. Moving rapidly they circumvented an attempt by counsel for Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, mother-in-law of Rheta and under indictment for her murder, to have a representative present when the body was taken from the ground.

The two Chicago physicians first called on Attorney General Philip Lutz, Jr., and asked concerning the legal steps necessary for exhumation. The attorney general said the physicians informed him they had the consent of Rheta's father, B. H. Gardner, local flour broker.

Business Upturns Best In November

Chicago, Dec. 4 (AP)—The monthly report of the Union Central Life Insurance company today asserted business conditions in virtually all sections of the country, as reflected in life insurance sales, took the sharpest turn upward of the year in November. Net paid business for the month was $10,559,770, an increase of 21 per cent over the highest previous month of 1933.

STATE INCOME TAX PROPOSED BY COMSTOCK

mental units, the governor said.

He described the proposed income tax power as an emergency weapon to let the state collect funds to provide relief for school districts and other "unforseen emergencies." He cited as a possible future emergency "virtual bankruptcy" for the city of Detroit.

The administration resolution, after wiping out all barriers to legislative tax powers, proposes that:

"The legislature shall also provide by law for such other taxes and revenues as may be necessary for the support of counties, townships, school districts, villages, cities and other local governmental units. The legislature may provide by law for the taxation of incomes, either personal or corporate, or both, from whatever source or sources derived, at such rates as it may deem proper, and such rates may be graduated and the legislature may provide exemptions. The legislature may also provide for the assessment by a state board of such property as it may deem desirable."

Not a Substitute

The governor said the income tax was not intended as a substitute for the sales tax, although he believed that the sales tax ultimately should become entirely a federal measure, with revenues apportioned back to the states. He contended that the proposed amendment was designed solely to give the state power to meet any future tax crisis, and to give the legislature power to come to the rescue of any harrassed community.

The amendment would repeal the 15 mill limit on real property. The primary school fund would be retained. Otherwise it would place entire taxing authority in the hands of the legislature, with that body empowered to enact almost any sort of a tax system for both state and local government units it pleased.

Martin R. Bradley, speaker of the house and chairman of the legislative council, said that while the proposed amendment would give the legislature almost unlimited power in tax matters, the council expected the legislature would "use discretion."

The anti-lobby measure was submitted in the house by Rep. William M. Donnelly, Democrat, Detroit. It would make the expenditure of more than $5,000 in any year by a corporation, individual or representatives of a group or association to influence legislation a felony, punishable by a fine of not more than $2,000 or two years imprisonment, or both. Corporations and associations would be required to file annually with the secretary of state a report showing how much money had been spent to influence legislation. A limit of $5,000 would apply to the expenses and pay of lobbyists as well as to advertising or any other form of attempted influence.

During the last regular session of the legislature a protracted "lobby investigation" was conducted by a house committee.

Appropriations Asked

Other measures introduced in compliance with the governor's message were:

A bill carrying an appropriation of $15,000 for the Jean Nicolet celebration to be held on Mackinac Island and in the northern part of the state next year.

A $20,000 appropriation to establish a state agency to serve as a clearing house for applications for federal farm loans. Representatives of the federal land bank recently stated at least $20,000,000 is available to absorb frozen farm mortgages in Michigan, but that applications are lagging.

A bill prohibiting large depositors in building and loan companies from establishing preference in the matter of withdrawals.

A measure authorizing the secretary of state to allow corporations delinquent in their corporation taxes to pay the debt in installments and thus gain reinstatement of their corporate franchises. According to Frank D. Fitzgerald, secretary of state, about 3,000 Michigan corporations are in danger of losing their franchises because of delinquency.

Andrews Praised

A resolution proposing the initiation of a constitution amendment to repeal the section requiring the taxation of personal property at the average tax rate. Governor Comstock and others contend the result of the constitutional provision is that personal taxes have not been paid. A nominal tax rate would bring personal property out of hiding, they believe. Bills carrying small appropriations for the state bondholders' advisory committee and the state weather bureau. The appropriations were overlooked during the regular session.

In asking for an appropriation for the Nicolet celebration on Mackinac Island next year, the governor said:

"This celebration will be of great historical and financial benefit to the whole northern part of the state. Under the chairmanship of Roger M. Andrews the work of the Mackinac Island commission has been outstanding during the past year.

"The state's splendid property has been reconditioned and beautified through the efforts of Andrews and some $45,000 of federal money has been expended through Civilian Conservation Corps camps and other channels."

Relative to the anti-lobbying bill the governor said:

"This measure should be welcomed as a means of freeing the members of both houses, in some measure, from unwarranted attempts to bias their deliberations."

The governor's message stated definitely that there will be another special session of the legislature called about the middle of January.

AGED PIONEER RESIDENT DIES

Andrew Gust Anderson, 80, Lived in Escanaba 53 Years

Andrew Gust Anderson, 80, resident of this city for the past 53 years, died at the family home, 1110 First avenue south, at one o'clock this morning. Death was caused by senility and arterio sclerosis. He had been ailing four months.

Mr. Anderson was born in Smoland, Sweden, on March 30, 1853. In the spring of 1880 he came to the United States settling in Pennsylvania but in the fall of 1880 he came to Escanaba where he has resided continuously since.

He was employed as a top dock worker until 1927 when he retired. He was a member of the Railway and Steamship Workers union.

He is survived by his wife, four sons and one daughter. The sons are George, Frank, Edgar, and Eugene, all of Escanaba, and the daughter is Mrs. Oscar Utberg, Detroit. Two brothers, Charles of Escanaba, and Oscar of Chicago, and three grandchildren also survive.

The body was removed to the Anderson funeral home but funeral arrangements will not be made until today.

Christmas Buying Means 450,000 Jobs

Approximately $4,000,000,000 will be spent in retail stores in December, the association wanted.

The state liquor store provision had been removed from the bill by the house and it was considered likely tonight that a joint conference of the senate and house would be arranged in an effort to adjust differences over the measure.

Senator W. F. Doyle (R Menominee) offered an amendment to the committee which would set up a five-man control board in place of the present 17-member organization. Senator Doyle's proposal was that at least one of the five members of the board be from the upper peninsula and that not more than three members of the same party be included on the board. The amendment was rejected by a vote of 3 to 2.

Bars Not Down

Meanwhile the state, first to vote for repeal, was unprepared to celebrate its arrival tomorrow afternoon. All hope of enacting the liquor bill and setting up the control machinery by that time had vanished. Governor Comstock and Frank A. Picard, chairman of the state liquor control commission, said national repeal will bring no change in prohibition enforcement in the state.

The controversial issue relative to the makeup of the state liquor control commission was purposely passed over pending the night session together with the question of reinstating state operated stores in the measure.

An effort by Senator Francis A. Kulp, Democrat, Battle Creek, to speed action on the measure by releasing it to the floor without recommendation was rejected. The Battle Creek senator favored the precipitation of the entire controversy to the floor but other members of the committee did not agree with the plan.

Doyle Dissatisfied

"I don't care if we stay here until summer," Senator W. F. Doyle, Republican, Menominee, said as he offered amendment after amendment. "There are a lot of changes which ought to be made in this bill before it gets to the floor."

Amid charges that the proposal meant saloons "under a new name," Chairman Anthony J. Wilkowski surprised the committee by pressing for an amendment to permit beer gardens, restaurants, and hotels to sell liquor for consumption on and off the premises. After the committee had registered a majority vote of approval for such a plan, Senator Wilkowski later withdrew the amendments but said he would insert them in another section of the bill.

Senator Doyle charged the Wilkowski amendments were "hypocritical." "All you are trying to do is to give a new name to the saloon by making it a restaurant or hotel." Doyle and others pictured in the amendments a return to the "beer bucket" days of the saloon era.

Home Rule Wins

Glass sales gained a victory in the opening test on the issue in the committee. Senator Kulp sought to insert an amendment to prevent restaurants from selling hard liquor, admitting that it was the opening thrust in his fight to prohibit glass sales. The proposal, however, failed to muster support.

Home rule advocates, however won a victory in their opening joust on the issue. Senator Doyle was successful in inserting an amendment requiring the approval of local legislative bodies to licenses issued to hotels in communities under 100,000 population. Should the amendment remain in the measure, hotels in every city outside of Detroit Grand Rapids and Flint would be required to obtain local approval to their applications for licenses.

Full enforcement of the proposed liquor act was placed in the hands of the state police and local officers under another successful amendment by Senator Doyle. A provision in the measure as it came from the house placing enforcement under state officers but under the direction of the commission was erased. Senator Kulp lost an effort to name officers and have them removed if they failed to enforce the new law.

Breweries Warned

A controversy between breweries and the state liquor control commission was revived when Senator Adolph F. Heidkamp, Republican, Lake Linden, demanded that breweries be permitted to make home deliveries of beer. The amendment was voted down, however.

While the senate committee labored over the bill, Governor Comstock stated that "inasmuch as we have no law regulating sale of liquor in Michigan will presumably go along just as they did under the 3.2 beer law" in reference to national repeal. He said the interim between repeal and enactment of the liquor law "should not seriously injure any one."

Picard warned breweries their licenses will be revoked if they sell beer of stronger alcoholic content than 3.2 per cent pending enactment of a new control statute. He had previously given breweries the right to manufacture stronger beer for storage purposes pending the new law.

No Restrictions

Washington and Oregon were two of the few states that stood without restrictive laws regarding the sale of liquor on the eve of repeal. In Washington, the legislature met in special session yesterday to formulate legislation. In Oregon, that legislature was working on a bill. Whether liquor could be sold legally in Indiana was doubtful with an advisory commission working on a report for transmission to Governor McNutt.

In Massachusetts there was a possibility of the legislature acting last night to make legal sales possible in some sections today.

Another barrier to repeal was threatened late yesterday. Canon William Sheafe Chase, president of the International Reform Federation, who already has pending in the District of Columbia supreme court a petition seeking to prevent the acting secretary of state from proclaiming repeal, said he would bring action tomorrow in Pennsylvania to keep that state from ratifying repeal.

SYSTEM COMPLETE

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—Powerful federal machinery for control of the flow of liquor was adjusted tonight for immediate operation upon repeal tomorrow.

All branches of the alcoholic beverage industry were being brought under the supervision of the federal alcohol control administration to await enactment of permanent legislation by congress.

The system was adopted after an exhaustive study by experts of different methods of liquor control in various countries, ranging from government monopoly to local administration.

Using the power granted the president by the farm administration and recovery acts, the government created the federal alcohol control administration through codes worked out for the different branches of the liquor industry.

Choate Is Chief

These documents, binding the domestic distillers, importers and brewers, are designed to prevent high prices of liquor that might permit the bootlegger to continue in business, and an overproduction that would lead to cut-throat competition. In addition, their aim is to protect the domestic market and assure consumption of American farm products.

They provide for code authorities to be organized within the industries to work with the control administration which has been given power to approve or reject all decisions.

Joseph H. Choate, Jr., a New York attorney, is the director of the administration of five. The other members are government officials.

They are: Edward G. Lowry, Jr., economic advisor of the treasury; Harris E. Willingham, chief of the beverage section of the farm administration; Willard L. Thorpe of the commerce department, and W. A. Tarver of the justice department.

Licenses Required

Under the codes, power is given the control administration to control plant capacity and production of domestic distillers, importations of foreign liquor, and the fixing of prices if it is found that those posted by the industries are out of line.

Distillers and importers as well as brewers have to be licensed.

Representatives of the treasury and agriculture secretaries are empowered to issue permits on foreign liquor shipments until February 1. Thereafter the control agency will issue permits based on average imports from foreign countries from 1910 to 1914. Administrator Choate is the recovery representative, Ray Miller the agriculture representative now.

Although they have not been promulgated, codes for wholesale liquor dealers, rectifiers and blenders of whiskey, and wine producers will bring those industries under the control administration.

ROOSEVELT BACK

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP) President Roosevelt returned to his desk today to check over the liquor control organization that will start operating tomorrow after repeal of prohibition.

Joseph H. Choate, Jr., the administrator of the newly organized federal alcohol control board, informed the president he was ready to begin operations.

They discussed methods of speeding up the allotments and quotas on imported liquor.

Secretaries Wallace and Roper also discussed the liquor control problem with the president.

All the cabinet officers in the city called at various times at the White House after the arrival of Mr. Roosevelt from his Warm Springs, Ga., home.

Most of them came to pay their respects. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., the acting secretary of the treasury, was a luncheon guest and went over treasury affairs with Mr. Roosevelt.

However, there was no intimation of any new move in the monetary program.

The president returned tanned and refreshed by his two weeks in Georgia.

Roper reported to the president that his special committee was preparing recommendations on the stock exchange question and would turn over its report to the senate banking committee.

Senator Fletcher, who called at the White House later, said Mr. Roosevelt was interested in having a study made of the effect of the new securities control act but that he did not want this whole law opened up for revision.

Fletcher said his committee expected to conclude its hearings in the near future on stock exchange practices and after that it would draft its recommendations.

INTER-AMERICAN MONEY DESIRED

Cuba Asks Recognition at Conference Held In Montevideo

By G. D. SEYMOUR
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

Montevideo, Dec. 4 (AP)—A proposal for an Inter-American system of money and banking and a plea for the recognition of the Cuban goverifment were heard by delegates to the seventh Pan-American conference today.

Dr. Jose M. Puig Casaurane, foreign minister of Mexico, offered the radical suggestion of a Pan-American banking institution in an amendment to the conference Agenda which was concerned with silver and monetary problems.

The Mexican diplomat suggested that a central banking house be established which would have supervision over a series of central banks. At the same time he advocated the establishment of a Pan-American currency, backed in part by silver, and established on the basis of commodity price levels.

Dr. Alberto Giraudy of Cuba asked that all nations grant diplomatic recognition to the admistration of President Ramon Grau San Martin. He said his government lamented the fact that thus far only Mexico, Peru, Panama, and Spain have granted this courtesy.

Previously to the presentation of the Cuban remarks, somewhat of a tempest had been raised among the delegates by the fact that the conference secretariat was not pleased with the speech draft as first prepared and members of the Colombian delegation were asked to suggest to the Cubans that controversial remarks regarded as unfriendly to the United States and in poor taste be erased.

BODY EXHUMED

Indianapolis, Dec. 4 (AP)—The body of Rheta Gardner Wynekoop was taken from its grave here today, examined by two physicians representing Coroner Frank Walsh of Chicago, and was quickly returned to its resting place.

Dr. John G. Frost and Dr. Jerry Kearns obtained an order from Judge Frank P. Baker of the criminal court for examination of the body. Moving rapidly they circumvented an attempt by counsel for Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, mother-in-law of Rheta and under indictment for her murder, to have a representative present when the body was taken from the ground.

The two Chicago physicians first called on Attorney General Philip Lutz, Jr., and asked concerning the legal steps necessary for exhumation. The attorney general said the physicians informed him they had the consent of Rheta's father, B. H. Gardner, local flour broker.

Business Upturns Best In November

Chicago, Dec. 4 (AP)—The monthly report of the Union Central Life Insurance company today asserted business conditions in virtually all sections of the country, as reflected in life insurance sales, took the sharpest turn upward of the year in November. Net paid business for the month was $10,559,770, an increase of 21 per cent over the highest previous month of 1933.

STATE INCOME TAX PROPOSED BY COMSTOCK

mental units, the governor said.

He described the proposed income tax power as an emergency weapon to let the state collect funds to provide relief for school districts and other "unforseen emergencies." He cited as a possible future emergency "virtual bankruptcy" for the city of Detroit.

The administration resolution, after wiping out all barriers to legislative tax powers, proposes that:

"The legislature shall also provide by law for such other taxes and revenues as may be necessary for the support of counties, townships, school districts, villages, cities and other local governmental units. The legislature may provide by law for the taxation of incomes, either personal or corporate, or both, from whatever source or sources derived, at such rates as it may deem proper, and such rates may be graduated and the legislature may provide exemptions. The legislature may also provide for the assessment by a state board of such property as it may deem desirable."

Not a Substitute

The governor said the income tax was not intended as a substitute for the sales tax, although he believed that the sales tax ultimately should become entirely a federal measure, with revenues apportioned back to the states. He contended that the proposed amendment was designed solely to give the state power to meet any future tax crisis, and to give the legislature power to come to the rescue of any harrassed community.

The amendment would repeal the 15 mill limit on real property. The primary school fund would be retained. Otherwise it would place entire taxing authority in the hands of the legislature, with that body empowered to enact almost any sort of a tax system for both state and local government units it pleased.

Martin R. Bradley, speaker of the house and chairman of the legislative council, said that while the proposed amendment would give the legislature almost unlimited power in tax matters, the council expected the legislature would "use discretion."

The anti-lobby measure was submitted in the house by Rep. William M. Donnelly, Democrat, Detroit. It would make the expenditure of more than $5,000 in any year by a corporation, individual or representatives of a group or association to influence legislation a felony, punishable by a fine of not more than $2,000 or two years imprisonment, or both. Corporations and associations would be required to file annually with the secretary of state a report showing how much money had been spent to influence legislation. A limit of $5,000 would apply to the expenses and pay of lobbyists as well as to advertising or any other form of attempted influence.

During the last regular session of the legislature a protracted "lobby investigation" was conducted by a house committee.

Appropriations Asked

Other measures introduced in compliance with the governor's message were:

A bill carrying an appropriation of $15,000 for the Jean Nicolet celebration to be held on Mackinac Island and in the northern part of the state next year.

A $20,000 appropriation to establish a state agency to serve as a clearing house for applications for federal farm loans. Representatives of the federal land bank recently stated at least $20,000,000 is available to absorb frozen farm mortgages in Michigan, but that applications are lagging.

A bill prohibiting large depositors in building and loan companies from establishing preference in the matter of withdrawals.

A measure authorizing the secretary of state to allow corporations delinquent in their corporation taxes to pay the debt in instalments and thus gain reinstatement of their corporate franchises. According to Frank D. Fitzgerald, secretary of state, about 3,000 Michigan corporations are in danger of losing their franchises because of delinquency.

Andrews Praised

A resolution proposing the initiation of a constitution amendment to repeal the section requiring the taxation of personal property at the average tax rate. Governor Comstock and others contend the result of the constitutional provision is that personal taxes have not been paid. A nominal tax rate would bring personal property out of hiding, they believe. Bills carrying small appropriations for the state bondholders' advisory committee and the state weather bureau. The appropriations were overlooked during the regular session.

In asking for an appropriation for the Nicolet celebration on Mackinac Island next year, the governor said:

"This celebration will be of great historical and financial benefit to the whole northern part of the state. Under the chairmanship of Roger M. Andrews the work of the Mackinac Island commission has been outstanding during the past year.

"The state's splendid property has been reconditioned and beautified through the efforts of Andrews and some $45,000 of federal money has been expended through Civilian Conservation Corps camps and other channels."

Relative to the anti-lobbying bill the governor said:

"This measure should be welcomed as a means of freeing the members of both houses, in some measure, from unwarranted attempts to bias their deliberations."

The governor's message stated definitely that there will be another special session of the legislature called about the middle of January.

Using the power granted the president by the farm administration and recovery acts, the government created the federal alcohol control administration through codes worked out for the different branches of the liquor industry.

Choate Is Chief

These documents, binding the domestic distillers, importers and brewers, are designed to prevent high prices of liquor that might permit the bootlegger to continue in business, and an overproduction that would lead to cut-throat competition. In addition, their aim is to protect the domestic market and assure consumption of American farm products.

They provide for code authorities to be organized within the industries to work with the control administration which has been given power to approve or reject all decisions.

Joseph H. Choate, Jr., a New York attorney, is the director of the administration of five. The other members are government officials.

They are: Edward G. Lowry, Jr., economic advisor of the treasury; Harris E. Willingham, chief of the beverage section of the farm administration; Willard L. Thorpe of the commerce department, and W. A. Tarver of the justice department.

Licenses Required

Under the codes, power is given the control administration to control plant capacity and production of domestic distillers, importations of foreign liquor, and the fixing of prices if it is found that those posted by the industries are out of line.

Distillers and importers as well as brewers have to be licensed.

Representatives of the treasury and agriculture secretaries are empowered to issue permits on foreign liquor shipments until February 1. Thereafter the control agency will issue permits based on average imports from foreign countries from 1910 to 1914. Administrator Choate is the recovery representative, Ray Miller the agriculture representative now.

Although they have not been promulgated, codes for wholesale liquor dealers, rectifiers and blenders of whiskey, and wine producers will bring those industries under the control administration.

ROOSEVELT BACK

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—President Roosevelt returned to his desk today to check over the liquor control organization that will start operating tomorrow after repeal of prohibition.

Joseph H. Choate, Jr., the administrator of the newly organized federal alcohol control board, informed the president he was ready to begin operations.

They discussed methods of speeding up the allotments and quotas on imported liquor.

Secretaries Wallace and Roper also discussed the liquor control problem with the president.

All the cabinet officers in the city called at various times at the White House after the arrival of Mr. Roosevelt from his Warm Springs, Ga., home.

Most of them came to pay their respects. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., the acting secretary of the treasury, was a luncheon guest and went over treasury affairs with Mr. Roosevelt.

However, there was no intimation of any new move in the monetary program.

The president returned tanned and refreshed by his two weeks in Georgia.

Roper reported to the president that his special committee was preparing recommendations on the stock exchange question and would turn over its report to the senate banking committee.

Senator Fletcher, who called at the White House later, said Mr. Roosevelt was interested in having a study made of the effect of the new securities control act but that he did not want this whole law opened up for revision.

Fletcher said his committee expected to conclude its hearings in the near future on stock exchange practices and after that it would draft its recommendations.

TO TRY COME-BACK?

THERE is a growing national belief that the open break revealed a week ago between President Roosevelt and former Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, when the latter severely castigated the administration's monetary policy and public works program, represents the first step in an organized movement within the Democratic party to assemble the conservative forces of that party in a movement to eventually wrest party control from the so-called party radicals. The next logical step in such a program would be the candidacy of Mr. Smith for the United States senatorship, from the state of New York, in the campaign of 1934 next year. There has before been much political gossip connecting Al Smith's name with the New York senatorship and previously the former leader of the national Democratic forces in the nation, had let it be known that he was not interested in that office. Recent developments may, however, quite radically change that picture and there are astute political observers who believe that Mr. Smith will welcome the senatorship, as a means of placing himself in a commanding position to battle for the principles of government he advocates.

Whether Mr. Smith has advanced or weakened his hold on public sentiment in the nation, by his violent criticism of the governmental policies of his party's administration at Washington, is an open question. His position has been weakened by his words of bitter criticism, in that the phrase he used opened the way for the retort that his opposition to the Roosevelt program was founded on personal animosity and political disappointment. Certainly Mr. Smith could have made his position much more tenable had he been less caustic in his criticisms.

On the other hand there will be those to whom Mr. Smith's two fisted and wholly unafraid method of attack will appeal as justified by the infringent on party policies now being exemplified at Washington. Both the president and Mr. Smith have given evidence that neither intends to recede from the positions they have assumed. So the battle within the Democratic party promises to become one of the headline attractions of the succeeding months.

A LIFE OF VAIN REVOLT

THERE is a pathetic note in the otherwise amusing announcement of beautiful young Nita Cram Cook that she is through with the life of adoration she had led as a disciple of the Mahatma Gandhi, and that hereafter with she will seek the freedom and ennui of the world.

The discordant note rings out from the fear that Miss Cook will become just as disappointed, just as disillusioned in the new life as she had become in the old.

This is no sad commentary on life in general. It is based, rather, upon what is known of the Cook temperament and personality and the rebelliousness that characterized the Cook tradition.

The talented novelist and playwright, George Cram Cook, died a broken-hearted and disillusioned man when he failed in his revolt against the "false" practices of the modern world.

Now his daughter, inheriting his emotional traits, would cast off the very mantle of despair that he had left her.

The tragic life of the "Great Soul" of India, the ministers of those millions of subordinates, brought about the same begin of revolt which previously had caused her to turn from the ways into which she had been born.

Miss Cook's experience is worthy of serious consideration by the thousands of young men and women who today seem to see nothing but despair and frustration before them in their struggle for the finer things of life.

They may cry out against the selfishness, the greed, and the materialism of the day. They even may simulate the experience of Miss Cook and devote themselves to a regimen of self-denial and protestation against the modern world.

But they will find themselves returning to the very life they abhor, and then they will discover that the true protest, the most effective weapon they have, is one of participation in this world to the end that it may become a better means of existence for all.

In avoiding this roundabout way of making themselves felt in this life, our youth of today also will avoid the tragic disappointments to which Miss Cook seems to have foredoomed herself.

THE BOYS FIRST

An intense local rivalry exists between the football partisans of the University of Michigan and Ohio State. And even though Ohio State went through its 1933 schedule with only one defeat, certain factions among with alumni deem the year a failure because that defeat was administered by Michigan.

A storm of criticism roared about the ears of Coach Sam Willaman of Ohio State. It was shouted that his coaching methods had been inefficient.

Coach Willaman replied: "The boy comes first, the school second, the public third. When I took the coaching job, I promised only that my methods would be beyond reproach, that I would throw my whole heart and soul into it, because my efforts would be for my own university, and that the team would win its share of games."

Willaman's record at Ohio State is splendid. In the last two years his teams have lost only two games. But it is just too bad, from an Ohio viewpoint, that both of those games were won by Michigan.

MEDIEVALISM TODAY

AUTHORITIES at Windsor, Ont., seem to have brought to light one of the most depressing stories of the year in their investigation of alleged mistreatment of children at a juvenile aid home there.

Reading the charges is enough to make one heartsick. It is said that the children were whipped, that those who didn't feed like eating were stretched out on the floor and fed forcibly, that fists and pieces of wood were applied to tiny bodies, that children's tongues were daubed with burning astringents.

Every so often something of this kind comes to light. Whether these particular charges are substantiated is beside the point; this sort of thing has happened before, often enough to prove that homes for children not infrequently get into the hands of people who are shockingly cruel.

And the whole thing is almost enough to make you lose your faith in human nature. Of all forms of cruelty, that which vents itself on a child is by all odds the most horrible.

New York is going to try psychology in directing traffic, but that's too big a word for New York drivers to understand.

Some women treat their husbands as they do their banks. The only interest they have in them is what they can get out of them.

No peace prize was awarded this year, and as the Nobel Peace committee was about the first body expecting world war to start, it's all right.

The Unknown Blond

CHAPTER XXI

The telephone on McNeal's desk rang sharply and the captain made a grab for it.

"McNeal speaking," he barked into the instrument. "What?"

David Bannister, in a chair tipped back against the wall, gave his attention to the marine scene decorating the calendar across the room. The waves against which the gallant ship was tossing, Bannister thought, looked much too solid. Something like mattresses. Of course the calendar was all right in spite of the picture. The calendar bore large black numbers, easily read. Yes, the calenday itself was a good one.

McNeal's voice went on in monosyllables. "Yes. Yes. Well—?"

He set down the telephone a moment later, scowling. "That was Steve," he said. Bannister knew he meant Steve Fisher of the detective bureau. "Thought he had Parrott located, but he's lost him again."

"Do you think Parrott's here in Tremont?" Bannister asked.

McNeal shook his head. "If he was," he said, "we'd have had him in a cell long ago. Oh, no! He got out of here pronto. Parrott's a pretty tough customer you know. He's got a record."

"No, I didn't know." Bannister interrupted. "What sort of a record?"

"State prison. Served eight months for passing bad checks." McNeal went on, describing the offense which had taken place in another state. "That's not all He was indicted with some others on a narcotic charge in St. Louis last winter. Got out of it somehow. Parrott's a tough customer, all right, but we haven't got anything on him. Nothing but Drugan's story—"

Bannister wasn't interested in hearing about that again. He said, "Listen, Cap, what about that girl back there?"

He was leaning forward, speaking earnestly. He would have gone on but suddenly the outside door opened. There was a girl on the threshold—Denise Lang. Behind her stood Parker Coleman. She looked from the captain to Bannister, doubtfully, hesitantly. Then, with a rush, she entered the room.

"You're the one I want to see," she said, crossing to McNeal's desk and halting directly before it. She was an incongruous figure in such surroundings. Her wine red suit was lavishly fur trimmed. Bannister, who knew little of feminine fashions, recognized that fur. It was like some on a wrap Adele Allen had worn. Adele had told him what it was called and he remembered that it had sounded expensive. Sable that was it. Her hat was dark brown, too, like the fur. The hat and everything else about Denise Lang looked expensive. There was the faintest odor of elusive perfume about her.

Coleman came into the room and closed the door behind him. "Listen, Denise—" he began.

She whirled toward him. "I've got to do it!" she said. "I told you, Park, that I've got to do it."

Then she was facing McNeal again. Either she had forgotten Bannister or completely disregarded him. "You're Captain McNeal, aren't you?" she asked.

McNeal was on his feet. "Why, yes, Miss Lang. Yes. Was there something you wanted to see me about? Is there anything I can do—?"

The girl's scarlet lips twisted. Her voice was lower as she went on and again Bannister noticed that quality of vibrance in her tone. "I—I didn't tell you the truth yesterday," she said.

McNeal's face was blank. "What?" he exclaimed.

"I didn't tell you the truth," Denise Lang repeated. "I don't know exactly why except that it was all such a shock and—and it didn't seem important. But I guess that was wrong. I should have told you."

McNeal's face was grim again. "Well, let's hear it," he said. "What was it you should have told me yesterday? Here, Miss Lang, sit down."

He drew a chair forward. "Now then—"

He sank back in his own chair. For an instant Denise Lang's lashes lowered. Then she met the captain's gaze.

"It's about that girl," she said slowly. "I saw her—"

"You saw—who?"

"That girl. The one who's in jail here. I'm sure it must be the same one. I read about her in the newspapers. I—oh, I just couldn't say anything about it before but since you've found her—!" The words broke off. Denise Lang applied a wispy handkerchief to her eyes.

No one spoke and an instant later the girl went on. "It was day before yesterday," she said slowly. Everyone in the room knew what that meant—the day that had been Tracy King's last. "We were going to play golf that morning, Tracy and I—" She stopped again, fumbling with her handkerchief. Her voice, that had been tremulous, was firm again as she continued. "We called it off because I remembered I'd promised to go shopping with Louise Holman. Louise was late—as she always is—and I went into the Tremont to order some flowers. As I came out of the flower shop I saw Tracy. He was standing at the foot of the stairs leading to the mezzanine, talking to a girl."

"What time was this?" McNeal broke in.

"About 11:30 I think. Louise and I were going to look at hats and then have lunch later. Louise was to meet me at 11:15 but I know I'd waited at least ten minutes before I went into the hotel."

She hesitated again. "I saw the girl's face plainly," she went on. "You see I was rather surprised. I just stood for a moment and watched them. Tracy was talking and the girl wasn't anyone I'd ever seen before. She had on a green suit with some black fur on it and a green hat. I noticed that her hair was light and that she was pretty. For a minute I thought Tracy would be sure to turn around and then he'd introduce me. But he didn't turn. He went right on talking and then the girl said something and—well, I was rather embarrassed and left. I thought maybe the girl was some theatrical friend or someone—"

"But you did get a good look at her?" McNeal questioned.

The girl nodded.

"Good enough so you could identify her?"

"I—I think so."

McNeal pressed a button on his desk. "I'm sorry you didn't tell us all this yesterday but it's still not too late," he said. "No, it's not too late."

The door opened then, and a man appeared. "Nelson," said McNeal, "have that girl brought in here, will you? The one we're holding for the King murder."

The man in the doorway nodded, disappeared. Bannister got to his feet then. "Guess I'll drift on," he said.

McNeal nodded. As Bannister closed the door he heard the captain asking Denise Lang a question. There was unnecessary violence in the way Bannister closed that door.

He had something to do and knew that he must do it without delay. He went into the press-room and called the Evening Post.

LYRICS OF LIFE

THE FIRST SNOW

The first snow came one afternoon,
The snow that always comes too soon
While still it had a little green.
The world became a wintry scene
And you who find your pathway strewn
With sudden grief, know what I mean

For so someday the snow will fall
Within the fairest garden's wall
However lovely was the past,
What Summer will forever last
The time will come will come to all
The Summer sky is overcast.

Well, give us courage, God, to go,
If not through grass, at least through snow
And help us, somehow, even thou
To hope for summertime again,
The months however long and slow,
However great the griefs of men

The first snow comes, yet we shall see
Another Summer presently,
The first snow comes, yet we await
The opening of a garden gate,
The garden of eternity

TO TRY COME-BACK?

THERE is a growing national belief that the open break revealed a week ago between President Roosevelt and former Governor Alfred E. It is said that the children were whipped, that those who didn't feel like eating were stretched out on the floor and fed forcibly, that fists and pieces of wood were applied to tiny bodies, that children's tongues were daubed with burning astringents.

Every so often something of this kind comes to light. Whether these particular charges are substantiated is beside the point. this sort of thing has happened before, often enough to prove that homes for children not infrequently get into the hands of people who are shockingly cruel.

And the whole thing is almost enough to make you lose your faith in human nature. Of all forms of cruelty, that which vents itself on a child is by all odds the most horrible.

The Unknown Blond

CHAPTER XXI

The telephone on McNeal's desk rang sharply and the captain made a grab for it.

"McNeal speaking," he barked into the instrument. "What?"

David Bannister, in a chair tipped back against the wall, gave his attention to the marine scene decorating the calendar across the room. The waves against which the gallant ship was tossing, Banister thought, looked much too solid. Something like mattresses. Of course the calendar was all right in spite of the picture. The calendar bore large black numbers, easily read. Yes, the calenday itself was a good one.

McNeal's voice went on in monosyllables. "Yes. Yes. Well—?"

He set down the telephone a moment later, scowling. "That was Steve," he said. Bannister knew he meant Steve Fisher of the detective bureau. "Thought he had Parrott located, but he's lost him again."

"Do you think Parrott's here in Tremont?" Bannister asked.

McNeal shook his head. "If he was," he said, "we'd have had him in a cell long ago. Oh, no! He got out of here pronto. Parrott's a pretty tough customer you know. He's got a record—"

"No, I didn't know," Bannister interrupted. "What sort of a record?"

"State prison. Served eight months for passing bad checks," McNeal went on, describing the offense which had taken place in another state. "That's not all He was indicted with some others on a narcotic charge in St. Louis last winter. Got out of it somehow. Parrott's a tough customer, all right, but we haven't got anything on him. Nothing but Drugan's story—"

Bannister wasn't interested in hearing about that again. He said, "Listen, Cap, what about that girl back there?"

He was leaning forward, speaking earnestly. He would have gone on but suddenly the outside door opened. There was a girl on the threshold—Denise Lang. Behind her stood Parker Coleman. She looked from the captain to Bannister, doubtfully, hesitantly. Then, with a rush, she entered the room.

"You're the one I want to see," she said, crossing to McNeal's desk and halting directly before it. She was an incongruous figure in such surroundings. Her wine red suit was lavishly fur trimmed. Bannister, who knew little of feminine fashions, recognized that fur. It was like some on a wrap Adele Allen had worn. Adele had told him what it was called and he remembered that it had sounded expensive. Sable—that was it. Her hat was dark brown, too, like the fur. The hat and everything else about Denise Lang looked expensive. There was the faintest odor of elusive perfume about her.

Coleman came into the room and closed the door behind him. "Listen, Denise—" he began.

She whirled toward him. "I've got to do it!" she said. "I told you, Park, that I've got to do it."

Then she was facing McNeal again. Either she had forgotten Bannister or completely disregarded him. "You're Captain McNeal, aren't you?" she asked.

McNeal was on his feet. "Why, yes, Miss Lang. Yes. Was there something you wanted to see me about? Is there anything I can do—?"

The girl's scarlet lips twisted. Her voice was lower as she went on and again Bannister noticed that quality of vibrance in her tone. "I—I didn't tell you the truth yesterday," she said.

McNeal's face was blank. "What?" he exclaimed.

"I didn't tell you the truth," Denise Lang repeated. "I don't know exactly why except that it was all such a shock and—and it didn't seem important. But I guess that was wrong. I should have told you."

McNeal's face was grim again. "Well, let's hear it," he said. "What was it you should have told me yesterday? Here, Miss Lang, sit down."

He drew a chair forward. "Now then—"

He sank back in his own chair. For an instant Denise Lang's lashes lowered. Then she met the captain's gaze.

"It's about that girl," she said slowly. "I saw her."

"You saw—who?"

"That girl. The one who's in jail here. I'm sure it must be the same one. I read about her in the newspapers. I—oh, I just couldn't say anything about it before but since you've found her—!" The words broke off. Denise Lang applied a wispy handkerchief to her eyes.

No one spoke and an instant later the girl went on. "It was day before yesterday," she said slowly. Everyone in the room knew what that meant—the day that had been Tracy King's last. "We were going to play golf that morning, Tracy and I—" She stopped again, fumbling with her handkerchief. Her voice, that had been tremulous, was firm again as she continued. "We called it off because I remembered I'd promised to go shopping with Louise Holman. Louise was late—as she always is—and I went into the Tremont to order some flowers. As I came out of the flower shop I saw Tracy. He was standing at the foot of the stairs leading to the mezzanine, talking to a girl."

"What time was this?" McNeal broke in.

"About 11:30 I think. Louise and I were going to look at hats and then have lunch later. Louise was to meet me at 11:15 but I know I'd waited at least ten minutes before I went into the hotel."

She hesitated again. "I saw the girl's face plainly," she went on. "You see I was rather surprised. I just stood for a moment and watched them. Tracy was talking and the girl wasn't anyone I'd ever seen before. She had on a green suit with some black fur on it and a green hat. I noticed that her hair was light and that she was pretty. For a minute I thought Tracy would be sure to turn around and then he'd introduce me. But he didn't turn. He went right on talking and then the girl said something and—well, I was rather embarrassed and left. I thought maybe the girl was some theatrical friend or someone—"

"But you did get a good look at her?" McNeal questioned.

The girl nodded.

"Good enough so you could identify her?"

"I—I think so."

McNeal pressed a button on his desk. "I'm sorry you didn't tell us all this yesterday but it's still not too late," he said. "No, it's not too late."

The door opened then, and a man appeared. "Nelson," said McNeal, "have that girl brought in here, will you? The one we're holding for the King murder."

The man in the doorway nodded, disappeared. Bannister got to his feet then. "Guess I'll drift on," he said.

McNeal nodded. As Bannister closed the door he heard the captain asking Denise Lang a question. There was unnecessary violence in the way Bannister closed that door.

He had something to do and knew that he must do it without delay. He went into the pressroom and called the Evening Post.

THE FIRST SNOW

The first snow came one afternoon,
The snow that always comes too soon
While still it had a little green,
The world became a wintry scene.
And you who find your pathway strewn
With sudden grief, know what I mean.

For so someday the snow will fall
Within the fairest garden's wall.
However lovely was the past,
What Summer will forever last?
The time will come, will come to all.
The Summer sky is overcast.

Well, give us courage, God, to go,
If not through grass, at least through snow.
And help us, somehow, even then
To hope for summertime again,
The months however long and slow,
However great the griefs of men.

The first snow comes, yet we shall see
Another Summer presently,
The first snow comes, yet we await
The opening of a garden gate,
The garden of eternity
No wintry wind shall desolate.

FRED W. GREEN TO RALLY GOP

Former Governor Claims Party Must Formulate Program

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 4.—Formulation of a set of definite policies for the Republican organization in Michigan is the object of a series of conferences which are being arranged by former Gov. Fred W. Green and other party leaders.

Fred W. Green

The first of the meetings, according to Green, will be held in Lansing "right after the holidays." County and local Republican leaders, in addition to members of the Republican State Central Committee and Republicans in high office, will be invited. Another and larger meeting is to be held at a time and place selected by the first group. Others may follow.

"Michigan is tiring of Democratic rule," the former Governor said. "A constantly growing portion of the public is looking forward eagerly to the day when the Republicans will resume control. But the Republicans have a duty beyond pointing out the mistakes of their opponents, which, after all, require little emphasis. The people expect the Republicans to come before them not merely with a bill of particulars as to the shortcomings of the Democrats, but with definite specification as to what may be expected when the Republicans resume control.

Must Have Program

"If we criticize the sales tax, for instance, the people will want to know how we propose to change it, or what we mean to use in its stead. The same thing is true of the old age pension statute, the liquor control system, the highway laws and so on.

"The primary system, which involves a lot of candidates running for nomination on platforms of their own, has tended to weaken party responsibility, which is a very serious matter when considered in the light of the American constitutional system and its dependence on the two-party system. It has been announced that an effort to restore party responsibility through the pre-primary convention will be made at a special session of the Legislature early in the year. But we do not know what will be offered us along this line nor what the results may be.

"The Republican party itself must put its house in order, decide what it stands for, then wage its 1934 campaign as a determined, united organization with an affirmative, rather than a negative attitude."

The selection of candidates, Green said, is secondary to the adoption of party principles.

"But if any candidate is unwilling to stand for the things that the party stands for," he added, "that candidate should receive little consideration from Republicans in the primary election. The purpose of our conferences will be to ascertain, through as complete a sounding of sentiment as possible, what the Republicans of Michigan want their party to stand for."

Won't Name Associates

While Green was not willing to announce his associates in the enterprise, it is assumed here that he has the co-operation of such men as Howard C. Lawrence, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee and former State treasurer; Herbert J. Rushton, of Escanaba, former State senator, and Albert J. Engel, of Lake City, also a former State senator.

Green is regarded as a potential candidate against Senator Vandenberg, who will seek re-nomination next year. Engel is being proposed for the Republican nomination for Governor, although his friends think he is disposed toward running for Congress in the Ninth District. The only candidate in the field for the Republican nomination for the governorship is Frank D. Fitzgerald, secretary of state. His announcement was made several weeks ago. While he has accumulated much support from minor leaders, he still lacks the public indorsement of either Green or former Gov. Alex J. Groesbeck. Speculation continues as to whether Groesbeck himself may be a candidate. His friends expect no final announcement in the next few months.

Trembath Retires As U. P. Manager, Inspection Bureau

Negaunee Announcement was made Saturday of the retirement of Harry W. Trembath on a pension from the upper peninsula office of the Michigan inspection bureau, of which he has been manager for the last 28 years.

The Michigan Inspection bureau offices, which have been located in Negaunee for the last 10 years, will be moved Tuesday to Marquette, where George J. Smedman, assistant manager of the bureau since 1925, will be in charge.

With Bureau 35 Years

Mr. Trembath is retiring after 35 years of service with the state inspection bureau. He was appointed manager of the upper peninsula offices in October, 1905, after Theodore D. Hall left here to become assistant to the general manager in Detroit. Mr. Smedman was appointed to assist Mr. Trembath in his managerial duties in 1925 after the scope of work being done by the U. P. inspection bureau was enlarged.

Besides his work with the inspection bureau, Mr. Trembath has taken an active part in community affairs, serving two terms as mayor and several terms as alderman.

Gladstone Auto Damaged On US-2

The right front wheel, fenders and running board were torn off the automobile, driven by Frank Louis of Gladstone, when he drove into a towing chain, between two other cars on US-2, near the Larch viaduct, Saturday night.

The trouble all started when Attorney Thomas Rushton of Escanaba skidded off the icy pavement and into a ditch. Another motorist hooked on a chain to his car and proceeded to pull him back on the pavement. The chain was stretched over the traffic lane, in which Louis was traveling, and was not noticed by the Gladstone motorist.

No one was injured. John Brassick of Gladstone is the owner of the car, which Louis was driving.

MANY ATTEND ELKS PROGRAM

Impressive Memorial Services Are Held at Auditorium

A reverent audience, silent and deeply-stirred, which filled William W. Oliver Memorial auditorium to its capacity, Sunday afternoon joined in an organization's tribute to its departed members the annual Elks Memorial service.

The service, held the first Sunday in December wherever the Elks lodge exists, was conducted by Escanaba Lodge, Number 354, B. P. E. O., under the direction of M. J. Lang, chairman, whose ability and careful attention to every detail of arrangement are credited with the impressive beauty of the services of the past three years.

The ceremonies of the memorial service were conducted by members of the degree team, who occupied the officers' chairs during the program.

Earle Delivers Address

Fred J. Earle, former president of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, and an officer and member of the local Elks lodge for a number of years, delivered a highly appropriate memorial address in which he emphasized the fundamental principles of the order of Elks.

He stressed particularly the unheralded and largely unknown charitable work that is carried out by the Elks lodges in this city and throughout the United States, not only during years of economic depression but through every year. He recalled the patriotic principles inculcated in membership of the order by the ritual and running as an underlying note through all of the lodge's ceremonies. Concluding he spoke of the characteristics of fidelity and true friendship to which every Elk is pledged and asserted that Escanaba and every other city in which an Elks lodge is established is a better city for the existence of this organization.

Beautiful Music

The music of the memorial was particularly beautiful. The Junior Philharmonic orchestra, newly organized, under the direction of Frank Karas, opened the memorial with Friml's "Adieu," and just preceding the closing ceremonies, played "Berceuse," Hijinsky.

Another organization, newly formed, which deeply impressed those assembled for the memorial was the Meistersingers, the male chorus which is under the direction Ross Stoakes, jr. The Meistersingers, which Mr. Lang playing the accompaniments, sang "Interger Vitae," by Flemming.

Soloists who took part in the service were Mrs. John A. Semer, the clear, rich beauty of whose voice was heard in "There Is No Death," by O'Hara, and Reichardt's "In the Time of Roses"; Miss Genevieve Sedlock, violinist, whose interpretation of Handel's "Largo" displayed genuine talent; and Britton W. Hall, who sang the well-loved "Goin' Home," by Dvorak.

Miss Rose Bink, whose singing of Pasternack's "Taps" has come to be a part of the service, closed the Memorial. The number was beautifully staged with the shading of soft lights and the accompaniments, first that of a string quartet, then, that of a brass quartet, and finally the bugle, off-stage, adding to its impressive climax.

Mrs. F. M. Fernstrom was accompanist for all numbers of the service with the exception of the Meistersingers.

Ushers, who presented those attending with the memorial booklet programs of purple and white, were H. H. Shepeck, A. J. Perrin, Emerson Harvey and Oscar Kraus.

Whitedale & Gulliver

Whitedale—Bill Johnson's car was destroyed by fire one night last week. Returning to his farm home in the evening he ran the car into the barn as usual. When he went out in the morning to begin his work he found the car burned. The five tires and the body were burned with only some charred spots on the barn floor.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Caffey and children of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., were visitors for Thanksgiving at the Alex Walker home.

Harvey Lindquist and daughter Louise were visitors last Sunday at the T. S. Caffey and William Shampine homes in Manistique.

The Whitedale teachers, Misses Orr and Gayar, are spending the holiday and week-end at their homes in Manistique.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Lindberg and daughters, Phyllis and Francis of Manistique were dinner guests at the Brearley home last Sunday in honor of Mrs. Brearley's birthday anniversary. They were also visitors at the same home Thanksgiving Day.

Work has started on the new road east and south of Gulliver Lake, giving much needed work to a few of the local men.

The men here who had not received all their wages for work with the Mead and Anderson Construction company last summer, were paid in full Thanksgiving Day so that the day had a real joy for several of the townfolks and with the new road work at hand conditions look brighter for this neighborhood at the beginning of the winter.

The neighbors and friends of Whitedale extend their sympathy to the William Shampine family in Manistique, especially to Mrs. Shampine and daughter Ivas who were so severely burned in the gasoline explosion in their home and are pleased to note the favorable reports from the hospital. The Shampines are former residents of Whitedale.

ROTARY CLUB HEARS MAYOR

Sawyer Explains Budget; Also Discusses Relief Program

Mayor Carl W. Sawyer told members of the Escanaba Rotary club yesterday that in spite of continually increasing welfare demands made upon the city government, unless unforseen conditions develop the city of Escanaba will close its fiscal year in a favorable financial condition.

Mayor Sawyer yesterday carefully analyzed the budgeted figures with actual expenditures for the various departments and showed that in most departments the budget is being carefully followed. The mayor explained that the introduction of a multiplicity of public works and CWA programs had necessitated increased expenditures for superintendence, foremanship and transportation for workers, but classed those expenditures as unavoidable and clearly showed his audience that in spite of unfavorable conditions, steady progress is being made in the improvement of the city's financial position.

In addition Mayor Sawyer commented at considerable length up on the problems that have been heaped upon city officials by the various work relief programs, not only in the selection of workers under rules laid down by the federal and state governments, but in following conflicting orders that are constantly being issued governing the various activities.

The mayor admitted that the very press of these matters, developing almost at the same time, have made possible many criticisms of the actions of the city's officials but he strongly insisted that those in authority were honestly endeavoring to render just service.

The mayor deplored the fact that up to this time, unemployed citizens of the city who have private resources and every manner ingenuity to make their own livings, without recourse to the welfare lists, have not up to this time received just recognition. He expressed the hope, however, that orders will shortly be received permitting the employment of more workers of this class on CWA projects.

Michigan Woman Tells of Husband's Fight With Stomach Trouble

"Wonderful Results," according to Mrs. D. Szekuy of 1365 E. 9-Mile Road, Ferndale, Michigan, were brought to her husband, a sufferer from acute stomach disorder, through a simple home treatment. Mr. Szekuy was confined to his bed for weeks at a time. He had an operation and consulted many doctors during the seventeen years of his affliction but without much help until friends told him of The Udga Treatment. Improvement was marked after the use of the first bottle and he cannot speak too highly of the excellent results achieved.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO BE THE CHAMPION TRAP SHOOTER

SHOOTING FROM SCRATCH, 25 yards behind the traps, Walter Beaver pulled out of an exciting tie to win the 34th Grand American—the first time it has been won by a limit contestant! He has been a steady smoker of Camels for years, and says: "I like their taste and mildness...they never jangle my nerves."

HOW ARE YOUR NERVES? If you smoke a lot...inside...outdoors...wherever you are...join the swing to Camels. You'll like those costlier tobaccos in Camels. You'll find them milder, better tasting, and they never get on your nerves.

A MATCHLESS BLEND

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

WALTER BEAVER, holder of the coveted Grand American Handicap, says:

"Winning a trap-shooting championship is partly a matter of luck, partly the result of practice and partly healthy nerves. I'm a steady smoker. People kid me about it at the tournaments. They say I never have a cigarette out of my mouth. During all these years I've been smoking Camels, not only because I like their taste and their mildness, but also because they never jangle my nerves."

It's no fun to feel that your nerves are ragged—and to wonder why. Check up on your eating...your sleep ...your cigarettes. Get a fresh slant on your smoking. Switch to Camels. Your nerves and your taste will tell you that Camels are a more likable cigarette—and that they don't upset your nerves.

FRED W. GREEN TO RALLY GOP

Former Governor Claims Party Must Formulate Program

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 4.—Formulation of a set of definite policies for the Republican organization in Michigan is the object of a series of conferences which are being arranged by former Gov. Fred W. Green and other party leaders.

Fred W. Green

The first of the meetings, according to Green, will be held in Lansing "right after the holidays." County and local Republican leaders, in addition to members of the Republican State Central Committee and Republicans in high office, will be invited. Another and larger meeting is to be held at a time and place selected by the first group. Others may follow.

"Michigan is tiring of Democratic rule," the former Governor said. "A constantly growing portion of the public is looking forward eagerly to the day when the Republicans will resume control. But the Republicans have a duty beyond pointing out the mistakes of their opponents, which, after all, require little emphasis. The people expect the Republicans to come before them not merely with a bill of particulars as to the shortcomings of the Democrats, but with definite specification as to what may be expected when the Republicans resume control.

Must Have Program

"If we criticize the sales tax, for instance, the people will want to know how we propose to change it, or what we mean to use in its stead. The same thing is true of the old age pension statute, the liquor control system, the highway laws and so on.

"The primary system, which involves a lot of candidates running for nomination on platforms of their own, has tended to weaken party responsibility, which is a very serious matter when considered in the light of the American constitutional system and its dependence on the two-party system. It has been announced that an effort to restore party responsibility through the pre-primary convention will be made at a special session of the Legislature early in the year. But we do not know what will be offered us along this line nor what the results may be.

"The Republican party itself must put its house in order, decide what it stands for, then wage its 1934 campaign as a determined, united organization with an affirmative, rather than a negative attitude."

The selection of candidates, Green said, is secondary to the adoption of party principles.

"But if any candidate is unwilling to stand for the things that the party stands for," he added, "that candidate should receive little consideration from Republicans in the primary election. The purpose of our conferences will be to ascertain, through as complete a sounding of sentiment as possible, what the Republicans of Michigan want their party to stand for."

Won't Name Associates

While Green was not willing to announce his associates in the enterprise, it is assumed here that he has the co-operation of such men as Howard C. Lawrence, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee and former State treasurer; Herbert J. Rushton, of Escanaba, former State senator, and Albert J. Engel, of Lake City, also a former State senator.

Green is regarded as a potential candidate against Senator Vandenberg, who will seek re-nomination next year. Engel is being proposed for the Republican nomination for Governor, although his friends think he is disposed toward running for Congress in the Ninth District. The only candidate in the field for the Republican nomination for the governorship is Frank D. Fitzgerald, secretary of state. His announcement was made several weeks ago. While he has accumulated much support from minor leaders, he still lacks the public indorsement of either Green or former Gov. Alex J. Groesbeck. Speculation continues as to whether Groesbeck himself may be a candidate. His friends expect no final announcement in the next few months.

Trembath Retires As U. P. Manager, Inspection Bureau

Negaunee—Announcement was made Saturday of the retirement of Harry W. Trembath on a pension from the upper peninsula office of the Michigan inspection bureau, of which he has been manager for the last 28 years.

The Michigan Inspection bureau offices, which have been located in Negaunee for the last 10 years, will be moved Tuesday to Marquette, where George J. Smedman, assistant manager of the bureau since 1925, will be in charge.

With Bureau 35 Years

Mr. Trembath is retiring after 35 years of service with the state inspection bureau. He was appointed manager of the upper peninsula offices in October, 1905, after Theodore D. Hall left here to become assistant to the general manager in Detroit. Mr. Smedman was appointed to assist Mr. Trembath in his managerial duties in 1925 after the scope of work being done by the U. P. inspection bureau was enlarged.

Besides his work with the inspection bureau, Mr. Trembath has taken an active part in community affairs, serving two terms as mayor and several terms as alderman.

Gladstone Auto Damaged On US-2

The right front wheel, fenders and running board were torn off the automobile, driven by Frank Louis of Gladstone, when he drove into a towing chain, between two other cars on US-2, near the Larch viaduct, Saturday night.

The trouble all started when Attorney Thomas Rushton of Escanaba skidded off the icy pavement and into a ditch. Another motorist hooked on a chain to his car and proceeded to pull him back on the pavement. The chain was stretched over the traffic lane, in which Louis was traveling, and was not noticed by the Gladstone motorist.

No one was injured. John Brassick of Gladstone is the owner of the car, which Louis was driving.

MANY ATTEND ELKS PROGRAM

Impressive Memorial Services Are Held at Auditorium

A reverent audience, silent and deeply-stirred, which filled William W. Oliver Memorial auditorium to its capacity, Sunday afternoon joined in an organization's tribute to its departed members—the annual Elks Memorial service.

The service, held the first Sunday in December wherever the Elks lodge exists, was conducted by Escanaba Lodge, Number 354, B. P. E. O., under the direction of M. J. Lang, chairman, whose ability and careful attention to every detail of arrangement are credited with the impressive beauty of the services of the past three years.

The ceremonies of the memorial service were conducted by members of the degree team, who occupied the officers' chairs during the program.

Earle Delivers Address

Fred J. Earle, former president of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, and an officer and member of the local Elks lodge for a number of years, delivered a highly appropriate memorial address in which he emphasized the fundamental principles of the order of Elks.

He stressed particularly the unheralded and largely unknown charitable work that is carried out by the Elks lodges in this city and throughout the United States, not only during years of economic depression but through every year. He recalled the patriotic principles inculcated in membership of the order by the ritual and running as an underlying note through all of the lodge's ceremonies. Concluding he spoke of the characteristics of fidelity and true friendship to which every Elk is pledged and asserted that Escanaba and every other city in which an Elks lodge is established is a better city for the existence of this organization.

Beautiful Music

The music of the memorial was particularly beautiful. The Junior Philharmonic orchestra, newly organized, under the direction of Frank Karas, opened the memorial with Friml's "Adieu," and just preceding the closing ceremonies, played "Berceuse," Iljinsky.

Another organization, newly formed, which deeply impressed those assembled for the memorial was the Meistersingers, the male chorus which is under the direction Ross Stoakes, jr. The Meistersingers, which Mr. Lang playing the accompaniments, sang "Interger Vitae," by Flemming.

Soloists who took part in the service were Mrs. John A. Semer, the clear, rich beauty of whose voice was heard in "There Is No Death," by O'Hara, and Reichardt's "In the Time of Roses"; Miss Genevieve Sedlock, violinist, whose interpretation of Handel's "Largo" displayed genuine talent; and Britton W. Hall, who sang the well-loved "Goin' Home," by Dvorak.

Miss Rose Bink, whose singing of Pasternack's "Taps" has come to be a part of the service, closed the Memorial. The number was beautifully staged with the shading of soft lights and the accompaniments, first that of a string quartet, then, that of a brass quartet, and finally the bugle, off-stage, adding to its impressive climax.

Mrs. F. M. Fernstrom was accompanist for all numbers of the service with the exception of the Meistersingers.

Ushers, who presented those attending with the memorial booklet programs of purple and white, were H. H. Shepeck, A. J. Perrin, Emerson Harvey and Oscar Kraus.

Whitedale & Gulliver

Whitedale — Bill Johnson's car was destroyed by fire one night last week. Returning to his farm home in the evening he ran the car into the barn as usual. When he went out in the morning to begin his work he found the car burned. The five tires and the body were burned with only some charred spots on the barn floor.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Caffey and children of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., were visitors for Thanksgiving at the Alex Walker home.

Harvey Lindquist and daughter Louise were visitors last Sunday at the T. S. Caffey and William Shampine homes in Manistique.

Work has started on the new road east and south of Gulliver Lake, giving much needed work to a few of the local men.

The men here who had not received all their wages for work with the Mead and Anderson Construction company last summer, were paid in full Thanksgiving Day so that the day had a real joy for several of the townfolks and with the new road work at hand conditions look brighter for this neighborhood at the beginning of the winter.

The neighbors and friends of Whitedale extend their sympathy to the William Shampine family in Manistique, especially to Mrs. Shampine and daughter Ivas who were so severely burned in the gasoline explosion in their home and are pleased to note the favorable reports from the hospital. The Shampines are former residents of Whitedale.

ROTARY CLUB HEARS MAYOR

Sawyer Explains Budget; Also Discusses Relief Program

Mayor Carl W. Sawyer told members of the Escanaba Rotary club yesterday that in spite of continually increasing welfare demands made upon the city government, unless unforseen conditions develop the city of Escanaba will close its fiscal year in a favorable financial condition.

Mayor Sawyer yesterday carefully analyzed the budgeted figures with actual expenditures for the various departments and showed that in most departments the budget is being carefully followed. The mayor explained that the introduction of a multiplicity of public works and CWA programs had necessitated increased expenditures for superintendence, foremanship and transportation for workers, but classed those expenditures as unavoidable and clearly showed his audience that in spite of unfavorable conditions, steady progress is being made in the improvement of the city's financial position.

In addition Mayor Sawyer commented at considerable length upon the problems that have been heaped upon city officials by the various work relief programs, not only in the selection of workers under rules laid down by the federal and state governments, but in following conflicting orders that are constantly being issued governing the various activities.

The mayor admitted that the very press of these matters, developing almost at the same time, have made possible many criticisms of the actions of the city's officials but he strongly insisted that those in authority were honestly endeavoring to render just service.

The mayor deplored the fact that up to this time, unemployed citizens of the city who have private resources and every manner ingenuity to make their own livings, without recourse to the welfare lists, have not up to this time received just recognition. He expressed the hope, however, that orders will shortly be received permitting the employment of more workers of this class on CWA projects.

GARDEN NEWS

Garden—The Fayette Congregational church was filled with worshippers Wednesday evening on the occasion of the annual Thanksgiving services. An appropriate program of music which was greatly appreciated by the congregation was rendered by members of the J. F. F. club. Gifts of farm produce were donated to the pastor by members of the congregation and a gift of money was presented by the club.

Out of the forty-seven head of cattle advertised to be sold at the Rena auction sale last Tuesday, only three animals were sold. Peach Pudding Easily Prepared

Peach-and-tapioca pudding arranged like this should tempt any appetite

Trying to serve the same old dishes in a new way is a weighty problem which often confronts the average home-maker.

Sticking to the good old simple recipes is all well enough. But unless you vary them sometimes, making them look as well as taste a little different, you'll find your family passing up the dessert course occasionally. And, after all, this last course is by no means an unimportant one.

Dessert May Be Substantial

Nearly everyone needs a bit of sweet. Desserts provide just that. Luncheons are not the hearty meals they used to be. Most of us are content with a bowl of soup, a salad and perhaps a roll. But you say that is not enough to keep a person, particularly a school child, satisfied until the dinner hour. Very well then, let the dessert be wholesome and filling.

For the mother who has to serve a daily luncheon to school children as well as older members of her family, there just isn't anything nicer for dessert than a pudding. Easy to digest, palatable and certainly simple to prepare, pudding recipes are not to be overlooked.

Tapioca pudding makes an ideal luncheon dessert. By changing and dressing it up a little, you can induce your family to eat all you've made and beg for more.

Peaches are in season just now. Why not make the most of them while they last? Here's the way to make a grand peach tapioca pudding:

One third cup of tapioca, 1-2 cup of sugar 1-4 teaspoon of salt, 1 quart of milk, scalded, 1 egg yolk, slightly beaten, 1 teaspoonful of flavoring and 1 egg white, stiffly beaten.

Add tapioca, sugar and salt to milk and cook in a double boiler for 15 minutes, or until tapioca is clear. Stir it often.

Stir in Peaches.

Pour a little of the mixture over the egg yolk, stirring constantly. Put it all back into the double boiler and cook until thickened. Remove from the fire and add the flavoring. Fold in the beaten egg white and place in the ice box to chill.

When you are ready to serve the pudding, place it all in one of your prettiest bowls, garnish with slices of fresh peaches and set the bowl right on the table to be served there.

To give a more decided peach flavor to the dessert, stir a cup of finely diced peaches into the pudding after it starts to chill. This recipe serves six.

GETS 30 DAYS FOR ASSAULT

Stonington Man Given Jail Term for Part in Drunken Brawl

A sentence of 30 days in the county jail was meted out to Carl Nyberg of Stonington yesterday when he was found guilty by Justice A. D. Alguire of an assault on the person of his wife, May. Nyberg had pleaded not guilty upon arraignment. An alternate sentence of fine and costs totaling $48.85 was given, but Nyberg was unable to produce the money.

Nyberg was arrested about a week ago after a drunken brawl at the home on the Stonington peninsula which ended in a free-for-all battle and a little gun play, in which it was alleged that the former took several shots with a rifle at his son, Rudolph, as the latter ran from the home.

Sheriff's department officers were called and found Mrs. Nyberg in bed with a deep cut across her nose and black and blue marks on her neck. Officers stated that the woman said Carl (her husband) had caused them.

As the result two warrants, one charging felonious assault on the son, and the other a simple assault and battery on the wife, were issued. Nyberg denied both charges.

In court yesterday, Mrs. Nyberg made a blanket denial of every statement she had made to sheriff's officers about how she received the injuries and claimed that her husband had not touched her at anytime during the evening. The son also disclaimed any attack by the father, saying that he was injured when he fell into some barbed wire outside the house when the father attempted to separate him (Rudolph) and a Mrs. Stone who were scrapping over a bottle of liquor. Officers stated that Mrs. Nyberg previously told them that Carl had choked her and pushed her through a glass in a cupboard. The son it is said also told officers that the father had hit him over the head with a flashlight and then had taken shots at him as he ran away.

Before finding Nyberg guilty the witnesses were scored by both the Justice and Prosecutor Miller for failing to assist the prosecution by sticking to the stories originally told.

It is probable that the felonious assault charges against Nyberg will be dismissed.

THEATRES

A powerfully effective and colorful story and a notable cast mark the opening today at the Rialto Theatre of the picture, "The Narrow Corner," by Somerset Maugham.

The author of "Rain" has again written of the little known by-places—the "narrow corners" of the earth, where men spin out their lives pretty much as they please. The present story is laid in the Malay Archipelago, on one of the islands of the Dutch East Indies, after opening in Sidney, Australia.

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Patricia Ellis, Ralph Bellamy and Dudley Digges have the leading roles in this all-star production.

"South Sea Adventures," with Zane Grey, the noted author, as its star—a film said to surpass in thrills and beauty any picture of its kind ever made—is being shown as an added attraction.

Of the many thrilling and dramatic highlights in the film, the catch of the giant marlin (swordfish) weighing 1,300 pounds off the coast of New Zealand is a dramatic record.

Nyberg had pleaded not guilty upon arraignment. An alternate sentence of fine and costs totaling $48.85 was given, but Nyberg was unable to produce the money.

Nyberg was arrested about a week ago after a drunken brawl at the home on the Stonington peninsula which ended in a free-for-all battle and a little gun play, in which it was alleged that the former took several shots with a rifle at his son, Rudolph, as the latter ran from the home.

Sheriff's department officers were called and found Mrs. Nyberg in bed with a deep cut across her nose and black and blue marks on her neck. Officers stated that the woman said Carl (her husband) had caused them.

As the result two warrants, one charging felonious assault on the son, and the other a simple assault and battery on the wife, were issued. Nyberg denied both charges.

In court yesterday, Mrs. Nyberg made a blanket denial of every statement she had made to sheriff's officers about how she received the injuries and claimed that her husband had not touched her at anytime during the evening. The son also disclaimed any attack by the father, saying that he was injured when he fell into some barbed wire outside the house when the father attempted to separate him (Rudolph) and a Mrs. Stone who were scrapping over a bottle of liquor. Officers stated that Mrs. Nyberg previously told them that Carl had choked her and pushed her through a glass in a cupboard. The son it is said also told officers that the father had hit him over the head with a flashlight and then had taken shots at him as he ran away.

Before finding Nyberg guilty the witnesses were scored by both the Justice and Prosecutor Miller for failing to assist the prosecution by sticking to the stories originally told.

It is probable that the felonious assault charges against Nyberg will be dismissed.

THEATRES

A powerfully effective and colorful story and a notable cast mark the opening today at the Rialto Theatre of the picture, "The Narrow Corner," by Somerset Maugham.

The author of "Rain" has again written of the little known byplaces—the "narrow corners"—of the earth, where men spin out their lives pretty much as they please. The present story is laid in the Malay Archipelago, on one of the islands of the Dutch East Indies, after opening in Sidney, Australia.

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Patricia Ellis, Ralph Bellamy and Dudley Digges have the leading roles in this all-star production.

"South Sea Adventures," with Zane Grey, the noted author, as its star—a film said to surpass in thrills and beauty any picture of its kind ever made — is being shown as an added attraction.

Of the many thrilling and dramatic highlights in the film, the catch of the giant marlin (swordfish) weighing 1,300 pounds off the coast of New Zealand is a dramatic record.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—Speculative markets watched dollar appreciation with indifference today, making scanty changes in listless dealings. Bonds, on the other hand, improved sufficiently to lift the averages a trifle, though U. S. governments turned slightly easy toward the close.

With the treasury's gold price holding at $34.01 for the third successive day, foreign exchanges declined sharply; later their losses were substantially reduced, but the dollar's strength was an interesting feature of the financial day. Wheat and corn finished virtually even with Saturday's final quotations. The average net change for stocks was a minor fractional decline in a turnover of 670,584 shares.

Few stocks varied more than a point all day and net changes were largely in small fractions. U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Can, General Motors, Harvester, Santa Fe, National Distillers and Pennsylvania were up moderately, while Westinghouse, General Electric, Kennecott, Standard Oil of New Jersey, American Telephone, Sears Roebuck and National Biscuit averaged half a point off. Canada Dry fizzed up more than 2 points.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, Dec. 4—Reluctance to enter into new commitments characterized grain trading today, and wheat at one time sagged to fresh bottom price levels unequalled since October 26.

Hesitance was ascribed largely to uncertainties of financial prospects. The fact that unofficial December crop reports indicated no curtailment of United States winter wheat acreage, despite the Washington administration's control programs, was construed as somewhat bearish.

Wheat closed unsettled, at the same as Saturday's finish to ¼ cent lower, corn also unchanged to ¼ off, oats ¼ down to ⅝ up, and provisions varying from 27 cents decline to a rise of 2 cents.

Corn and oats paralleled the action of wheat. Disappearance of corn on farms to December 1 was unofficially estimated at 446,000,000 bushels, compared with 467,000,000 the corresponding period last year.

Provisions averaged lower with grains.

(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—Speculative markets watched dollar appreciation with indifference today, making scanty changes in listless dealings. Bonds, on the other hand, improved sufficiently to lift the averages a trifle, though U. S. governments turned slightly easy toward the close.

With the treasury's gold price holding at $34.01 for the third successive day, foreign exchanges declined sharply; later their losses were substantially reduced, but the dollar's strength was an interesting feature of the financial day. Wheat and corn finished virtually even with Saturday's final quotations. The average net change for stocks was a minor fractional decline in a turnover of 670,584 shares.

Few stocks varied more than a point all day and net changes were largely in small fractions. U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Can, General Motors, Harvester, Santa Fe, National Distillers and Pennsylvania were up moderately, while Westinghouse, General Electric, Kennecott, Standard Oil of New Jersey, American Telephone, Sears Roebuck and National Biscuit averaged half a point off. Canada Dry fizzed up more than 2 points.

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—Prime investment corporation bonds firmed today, as the dollar rallied in foreign exchange markets, but, perversely, United States government securities, which heretofore have followed exchange movements rather closely, turned irregularly lower.

Trading in all groups was at a low ebb, with sales totaling only $8,879,000, par value. The average for 60 domestic corporate loans, however, moved up two-tenths of a point.

While treasury 4s and Liberty first 4¼s managed to hold gains of 3-32nds and 4-32nds of a point, respectively, most other listed federal maturities were off 1-32nd to 12-32nds of a point. Hesitancy in the government section was attributed partly to uncertainty regarding the terms of the treasury's December 15 financing which are expected to be announced this week.

The rails were the best of the corporation groups. Advances of 1 to around 2 points were recorded by some bonds of Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, Burlington, Cincinnati Union Terminal, Erie, Illinois Central, Kansas City Terminal, New York Central, Nickel Plate, Norfolk & Western, Northern Pacific, Oregon Western, Pennsylvania, Reading, Soutehrn Pacific, Soutehrn, Union Pacific and Western Maryland.

Among utility and industrial gainers of fractions to a point or more were some loans of American Telephone, Certain-Teed, Consolidated Gas, Detroit Edison, Dodge Bros., Kresge Foundation, Lehigh Valley Coal, New England Telephone, Pennsylvania Power, Phillips Petroleum, U. S. Rubber, Utah Power and Western Union.

Prices Are Mixed On Curb Market; Alcohols Easier

BY BERNARD S. O'HARA
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—Tranquility continued to reign on the curb exchange today. Prices closed slightly mixed after milling about narrowly over the entire session. Transfers approximated only 166,000 shares, about the same as last Friday.

Alcohols were a shade easier. Oils, utilities and metals were mildly irregular while a number of specialties were improved. Montgomery Ward A closed at 84, up 5 points, for a new high for the year. Axton Fisher gained half as much in a light turnover, while improvement of around a point or so was shown by International Mining, Insurance Company of North America and Tubize Chatillon A.

Small fractional advances occurred in New Jersey Zinc, Gulf Oil, Ford Motor Limited and Swift International. But similar recessions were registered by Humble Oil, Hiram Walker, Electric Bond and Share, Distillers Corporation-Seagrams, Newmont and Wright Hargreaves.

The UNKNOWN BLOND

By Laura Lou BROOKMAN

COPYRIGHT 1933 NEA SERVICE INC.

When he was connected with the city desk and heard Austin's voice over the wire he said, "Denise Lang is here. She's come to identify the girl they're holding in jail. Said she saw the girl with King. If you'll send a photographer I think you can get pictures—"

For the next 10 minutes Bannister was all newspaper man. The story, he assured Austin, was for the present, at least, exclusive. He repeated it to a rewrite man, promised to call back as soon as Denise Lang's verdict came. Yes, sure, he'd let them know right away.

Bannister put down the telephone and walked out into the hall. Well, that was that! He couldn't hold up news of that sort. Denise Lang would identify the other girl, all right. Of all those involved, Bannister was most certain on that point. Denise had spoken of the green suit with black fur on it, the small green hat. Oh, yes, there was no doubt that Denise would identify the other girl.

The door of McNeal's office was closed and there was no one in sight. Bannister walked the length of the corridor, turned and walked back. He looked at his watch. Almost 2:45. That photographer should be here by this time. What was the matter with him? What was the matter with everybody? Why didn't someone come out of McNeal's office? It shouldn't have taken two minutes for Denise Lang to say whether or not sha'd seen the other girl before.

But the door did not open and rage mounted in Bannister's heart. Then, from behind the door, he heard a cry.

PREDICT HEAVY ORE BUSINESS

Claim 40,000,000 Tons To Be Shipped on Lakes in 1934

Under the stimulus of gradually mounting shipments, steel works operations have held between 28 and 29 per cent for the third consecutive week, and this week may develop a slight rise, contrary to the seasonal trend which usually begins to draw down the rate from the middle of November to the close of the year, states the magazine Steel.

Less flexible, pig iron production in November was not affected by the steadier trend in steel, and a 16.4 per cent decline lowered the daily average output for the month to 36,627 tons. However, the net loss of four stacks as of Nov. 30 will be partially neutralized this week by the lighting of three additional stacks at Birmingham. November output of 1,098,815 tons makes the 11-month total this year 12,044,646, compared with 8,674,067 tons in all 1932.

Higher Prices

With few exceptions, higher prices will apply on practically all finished steel products Jan. 1, either through outright advances being made effective now, or through application of price schedules announced early in the fourth quarter, after practically all fourth quarter requirements were covered at lower levels.

Coupled with the generally improved sentiment for business in early 1934 these advances supply a cogent reason for specifying expiring contracts. They have led to a broader and more diversified demand.

More definite track material requirements have matured. Structural awards are heavier, and tonnage up for early action remains large. Orders from farm implement builders have expanded.

With the first of the 1934 automobile models now rolling off the assembly line, consumption in the Detroit area can be expected to increase until late January or early February, when dealers will have been supplied.

Railroads Are Buying

Railroad orders for December now appear more promising. Releases by the Pennsylvania on its requirements for 159,000 tons of rails and fastenings are expected momentarily.

The Missouri Pacific has been authorized by federal court to purchase 25,000 tons of rails, and accessary fastenings.

The Chicago, Burlington & Quinry has divided an order for 25,000 tons of rails among three makers, and is to close shortly for 8000 tons of track fastenings. Chicago & North Western is completing final loan details for the purchase of 65,000 tons of rails and 18,000 tons of fastenings; and Chicago & Eastern Illinois is arranging a loan to buy 4500 tons of rails and fastenings. Northern Pacific has ordered 6500 tons of rails.

Erie railroad has issued an inquiry for an indefinite tonnage of track fastenings for delivery from March to September, which would extend beyond the six-months period authorized for railroad material sales.

Structural shape awards for the week jumped to 32,145 tons, more than double the year's weekly average, by the placing of 12,000 tons for New York's Triboro bridge towers, and 8000 tons for that city's west side elevated highway.

Pig iron shipments are increasing, furnace interests anticipating a larger tonnage this month than in November due to the completion of contracts by Jan. 1. Contributing to a heavier inquiry at Chicago are fears of a price advance. Also, scrap prices there and at Pittsburgh are firmer.

40,000,000 Tons in 1934

Lake iron ore shipments will close shortly for the season with a total of approximately 21,625,000 tons, up from 3,500,000 tons last year. Some of the leading interests in the industry now are forecasting 40,000,000 tons for 1934.

Steelworks operations for the week averaged 29 per cent. Demand outweighed holiday

LaFleur and Anderson Win on Boxing Card Here

3 KNOCKOUTS FEATURE CARD

John Haindly of Cooks Is Winner Over C.C.C. Fighter

In the feature bout on the Escanaba Rifle club boxing show at the Coliseum last evening, Joe LaFleur of Escanaba easily outpointed Ed Dory of Marinette with a last round flourish that all but laid the Wisconsin battler for the ten count but the fireworks exploded in the semi windup in which Joe Anderson of Gladstone won an unpopular judges' decision from Eddie Lick of Iron Mountain.

The results of the fight program follow:

Omar Crocker, Iron Mountain, knocked out Young Sanical, CCC Camp 685, first round.

John Haindl of Cooks won decision from Matt Ritter, CCC Camp 685, three rounds.

Francis Vetort, Stephenson, 132 pounds, won three round decision from Irving Noel, Marinette, 129 pounds.

Bob Kally, 153, CCC Camp, knocked out Thomas Boudreau, 140, Iron Mountain, first round.

Harold McMahon, 145, Iron Mountain, technical knockout over Clayt Stephens, 144, Trenary, end of first round.

Joe LaFleur, 175, Escanaba, judges' decision over Ed Dory, 174, Marinette.

Although the Anderson-Lick battle was billed as the semi-windup, it was by far the best scrap of the night and the fans received enough action in that bout to atone for several lethargic bouts which preceded it. The two battlers slugged and tossed leather at each other furiously, first one, then the other gaining the upper hand.

Anderson apparently held a slight advantage in the first round and the second round was tought on even terms. The third and most torrid round, however, seemed decidedly in Lick's favor and the crowd was amazed at the judges' decision which was unanimous for Anderson.

Several hearty rounds of boisterous boos followed the announcement.

The judges' vote on the fight was 17-13 each for Anderson.

In the final bout, LaFleur's anxiety almost was his ruin. Several illegal blows in the opening round caused him to lose the round but he more than held his own in the second round and piled up an impressive victory in the third and final round. Dory received considerable punishment in the third round and appeared all but out on his feet.

The prize blow of the night, however, was delivered by Bob Kally, CCC boxer, who knocked out Thomas Boudreau, Iron Mountain, in the opening round. Kally bided his time at the start, feeling out his opponent. Then pouncing upon an opportunity, Kally let fly a left cross which didn't travel more than eight inches. The blow, packing a lot of TNT, caught Boudreau on the chin and the Iron Mountain lad dropped without knowing what struck him. He never flickered a muscle as the referee counted over him.

Crocker, Iron Mountain, also showed a lot of knockout drops in his mitts when he relieved Young Senical, CCC boy, of any more interest in the show with a first round kayo. Crocker dropped the forester twice before he put him away with a nicely timed blow.

Haindl won handily from Matt Ritter but the fans gave the CCC boy a nice round of applause for his willingness to mix it as he left the ring after the bout.

Vetort of Stephenson had little difficulty in taking the decision from Irving Noel of Marinette in a fight which was not as lively as the fans had hoped for.

Al McMahon, Iron Mountain, scored a technical knockout over Clayt Stephens of Trenary when the referee stopped the fight after the first round. Stephens was over matched and could make no headway with the Iron Mountain battler. Stephens was not badly hurt but it was apparent he would have received a pummeling if the fight went much farther.

The first five bouts were refereed by Art Sundling of Escanaba and Norman McKay of Marinette handled the semi-windup and the final. Al Schale of the Soo was announced by Promoter Sundling as the referee who would handle the bouts as previously announced in the Daily Press but a misunderstanding in dates occurred. Schale may be selected for the third man in the next fight card here.

Spartans Open Up By Beating Olivet

East Lansing, Mich., Dec. 4 (AP)—Michigan State college opened its 1933-34 basketball season tonight by defeating Olivet college 23 to 16.

Columbia Accepts Bid to Rose Bowl

Pasadena, Calif., Dec. 4 (AP)—Columbia university is to meet Stanford in the annual football game at the Rose Bowl here New Year's Day for the mythical national championship.

Acceptance by the New York school of an invitation to represent the east was announced late today by Al Masters, graduate manager of Stanford.

The decision came after weeks of speculation which, in its late phases, embraced Army, Princeton, Nebraska, Michigan and Duke teams.

Columbia first entered the picture as a leading contender when it was learned Saturday night Hal G. Reynolds, member of the Rose tournament football committee, was in New York.

Masters said the invitation to Columbia was tendered late yesterday and the acceptance was received by telegram from the university athletic committee this afternoon.

"Football critics have informed us that, despite an early season defeat by Princeton, Columbia has really a great team," said the Stanford graduate manager.

"In making its selection, Stanford took into consideration the scholastic standing of its possible opponents and thought Columbia was above reproach."

Coach Tiny Thornhill of Stanford, who arrived today, said it was "all news to me." He said he had no idea who would be selected in advance of the announcement and had no report of scouts on Columbia.

Stanford has scored a total of 131 points to 36 for opponents in winning eight of its ten games, with one a tie.

The only reverse for the Cardinal team was at the hands of the University of Washington, 6 to 0. Columbia scored 172 points to 45 for the combined opposition.

The Stanford season was opened with a 27 to 0 victory over San Jose State. University of California at Los Angeles was repulsed 3 to 0 and Santa Clara fell, 7 to 0. There was no decision in the Northwestern scoreless game. San Francisco university was stopped, 20 to 13. Two field goals enabled the Washington huskies to score its triumph. The Olympic club of San Francisco was turned back, 21 to 0. The Trojans of the University of Southern California fell, 13 to 7, and the University of California, 7 to 3, with a 33 to 7 rout of the University of Montana in between.

Columbia played eight games and won seven. Princeton with a 20 to 0 defeat, placing the only black mark on the Lions' record.

Lehigh was first to fall, 39 to 0, and Virginia was stopped, 15 to 6. Cornell was downed 9 to 6 and Navy 14 to 7. Columbia scored 46 points to six for Lafayette and concluded the regular season with a 16 to 0 victory over Syracuse.

READY FOR TRIP

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—Confirming an announcement from Pasadena, Dr. Edward F. Elliott, chairman of the Columbia committee on athletics, tonight said Columbia's football team would meet Stanford's Indians in the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, New Year's Day.

Dr. Elliott's announcement came at the end of a three-hour meeting of the committee whose decision in favor of accepting the invitation was delayed until it could be revealed first by Al Masters, graduate manager of athletics at Stanford.

Reynolds Benson, Columbia graduate manager, said that most of the time of the long conference was devoted to discussing the various details of a trip into the far west no New York college football team ever has taken before.

From the start, Benson said, the committee members were unanimously in favor of accepting the invitation.

WALKER HANDS KENNEDY KAYO

Fight Lasts One Minute and 29 Seconds of Second Round

Newark, N. J., Dec. 4 (AP)—Mickey Walker, former middleweight king, knocked out Les Kennedy, Cal., heavyweight tonight in the second round of a scheduled 10-round bout. The fight lasted 1 minute, 29 seconds of the second round. Walker weighed 172½, Kennedy 198½.

In spite of the difference in weight and Kennedy's recent knockout of Stanley Poreda, Jersey City fighter, the Rumson bulldog entered the ring a 2 to 1 favorite.

The first round was fairly even with Walker doing most of the leading. When the second round started he tore into Kennedy savagely and knocked him down for the count of 3. When the Californian got to his feet Mickey went after him again and floored him for the count.

In the semi-final, scheduled for 8 rounds, Al Diamond, 161¾, of Paterson, won a technical knockout over Al Paladino, 163, New York. Referee Henry Lewis, of Newark, stopped the fight after it had gone 1 minute and 43 seconds of the seventh round, and Paladino had been knocked down three times. In the previous round he was floored once.

Diamond led the fight most of the way, drawing blood in the fourth.

Joe Manor, 200, Bloomfield, knocked out Eddie Mates, 185, Paterson, in the third round of a 4-round bout. In another event Stanley Ketchel, 185, Bloomfield, and John Armona, 173½, Paterson, fought five round to a no decision.

Southm Band, Ind., Dec. 4 (AP)—Notre Dame inaugurated its 1933-34 basketball schedule here tonight with a 30 to 22 victory over Kalamazoo college.

Joe Voegele, playing the regular center position of Ed (Moose) Krause, led his team with 16 points. Weiss and Garrison, visiting forwards, showed long range accuracy to score 8 points each.

Tonight's victory increased to 12 the string of Notre Dame victories. Notre Dame led at half time 16 to 9.

Convicted Slayer Starts Life Term

Toledo, O., Dec. 4 (AP)—Floyd (Sailor) Baldwin, convicted of slaying John L. Parker, Hudson, Mich., insurance salesman, in a golf course holdup here Sept. 12, today was formally sentenced to life imprisonment in the Ohio penitentiary, with the added provision that he must, for the next five years, spend each Sept. 12 in solitary confinement.

A jury in common pleas court convicted Baldwin several days ago and the life sentence was mandatory in that the jury recommended mercy. If mercy had not been recommended, he would have automatically received the death penalty.

During the trial Baldwin pleaded he was too intoxicated to remember what happened. Harvey Patterson, who police say named Baldwin as the man who fired the shot which killed Parker, is held for trial as an accomplice in the holdup. Judge Roy Stuart made the formal declaration of sentence today.

LITTLE GIANTS NEXT ESKY FOE

Nordmen Open Scholastic Season Wednesday at Junior High

The Eskymos basketball squad will meet their first scholastic foe tomorrow night at the junior high school gymnasium when they meet the Rock Little Giants, an unknown quantity in peninsula cage ranks.

The Eskymos already have played one game, taking the scalp of the alumni team last week by 12 to 8. Coach Nordberg, however, while pleased with the opening victory figures this combination still has a lot of scoring ability which has not yet been uncorked.

The starting combination for Escanaba probably will be Chaso at center; Frederickson and Jensen, forwards; Christensan and Malcomsen guards.

Heavy practice sessions have been held by the Eskymos this last week for the purpose of smoothing out all the bad spots and sharpening tthe attack for tho Rock game.

The Rock game originally was scheduled for this evening but was changed to Wednesday evening due to conflict with other activities.

Hay, Hockey Star, Retires In Detroit

Detroit, Dec. 4 (AP) George Hay, one of professional hockey's greatest and oldest stars, ended his career today, when his retirement as manager of the Detroit Olympics of the International league was announced by the management of Olympia, Inc., club owners.

For more than a dozen years Hay, born in Listowel, Ont., has been skating up and down the rinks from Vancouver to Montreal on the Canadian side, and from Boston to Chicago on the American side. In his prime he was one of the great forwards of the game.

Hay is one of the last of the "old guard" of the Detroit Hockey club, assembled in 1927. He was purchased from the Chicago Cardinals, now the Blackhawks, and in 1929 was one of the National league's leading scorers. In 1932 he became manager of the Olympics, and for a time continued as a player, although he was unable to reach his peak of past years.

His place as manager will be taken by Burton "Gamey" Lederman, who came to Detroit this season in a trade from the Buffalo Bisons of the International league. Lederman, who will continue playing his defense position, took charge today.

It was also announced today that Johnny Clark, spare goalie, has been released by the Olympics, and that two defense men will be farmed out if places for them can be found. The step was taken to cut expenses, Adams said, and was made necessary by a lack of patronage at the Olympics' games.

The larvae of the gipsy moth is carried by air currents and dropped miles away; airplane tests show that this larva is to be found in the air at a height of more than 1000 feet.

COCHRANE MAY GO TO DETROIT

Hayworth and Pesak Are Linked in League Trade Rumor

Philadelphia, Dec. 4 (AP) Baseball circles rumored tonight that the reported deal sending Catcher Mickey Cochrane, of the Athletics, to Detroit as player-manager would be announced at the major league meeting in Chicago next week.

It is understood either Catcher Ray Hayworth or Pesak, another receiver, will come to the A's with a sizeable cash sum in exchange for the Philadelphia backstop.

Another report going the baseball rounds tonight was that the trade sending Pitcher George Walberg and Second-baseman Max Bishop to the Boston Red Sox for Bob Kline, a hurler; Shortstop Warstler and cash also would be announced in Chicago.

With these two deals reported definite, and Sunday baseball an actuality for 1934, the rumored sale or trade of Robert Moses (Lefty) Grove seems less likely to be carried through. With Walberg gone, it is believed Connie Mack, the A's veteran manager, will keep Grove, for otherwise he will have no seasoned left-hander left on the roster.

Some reports said Cochrane would confer with President Navin of the Tigers in Detroit next week and that both would go from there to the big-league meeting in Chicago.

BATTING MEDAL GOES TO KLEIN

New Cub Purchase Also Leads League in Long Hits

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—Charles H. (Chuck) Klein, traded to the Chicago Cubs by the Phillies in the biggest of the off-season player deals, clearly was the National league's greatest all-around batsman during the 1933 season, the official averages, made public today, revealed.

Klein not only captured the league batting title with an average of .368 in 152 games but also topped all rivals in base hits with 223; in total bases, with 366; in doubles, with 44; and in home runs, with 28.

The clouting outfielder thus added one more link to one of the most brilliant records any player ever has achieved in the National loop. In his five seasons as a regular, Klein never has scored fewer than 100 runs nor made less than 200 hits and his lowest batting average, in 1931, was .337.

Behind Klein trailed his teammate, Virgil Davis, burly catcher who since has been traded to the St. Louis Cardinals. Davis wound up in second place with a .349 average. Then followed, among the regulars, Tony Piet of Pittsburgh, now a member of the Cincinnati Reds, with .323; Bill Terry, manager of the world champion New York Giants, .322; Wes Schulmerich of the Phillies, .318; John L. (Pepper) Martin of the Cardinals, .316, and Floyd Vaughan, brilliant young Pittsburgh shortstop, .314.

Martin Best Stealer

In addition to his five individual titles, Klein tied with Paul Waner of the Pirates for the second place in runs, each having 101 against 122 for Martin, the leader. Martin also stole the most bases, 26, his closest rival being Frankie Frisch, Cardinal manager, who pilfered 18.

Chick Fullis of the Phillies was at bat the most times, 647, collected the most singles, 162, and was runner-up to Klein for most hits with 200.

Walter Berger, heavy hitting outfielder of the Boston Braves, took down two second places with 299 total bases and 27 home runs, being runner-up to Klein in each department. Joe Medwick, of the Cardinals, trailed Klein in doubles with 40.

Vaughan and Paul Waner ran one-two in triples with 19 and 16 respectively. Dick Bartell of the Phillies led in sacrifices for the second year in succession with 37. He also tied the major league record, held by eight players, when he clouted four doubles in a single game on April 25.

Five players took part in all their club's games; Klein and Bartell of the Phillies, and Paul Waner, Harold (Pie) Traynor and Gus Suhr, all of the Pirates.

All told 231 players participated in the league's champion ship games.

KID CHOCOLATE RETAINS TITLE

Cuban Slaps Cleveland Battler Around to Win Decision

Cleveland, O., Dec. 4 (AP)—Dancing about and jabbing almost at will, Kid Chocolate, Cuban batter, lashed out a decision over Frankie Wallace, Cleveland lightweight pride, in a 10-round bout tonight on the News' Christmas Fund boxing show.

The decision allowed Chocolate to retain his junior lightweight title. Each fighter weighed 130 pounds.

Although he won only one round, Wallace had the full support of the crowd of 8,500 because of his gameness and his willingness to mix things with the Cuban. The Cleveland youngster though bleeding from cuts still battled gamely when the bout ended.

In another of the featured bouts, Tony Canzoneri, former world's featherweight and lightweight champion, who two weeks ago kayoed Chocolate, knocked out Cecil Payne, of Louisville, Ky., in the fifth round of their 10-round bout.

Canzoneri weighed 133¾; Payne 138.

Lew Feldman, New Yorker, belted out a 10-round decision over Cleveland's Jimmy Vaughn. Feldman weighed 131; Vaughn 135.

In the six-round preliminary, the Alabama Kid, dusky slasher from Dover, O., walloped Norman Conrad, Cleveland, all over the ring for a decision. Alabama Kid weighed 158½; Conrad 161.

Teddy Yarosz, Pittsburgh middleweight, won a 10-round decision over Paul Pirrone, of Cleveland. Yarosz weighed 159½; Pirrone 158½.

Offense Has Best of It, Says Coach Shaughnessy

BY ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

New York, Dec. 4 (AP) Contrary to the widespread football belief that the defense has the advantage under existing rules, Clark Daniel Shaughnessy, University of Chicago head coach, is convinced the offense has all the better of it nowadays, providing it makes full use of opportunities.

"In my opinion, the offense has so much more advantage over the defense in modern footbal that it isn't even close," said Shaughnessy today, before returning to Chicago. "Frankly, I can't see where there's even room for argument. Other factors, such as manpower, being anywhere near equal, the team in possession of the ball should have the other side guessing nine-tenths of the time.

"The chief reason why you hear so much about defensive dominance is that most offensive operations have become too standardized; so much so that a smart defense knows most of the time what is going to happen.

"Nearly every coach has adopted the Warner or Rockne system. Their formations are all common property. This simplifies the defensive problems and likewise robs the offense of its biggest weapon—deception.

"What the offensive structure of the college game needs is more variety and originality; not new rules to make scoring easier or restrict the defense. I believe the rules should stand the way they are. The game is balanced enough now but most coaches do not take advantage of their opportunities to diversify the offensive pattern of their system."

Professor Shaughnessy scribbled a flock of diagrams to illustrate what he meant by making the offense more difficult to diagnose. They all looked very baffling. The point he emphasized was the number and varity of plays possible to produce from certain fundamental formations in the system he learned under Dr. H. L. Williams at Minnesota and has used successfully ever since.

"'We probably have 150 plays in our repertoire,'" he said, "'but only a few basic formations from which they are run off. That simplifies the quarterback's job but gives him latitude in exploiting any weakness he discovers in the defensive armour.'"

Shaughnessy pointed out that consistently successful teams, such as Southern California and Michigan, have adopted the best features of various so-called "systems." He said the same thing was now true of Princeton's methods.

"The successful trend in football coaching is away from too much standardization," concluded the Chicago coach, who demonstrated in his first season in Big Ten company his ability to put a ground-gaining team on the gridiron.

Shaughnessy, incidentally, commented on a feature of the decisive play that was generally overlooked in Notre Dame's surprise defeat of Army.

"On the kick that was blocked behind Army's goal line for the winning touchdown, Army's punter was barely eight yards behind the line of scrimmage," he said. "He was also slow but he didn't have a chance to get the kick away under the circumstances. Ten yards behind the line is the minimum, even for first-class kickers, and in a pinch 12 yards is safer."

RUDNESS PLAYS ON "U" QUINTET

Former Negaunee Athlete Will Be Used as Forward

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 4. (Special)—Michigan's first bid for basketball honors in the 1933-34 season will be made Monday night when the squad visits Kalamazoo to meet Western State Teachers college. On paper the Wolverine team does not appear to have a chance particularly in view of the double drubbing handed them last year by much the same team of Teachers as they will meet Monday, but surprises occur even in basketball.

Coach Franklin Cappon said Friday he probably would start Al Plummer and Manny Fishman at the forward posts, Fred Allen at center and Captain Ted Petoskey and Russ Oliver at guards, although Petoskey and Oliver still are far from ready. This decision withdraws sophomores from the starting group entirely. It is certain, however, that George Ford and George Rudness may get in at forward, John Jablonsky at center, and Chelso Tomagno at guard. Rudness is a former Negaunee high school star.

Cappon is far from optimistic concerning the hopes of his charges for the season, but with the football men all in line believes that the team will be moving along at a good clip by the time the Conference season opens.

The team will start on its Eastern trip December 15, and will return December 22, after having played Pennsylvania, Rutgers, Maryland and Temple. It will be given a five-day vacation, then will go back to work on December 27.

RAMBLERS GET NOISY OVATION

Win Over Army Bright Spot of Season for Notre Dame Fans

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 4 (AP) Notre Dame's Ramblers, who found themselves in the final period of their final game of an otherwise dismal season to beat the Army, received a tumultuous welcome today as they came back home.

Despite a drizzling rain, 2,000 students, most of whom have been patiently waiting all fall to "cheer, cheer for old Notre Dame," jammed the Plaza of the Union station as the conquering heroes of football came back from the big city and thundered an ovation surpassed only by that given the Rockne raiders on their return from their triumph over Southern California three years ago.

Frankly unaccustomed to hand shaking and cheers during the worst season in Notre Dame football history, a season marked by only three bright spots in the victories over Indiana, Northwestern and the Army, the returning Ramblers did their best to escape from the crowd today but without success. As the train neared the station, guards were posted at every exit and the players, cornered by the victory hungry crowd, finally gave in, responded with speeches and joined a victory march through the streets, classes were dismissed for the morning.

GHS GRIDDERS PICK CAPTAIN

Fred Hoover, Guard, Chosen '34 Pilot; 14 Get Letters

Gladstone—Fred Hoover was chosen to captain the Gladstone high school football team in the fall of 1934 at the 11th annual Rotary football banquet held here last night. Hoover played right guard on this fall's eleven and was one of the bulwarks of the line. He is a junior and has one more year of competition.

Letters were awarded to 14 members of '33 team: namely, Harry Kircher, cap't, Fred Hoover, Clifford Mineau, Guy Freeman, Irving Jadin, Francis Weingartner, Thomas Elegeert, George Wilbee, John Swan, John Fraser, Robert Nebel, Duane Miller, Charles O'Neil and Tony Srock. Five of the fourteen, Kircher, Freeman, Jadin, Weingartner and Nebel will be lost through graduation. Presentation was made by Coach Eldon Keil.

John A. Lemmer, principal of Escanaba high school, as speaker of the evening, placed a challenge before the athletes present in a stirring address. He pointed out the debt owed to parents and the community in which they live by the time they have attained the age of 18, and stated that the sum is so large that it cannot be repaid in any manner but through service. Success is up to the individual and can only be attained through hard work, the boys were told, but if they display the proper enthusiasm and live up to the first commandment of the athlete "Thou Shalt Not Quit", at all times, they will not fail to be of some service and benefit to mankind.

Other members of the football squad guests at the dinner were John Bonkowski, John Karjalla, Chester Marrier, Vernon Long, Joe Cannon, Gordon Hagar, Leo Wilson, Robert Mineau, Alfred White, Robert Collins, Norman McIntyre, Lyle Beaudry, Donald Dabney, Stanley Hawkins, Ted Ludick, William Roland, John Thompson, Sherman Derosha, Lawrence Johnson, Clifford Ottenhoff, Jim Fitzpatrick, Jack Kee and Richard Schuler. The cheer leaders, Donald Gazley and Claire Sword, as well as a number of members of the high school faculty, were also guests.

Floyd W. Marble, president of the Rotary club, presided as toastmaster at the after-dinner program. Instrumental selections by Wallace Cameron and vocal numbers by a trio composed of John Speare, Robert Haskins, and Wesley Gustafson proved pleasing. Coach Keil before presenting the letters briefly reviewed the past season and prospects for next, and Harry Kircher, captain of the '33 eleven, and Fred Hoover, captain-elect, gave short talks.

Pete Berger Named 1934 Grid Captain

Peter Berger, a junior and a tackle on this year's Manistique high school football team, was named captain of the 1934 M. H. S. eleven, according to an announcement made yesterday.

Berger, who is also captain of this year's basketball team, has been one of the mainstays of the Green Wave line for the past two seasons during which his play has been outstanding.

Coach Wassberg and his gridiron stars were guests of the Manistique Rotary club yesterday noon.

Coach Heartly "Hunk" Anderson but finally were convinced that their leader had remained behind in New York with Athletic Director Jess Harper. Hunk's absence was the only sad note in the noisy demonstration.

Notre Dame's finish, which found the Ramblers beating Northwestern, losing to Southern California, and beating the Army, has convinced many that Anderson will be retained next season despite rumors that bobbed up during the season that he would be replaced by some other Notre Dame football star of the past possibly Noble Kizer of Purdue. The Ramblers piled up an impressive total of yardage gained all season but didn't click when only a few yards meant touchdowns.

3 KNOCKOUTS FEATURE CARD

John Haindly of Cooks Is Winner Over C.C.C. Fighter

In the feature bout on the Escanaba Rifle club boxing show at the Coliseum last evening, Joe LaFleur of Escanaba easily outpointed Ed Dory of Marinette with a last round flourish that all but laid the Wisconsin battler for the ten count but the fireworks exploded in the semi windup in which Joe Anderson of Gladstone won an unpopular judges' decision from Eddie Lick of Iron Mountain.

The results of the fight program follow:

Omar Crocker, Iron Mountain, knocked out Young Sanical, CCC Camp 685, first round.

John Haindl of Cooks won decision from Matt Ritter, CCC Camp 685, three rounds.

Francis Vetort, Stephenson, 132 pounds, won three round decision from Irving Noel, Marinette, 129 pounds.

Bob Kally, 153, CCC Camp, knocked out Thomas Boudreau, 140, Iron Mountain, first round.

Harold McMahon, 145, Iron Mountain, technical knockout over Clayt Stephens, 144, Trenary, end of first round.

Joe LaFleur, 175, Escanaba, judges' decision over Ed Dory, 174, Marinette.

Although the Anderson-Lick battle was billed as the semi-windup, it was by far the best scrap of the night and the fans received enough action in that bout to atone for several lethargic bouts which preceded it. The two battlers slugged and tossed leather at each other furiously, first one, then the other gaining the upper hand.

Anderson apparently held a slight advantage in the first round and the second round was fought on even terms. The third and most torrid round, however, seemed decidedly in Lick's favor and the crowd was amazed at the judges' decision which was unanimous for Anderson.

Several hearty rounds of boisterous boos followed the announcement.

The judges' vote on the fight was 17-13 each for Anderson.

In the final bout, LaFleur's anxiety almost was his ruin. Several illegal blows in the opening round caused him to lose the round but he more than held his own in the second round and piled up an impressive victory in the third and final round. Dory received considerable punishment in the third round and appeared all but out on his feet.

The prize blow of the night, however, was delivered by Bob Kally, CCC boxer, who knocked out Thomas Boudreau, Iron Mountain, in the opening round. Kally bided his time at the start, feeling out his opponent. Then pouncing upon an opportunity, Kally let fly a left cross which didn't travel more than eight inches. The blow, packing a lot of TNT, caught Boudreau on the chin and the Iron Mountain lad dropped without knowing what struck him. He never flickered a muscle as the referee counted over him.

Crocker, Iron Mountain, also showed a lot of knockout drops in his mitts when he relieved Young Senical, CCC boy, of any more interest in the show with a first round kayo. Crocker dropped the forester twice before he put him away with a nicely timed blow.

Haindl won handily from Matt Ritter but the fans gave the CCC boy a nice round of applause for his willingness to mix it as he left the ring after the bout.

Vetort of Stephenson had little difficulty in taking the decision from Irving Noel of Marinette in a fight which was not as lively as the fans had hoped for.

Al McMahon, Iron Mountain, scored a technical knockout over Clayt Stephens of Trenary when the referee stopped the fight after the first round. Stephens was over matched and could make no headway with the Iron Mountain battler. Stephens was not badly hurt but it was apparent he would have received a pummeling if the fight went much farther.

The first five bouts were refereed by Art Sundling of Escanaba and Norman McKay of Marinette handled the semi-windup and the final. Al Schale of the Soo was announced by Promoter Sundling as the referee who would handle the bouts as previously announced in the Daily Press but a misunderstanding in dates occurred. Schale may be selected for the third man in the next fight card here.

Spartans Open Up By Beating Olivet

East Lansing, Mich., Dec. 4 (AP)—Michigan State college opened its 1933-34 basketball season tonight by defeating Olivet college 23 to 16.

Columbia Accepts Bid to Rose Bowl

Pasadena, Calif., Dec. 4 (AP)—Columbia university is to meet Stanford in the annual football game at the Rose Bowl here New Year's Day for the mythical national championship.

Acceptance by the New York school of an invitation to represent the east was announced late today by Al Masters, graduate manager of Stanford.

The decision came after weeks of speculation which, in its late phases, embraced Army, Princeton, Nebraska, Michigan and Duke teams.

Columbia first entered the picture as a leading contender when it was learned Saturday night Hal G. Reynolds, member of the Rose tournament football committee, was in New York.

Masters said the invitation to Columbia was tendered late yesterday and the acceptance was received by telegram from the university athletic committee this afternoon.

"Football critics have informed us that, despite an early season defeat by Princeton, Columbia has really a great team," said the Stanford graduate manager.

"In making its selection, Stanford took into consideration the scholastic standing of its possible opponents and thought Columbia was above reproach."

Coach Tiny Thornhill of Stanford, who arrived today, said it was "all news to me." He said he had no idea who would be selected in advance of the announcement and had no report of scouts on Columbia.

Stanford has scored a total of 131 points to 36 for opponents in winning eight of its ten games, with one a tie.

The only reverse for the Cardinal team was at the hands of the University of Washington, 6 to 0. Columbia scored 172 points to 45 for the combined opposition.

The Stanford season was opened with a 27 to 0 victory over San Jose State. University of California at Los Angeles was repulsed 3 to 0 and Santa Clara fell, 7 to 0. The Olympic club of San Francisco was turned back, 21 to 0. The Trojans of the University of Southern California fell, 13 to 7, and the University of California, 7 to 3, with a 33 to 7 rout of the University of Montana in between.

Columbia played eight games and won seven. Princeton with a 20 to 0 defeat, placing the only black mark on the Lions' record.

Lehigh was first to fall, 39 to 0, and Virginia was stopped, 15 to 6. Cornell was downed 9 to 6 and Navy 14 to 7. Columbia scored 46 points to six for Lafayette and concluded the regular season with a 16 to 0 victory over Syracuse.

READY FOR TRIP

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—Confirming an announcement from Pasadena, Dr. Edward F. Elliott, chairman of the Columbia committee on athletics, tonight said Columbia's football team would meet Stanford's Indians in the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, New Year's Day.

Dr. Elliott's announcement came at the end of a three-hour meeting of the committee whose decision in favor of accepting the invitation was delayed until it could be revealed first by Al Masters, graduate manager of athletics at Stanford.

Reynolds Benson, Columbia graduate manager, said that most of the time of the long conference was devoted to discussing the various details of a trip into the far west no New York college football team ever has taken before.

From the start, Benson said, the committee members were unanimously in favor of accepting the invitation.

WALKER HANDS KENNEDY KAYO

Fight Lasts One Minute and 29 Seconds of Second Round

Newark, N. J., Dec. 4 (AP)—Mickey Walker, former middleweight king, knocked out Les Kennedy, Cal., heavyweight tonight in the second round of a scheduled 10-round bout. The fight lasted 1 minute, 29 seconds of the second round. Walker weighed 172½, Kennedy 198½.

In spite of the difference in weight and Kennedy's recent knockout of Stanley Poreda, Jersey City fighter, the Rumson bulldog entered the ring a 2 to 1 favorite.

The first round was fairly even with Walker doing most of the leading. When the second round started he tore into Kennedy savagely and knocked him down for the count of 3. When the Californian got to his feet Mickey went after him again and floored him for the count.

In the semi-final, scheduled for 8 rounds, Al Diamond, 161¾, of Paterson, won a technical knockout over Al Paladino, 163, New York. Referee Henry Lewis, of Newark, stopped the fight after it had gone 1 minute and 43 seconds of the seventh round, and Paladino had been knocked down three times. In the previous round he was floored once.

Diamond led the fight most of the way, drawing blood in the fourth.

Irish Win Opener Over Kalamazoo

Southm Band, Ind., Dec. 4 (AP)—Notre Dame inaugurated its 1933-34 basketball schedule here tonight with a 30 to 22 victory over Kalamazoo college.

Joe Voegele, playing the regular center position of Ed (Moose) Krause, led his team with 16 points. Weiss and Garrison, visiting forwards, showed long range accuracy to score 8 points each.

Tonight's victory increased to 12 the string of Notre Dame victories. Notre Dame led at half time 16 to 9.

Convicted Slayer Starts Life Term

Toledo, O., Dec. 4 (AP)—Floyd (Sailor) Baldwin, convicted of slaying John L. Parker, Hudson, Mich., insurance salesman, in a golf course holdup here Sept. 12, today was formally sentenced to life imprisonment in the Ohio penitentiary, with the added provision that he must, for the next five years, spend each Sept. 12 in solitary confinement.

A jury in common pleas court convicted Baldwin several days ago and the life sentence was mandatory in that the jury recommended mercy. If mercy had not been recommended, he would have automatically received the death penalty.

During the trial Baldwin pleaded he was too intoxicated to remember what happened. Harvey Patterson, who police say named Baldwin as the man who fired the shot which killed Parker, is held for trial as an accomplice in the holdup. Judge Roy Stuart made the formal declaration of sentence today.

COCHRANE MAY GO TO DETROIT

Hayworth and Pesak Are Linked in League Trade Rumor

Philadelphia, Dec. 4 (AP)—Baseball circles rumored tonight that the reported deal sending Catcher Mickey Cochrane, of the Athletics, to Detroit as player-manager would be announced at the major league meeting in Chicago next week.

It is understood either Catcher Ray Hayworth or Pesak, another receiver, will come to the A's with a sizeable cash sum in exchange for the Philadelphia backstop.

Another report going the baseball rounds tonight was that the trade sending Pitcher George Walberg and Second-baseman Max Bishop to the Boston Red Sox for Bob Kline, a hurler; Shortstop Warstler and cash also would be announced in Chicago.

With these two deals reported definite, and Sunday baseball an actuality for 1934, the rumored sale or trade of Robert Moses (Lefty) Grove seems less likely to be carried through. With Walberg gone, it is believed Connie Mack, the A's veteran manager, will keep Grove, for otherwise he will have no seasoned left-hander left on the roster.

Some reports said Cochrane would confer with President Navin of the Tigers in Detroit next week and that both would go from there to the big-league meeting in Chicago.

LITTLE GIANTS NEXT ESKY FOE

Nordmen Open Scholastic Season Wednesday at Junior High

The Eskymos basketball squad will meet their first scholastic foe tomorrow night at the junior high school gymnasium when they meet the Rock Little Giants, an unknown quantity in peninsula cage ranks.

The Eskymos already have played one game, taking the scalp of the alumni team last week by 12 to 8. Coach Nordberg, however, while pleased with the opening victory figures this combination still has a lot of scoring ability which has not yet been uncorked.

The starting combination for Escanaba probably will be Chase at center; Frederickson and Jensen, forwards; Christensan and Malcomsen guards.

Heavy practice sessions have been held by the Eskymos this last week for the purpose of smoothing out all the bad spots and sharpening tthe attack for the Rock game.

The Rock game originally was scheduled for this evening but was changed to Wednesday evening due to conflict with other activities.

Hay, Hockey Star, Retires In Detroit

Detroit, Dec. 4 (AP)—George Hay, one of professional hockey's greatest and oldest stars, ended his career today, when his retirement as manager of the Detroit Olympics of the International league was announced by the management of Olympia, Inc., club owners.

For more than a dozen years Hay, born in Listowel, Ont., has been skating up and down the rinks from Vancouver to Montreal on the Canadian side, and from Boston to Chicago on the American side. In his prime he was one of the great forwards of the game.

Hay is one of the last of the "old guard" of the Detroit Hockey club, assembled in 1927. He was purchased from the Chicago Cardinals, now the Blackhawks, and in 1929 was one of the National league's leading scorers. In 1932 he became manager of the Olympics, and for a time continued as a player, although he was unable to reach his peak of past years.

His place as manager will be taken by Burton "Gamey" Lederman, who came to Detroit this season in a trade from the Buffalo Bisons of the International league. Lederman, who will continue playing his defense position, took charge today.

It was also announced today that Johnny Clark, spare goalie, has been released by the Olympics, and that two defense men will be farmed out if places for them can be found. The step was taken to cut expenses Adams said, and was made necessary by a lack of patronage at the Olympics' games.

The larvae of the gipsy moth is carried by air currents and dropped miles away; airplane tests show that this larva is to be found in the air at a height of more than 1000 feet.

BATTING MEDAL GOES TO KLEIN

New Cub Purchase Also Leads League in Long Hits

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—Charles H. (Chuck) Klein, traded to the Chicago Cubs by the Phillies in the biggest of the off-season player deals, clearly was the National league's greatest all-around batsman during the 1933 season, the official averages, made public today, revealed.

Klein not only captured the league batting title with an average of .368 in 152 games but also topped all rivals in base hits with 223; in total bases, with 366; in doubles, with 44; and in home runs, with 28.

The clouting outfielder thus added one more link to one of the most brilliant records any player ever has achieved in the National loop. In his five seasons as a regular, Klein never has scored fewer than 100 runs nor made less than 200 hits and his lowest batting average, in 1931, was .337.

Behind Klein trailed his teammate, Virgil Davis, burly catcher who since has been traded to the St. Louis Cardinals. Davis wound up in second place with a .349 average. Then followed, among the regulars, Tony Piet of Pittsburgh, now a member of the Cincinnati Reds, with .323; Bill Terry, manager of the world champion New York Giants, .322; Wes Schulmerich of the Phillies, .318; John L. (Pepper) Martin of the Cardinals, .316, and Floyd Vaughan, brilliant young Pittsburgh shortstop, .314.

Martin Best Stealer

In addition to his five individual titles, Klein tied with Paul Waner of the Pirates for the second place in runs, each having 101 against 122 for Martin, the leader. Martin also stole the most bases, 26, his closest rival being Frankie Frisch, Cardinal manager, who pilfered 18.

Chick Fullis of the Phillies was at bat the most times, 647, collected the most singles, 162, and was runner-up to Klein for most hits with 200.

Walter Berger, heavy hitting outfielder of the Boston Braves, took down two second places with 299 total bases and 27 home runs, being runner-up to Klein in each department. Joe Medwick, of the Cardinals, trailed Klein in doubles with 40.

Vaughan and Paul Waner ran one-two in triples with 19 and 16 respectively. Dick Bartell of the Phillies led in sacrifices for the second year in succession with 37. He also tied the major league record, held by eight players, when he clouted four doubles in a single game on April 25.

Five players took part in all their club's games; Klein and Bartell of the Phillies, and Paul Waner, Harold (Pie) Traynor and Gus Suhr, all of the Pirates. All told 231 players participated in the league's championship games.

KID CHOCOLATE RETAINS TITLE

Cuban Slaps Cleveland Battler Around to Win Decision

Cleveland, O., Dec. 4 (AP)—Dancing about and jabbing almost at will, Kid Chocolate, Cuban battler, lashed out a decision over Frankie Wallace, Cleveland lightweight pride, in a 10-round bout tonight on the News' Christmas Fund boxing show.

The decision allowed Chocolate to retain his junior lightweight title. Each fighter weighed 130 pounds.

Although he won only one round, Wallace had the full support of the crowd of 8,500 because of his gameness and his willingness to mix things with the Cuban. The Cleveland youngster though bleeding from cuts still battled gamely when the bout ended.

In another of the featured bouts, Tony Canzoneri, former world's featherweight and lightweight champion, who two weeks ago kayoed Chocolate, knocked out Cecil Payne, of Louisville, Ky., in the fifth round of their 10-round bout.

Canzoneri weighed 133¾; Payne 138.

Lew Feldman, New Yorker, belted out a 10-round decision over Cleveland's Jimmy Vaughn. Feldman weighed 131; Vaughn 135.

In the six-round preliminary, the Alabama Kid, dusky slasher from Dover, O., walloped Norman Conrad, Cleveland, all over the ring for a decision. Alabama Kid weighed 158½; Conrad 161.

Teddy Yarosz, Pittsburgh middleweight, won a 10-round decision over Paul Pirrone, of Cleveland. Yarosz weighed 159½; Pirrone 158½.

Offense Has Best of It, Says Coach Shaughnessy

(Associated Press Sports Editor)

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—Contrary to the widespread football belief that the defense has the advantage under existing rules, Clark Daniel Shaughnessy, University of Chicago head coach, is convinced the offense has all the better of it nowadays, providing it makes full use of opportunities.

"In my opinion, the offense has so much more advantage over the defense in modern footbal that it isn't even close," said Shaughnessy today, before returning to Chicago. "Frankly, I can't see where there's even room for argument. Other factors, such as manpower, being anywhere near equal, the team in possession of the ball should have the other side guessing nine-tenths of the time.

"The chief reason why you hear so much about defensive dominance is that most offensive operations have become too standardized; so much so that a smart defense knows most of the time what is going to happen.

"Nearly every coach has adopted the Warner or Rockne system. Their formations are all common property. This simplifies the defensive problems and likewise robs the offense of its biggest weapon—deception.

"What the offensive structure of the college game needs is more variety and originality; not new rules to make scoring easier or restrict the defense. I believe the rules should stand the way they are. The game is balanced enough now but most coaches do not take advantage of their opportunities to diversify the offensive pattern of their system."

Professor Shaughnessy scribbled a flock of diagrams to illustrate what he meant by making the offense more difficult to diagnose. They all looked very baffling. The point he emphasized was the number and varity of plays possible to produce from certain fundamental formations in the system he learned under Dr. H. L. Williams at Minnesota and has used successfully ever since.

"'We probably have 150 plays in our repertoire,'" he said, "'but only a few basic formations from which they are run off. That simplifies the quarterback's job but gives him latitude in exploiting any weakness he discovers in the defensive armour.'"

Shaughnessy pointed out that consistently successful teams, such as Southern California and Michigan, have adopted the best features of various so-called "systems." He said the same thing was now true of Princeton's methods.

"The successful trend in football coaching is away from too much standardization," concluded the Chicago coach, who demonstrated in his first season in Big Ten company his ability to put a ground-gaining team on the gridiron.

Shaughnessy, incidentally, commented on a feature of the decisive play that was generally overlooked in Notre Dame's surprise defeat of Army.

"On the kick that was blocked behind Army's goal line for the winning touchdown, Army's punter was barely eight yards behind the line of scrimmage," he said. "He was also slow but he didn't have a chance to get the kick away under the circumstances. Ten yards behind the line is the minimum, even for first-class kickers, and in a pinch 12 yards is safer."

RUDNESS PLAYS ON "U" QUINTET

Former Negaunee Athlete Will Be Used as Forward

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 4, (Special)—Michigan's first bid for basketball honors in the 1933-34 season will be made Monday night when the squad visits Kalamazoo to meet Western State Teachers college. On paper the Wolverine team does not appear to have a chance particularly in view of the double drubbing handed them last year by much the same team of Teachers as they will meet Monday, but surprises occur even in basketball.

Coach Franklin Cappon said Friday he probably would start Al Plummer and Manny Fishman at the forward posts, Fred Allen at center and Captain Ted Petoskey and Russ Oliver at guards, although Petoskey and Oliver still are far from ready. This decision withdraws sophomores from the starting group entirely. It is certain, however, that George Ford and George Rudness may get in at forward, John Jablonsky at center, and Chelso Tomagno at guard. Rudness is a former Negaunee high school star.

Cappon is far from optimistic concerning the hopes of his charges for the season, but with the football men all in line believes that the team will be moving along at a good clip by the time the Conference season opens.

The team will start on its Eastern trip December 15, and will return December 22, after having played Pennsylvania, Rutgers, Maryland and Temple. It will be given a five-day vacation, then will go back to work on December 27.

RAMBLERS GET NOISY OVATION

Win Over Army Bright Spot of Season for Notre Dame Fans

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 4 (AP)—Notre Dame's Ramblers, who found themselves in the final period of their final game of an otherwise dismal season to beat the Army, received a tumultuous welcome today as they came back home.

Despite a drizzling rain, 3,000 students, most of whom have been patiently waiting all fall to "cheer, cheer for old Notre Dame," jammed the Plaza of the Union station as the conquering heroes of football came back from the big city and thundered an ovation surpassed only by that given the Rockne raiders on their return from their triumph over Southern California three years ago.

Frankly unaccustomed to hand shaking and cheers during the worst season in Notre Dame football history, a season marked by only three bright spots in the victories over Indiana, Northwestern and the Army, the returning Ramblers did their best to escape from the crowd today but without success. As the train neared the station, guards were posted at every exit and the players, cornered by the victory hungry crowd, finally gave in, responded with speeches and joined a victory march through the streets, classes were dismissed for the morning.

Many students and townsmen searched through the train for Coach Heartly "Hunk" Anderson but finally were convinced that their leader had remained behind in New York with Athletic Director Jess Harper. Hunk's absence was the only sad note in the noisy demonstration.

Notre Dame's finish, which found the Ramblers beating Northwestern, losing to Southern California, and beating the Army, has convinced many that Anderson will be retained next season despite rumors that bobbed up during the season that he would be replaced by some other Notre Dame football star of the past, possibly Noble Kizer of Purdue. The Ramblers piled up an impressive total of yardage gained all season but didn't click when only a few yards meant touchdowns.

GHS GRIDDERS PICK CAPTAIN

Fred Hoover, Guard, Chosen '34 Pilot; 14 Get Letters

Gladstone—Fred Hoover was chosen to captain the Gladstone high school football team in the fall of 1934 at the 11th annual Rotary football banquet held here last night. Hoover played right guard on this fall's eleven and was one of the bulwarks of the line. He is a junior and has one more year of competition.

Letters were awarded to 14 members of '33 team: namely, Harry Kircher, cap't, Fred Hoover, Clifford Mineau, Guy Freeman, Irving Jadin, Francis Weingartner, Thomas Elegeert, George Wilbee, John Swan, John Fraser, Robert Nebel, Duane Miller, Charles O'Neil and Tony Srock. Five of the fourteen, Kircher, Freeman, Jadin, Weingartner and Nebel will be lost through graduation. Presentation was made by Coach Eldon Keil.

John A. Lemmer, principal of Escanaba high school, as speaker of the evening, placed a challenge before the athletes present in a stirring address. He pointed out the debt owed to parents and the community in which they live by the time they have attained the age of 18, and stated that the sum is so large that it cannot be repaid in any manner but through service. Success is up to the individual and can only be attained through hard work, the boys were told, but if they display the proper enthusiasm and live up to the first commandment of the athlete "Thou Shalt Not Quit", at all times, they will not fail to be of some service and benefit to mankind.

Other members of the football squad guests at the dinner were John Bonkowski, John Karjalla, Chester Marrier, Vernon Long, Joe Cannon, Gordon Haga, Leo Wilson, Robert Micheau, Alfred White, Robert Collins, Norman McIntyre, Lyle Beaudry, Donald Dabney, Stanley Hawkins, Ted Ludick, William Roland, John Thompson, Sherman Derosha, Lawrence Johnson, Clifford Ottenhoff, Jim Fitzpatrick, Jack Kee and Richard Schuler. The cheer leaders, Donald Gazley and Claire Sword, as well as a number of members of the high school faculty, were also guests.

Floyd W. Marble, president of the Rotary club, presided as toastmaster at the after-dinner program. Instrumental selections by Wallace Cameron and vocal numbers by a trio composed of John Speare, Robert Haskins, and Wesley Gustafson proved pleasing. Coach Keil before presenting the letters briefly reviewed the past season and prospects for next, and Harry Kircher, captain of the '33 eleven, and Fred Hoover, captain-elect, gave short talks.

Pete Berger Named 1934 Grid Captain

Peter Berger, a junior and a tackle on this year's Manistique high school football team, was named captain of the 1934 M. H. S. eleven, according to an announcement made yesterday.

Berger, who is also captain of this year's basketball team, has been one of the mainstays of the Green Wave line for the past two seasons during which his play has been outstanding.

Coach Wassberg and his gridiron stars were guests of the Manistique Rotary club yesterday noon.

CWA OFFICIALS TO MEET TODAY

Progress of Program To Be Reviewed at Marquette Parley

Civil works administration problems will be discussed at length at a meeting of public officials of the upper peninsula at Marquette today.

Delta county will be represented by the following: George E. Weingartner, James T. Jones, J. P. Cameron, members of the civil works commission; N. P. Thompson, federal re-employment agent; Ben F. Sparks and Charles Hainsey, state highway department.

Louis E. Nims, Lansing, and Walter M. Berry, Crystal Falls, officials of the state emergency relief and civil works commissions, will present the various phases of the recently launched civil works program.

1300 Work in County

Thirteen hundred men went to work on CWA projects in Delta county yesterday, under the new quota assigned by state officials. Eight hundred and fifty were taken from the relief lists, and the remaining 450 were taken from unemployed, not on welfare.

Escanaba's quota of CWA workers were put to work on various projects. About sixty men were employed at grubbing and clearing at the Boy Scout campsite near the sewage plant. Other crews are working at the small playground sites at Nineteenth and Seventh avenue south, and Twelfth street and Eleventh avenue south.

Thirty men were also engaged yesterday in removing weeds and in filling in along the Ludington park shore. Some sand was being banked against the tennis courts to prevent undermining of the foundations.

Plans are being drawn up for other city projects to be carried on under the CWA program.

JOHNSON'S TELEGRAM

The following telegram was received from Fred R. Johnson, state civil works adimnistrator, by George E. Weingartner, chairman of the Delta county commission:

"Rules promulgated by Harry Hopkins, federal civil works administrator, are: 'On road projects the wage rates shall be those which have been fixed by the state highway department in accordance with Section 204-C of the National Industrial Recovery Act.

"It is my understanding that the rate set by the state highway department for Delta county is 40 cents an hour. There will be full opportunity to discuss this and other kindred subjects at the conference to be held in Marquette on Tuesday.

"Fred R. Johnson."

BOX WORKERS STRIKE

Menominee—The Civil Works program of the federal government, launched to hurry re-employment of the nations' laborers, threatened to be a cause of unemployment here today as approximately 50 workmen left their jobs at the box factory of the Menominee Box and Lumber company.

The men demanded more pay. After leaving the box factory where they refused to begin labor this morning at the current wage, many were reported to have sought work on one of the local projects of the Civil Works administration.

The Civil Works projects are designed to increase employment in the nation by augmenting the employment of labor by private industry, which pays taxes used in part to support the Civil Works program.

Civil Pay Higher

The wage scale announced for the Civil Works projects, 50 cents an hour for workers, 60 cents an hour for foremen, with work limited to 30 hours a week, has created dissatisfaction among some workmen employed at lower wages by local industries.

The Menominee Box and Lumber company, which employed more than 125 workers during the rush of business created by legalization of 3.2 beer last summer, had about 55 men on the payroll when the walk-out occurred this morning. The company is paying the wage scale prescribed by the lumber manufacturers' code approved by President Roosevelt a minimum of 30 cents an hour for men laborers with a maximum working week of 40 hours. This would bring a worker $12 for a week's work, whereas the Civil Works laborers receive $15 for a week's work, which contains 10 less working hours.

90-Day Program

The Civil Works program has been planned for only 90 days.

Last Friday night after the plant of the box company stopped operating a committee of three plant workers headed by Bert Goodchild, unsuccessful candidate for nomination as alderman of the Seventh ward at the last election, met A. L. Washburn, general manager of the company and asked an increase in the wage scale.

Mr. Washburn said he told the committee that the company was paying the code scale, which is all it can afford to pay. EVANS' PLANE TRIP DELAYED

Director of Aeronautics to Fly Here Later in Week

Lieut. Col. Floyd Evans, director of the state board of aeronautics, was unable to make his scheduled flight to Escanaba from Lansing yesterday because of the heavy fog. He will come here later in the week.

Director Evans will confer with the Escanaba civic committee and other public officials concerning the proposal to establish an airport here with CWA labor.

Several projects of this type are already under way in Michigan. Included among these airport jobs that have been launched and the amounts allocated to each are the following: Lansing, $18,000; Grand Rapids, $50,000; St. Ignace, $12,200; Pontiac, $12,600. Tentative allocation of $35,750 for a field at Laurium has been made.

It is estimated that Michigan may receive funds through the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce for about 78 fields, which would give work to some 3,000 men. A tentative program drawn up by Mr. Evans as soon as the CWA program was announced included 53 fields, with an estimated employment of 2,500 men.

A FINE BUNCH

On Tuesday the C. C. C. company 1661 will leave the John street school building where they have been quartered since November 13 and will move into new barracks at Germfask. These boys have stayed here while the construction of the winter quarters was being completed. Nearly 200 young men placed in a small town and with little to do but wait the passage of time, are apt to cause more or less commotion, but in the case of this group there has been no disorder and only the highest quality of behaviour. Quiet on the streets and business places, spend hours in the public library or in and about the old school there has been no cause for complaint. A ten o'clock bed rule to which all appeared to subscribe and close control by the officers as well as the high type represented by the boys themselves may be credited for this fine record. Company 1661 is in charge of Lieut. C. E. Beauchamp. Other officers are Lieut. H. R. Davis and Medical Officer Lieut. A. C. Neeseman.

500 REGISTERED

C. W. A. registrations at the county garage have reached the high number of 500, according to A. A. Mattson in charge of the office. Projects to date have taken a total of 116 men, 56 of whom were added to the McMillan road job on Monday morning. County Engineer Sleeper left today for Lansing with plans for other projects and to look after other matters pertaining to the work. As rapidly as new projects can receive an okeh of the state officials other men will be taken on. Many are also applying to the conservation officers for work on the slash disposal projects now being outlined. It is believed that all persons who wish to work and are able will be given jobs before December 15.

Members of the Luce county Emergency Welfare commission and other officers connected with the work are attending the U. P. welfare meeting being held on Tuesday in Marquette. Those driving up from Newberry are Frank Ennis, Richard Chamberlain, A. A. Mattson, Earl Pell and James Minard.

AMUSEMENTS

Co-starred for the first time on the screen, Marie Dressler and Lionel Barrymore bring comedy, heart interest and gripping drama to their fans in an inimitable blend in "Christopher Bean," currently playing at the Delft Theatre.

The two beloved figures who received Academy awards together provide vivid personalities in a vigorous story which is replete with laughs as well as dramatic interest. As Abby, the faithful old servant who finds herself suddenly in possession of a priceless painting and consequently becomes the center of intrigue and plotting, Miss Dressler gives another of her forceful and intensely human portrayals. Barrymore as the kindly old Dr. Haggett who becomes obsessed at the thought of riches almost in his grasp, gives an equally brilliant performance.

The story deals with the family of a country doctor who in the past had befriended an artist long since dead. The paintings of this artist are discovered to be worth a fortune. The old doctor, under the lash of avarice, seeks to steal the portrait of the servant, Abby, thus uncovering a romance of the past and precipitating a striking denouement.

LUECKE TALKS ON "UNIONISM"

Outlines Benefits Labor Can Receive By Organizing

New opportunities that have been created for labor by the National Industrial Recovery Act were described at length by John Luecke, president of the Escanaba Trades and Labor council, at a meeting of retail clerks and labor union members at the city hall last evening.

Mr. Luecke has been identified with the trade union movement for 30 years, and of late has been active in the organization of unions, under the auspices of the American Federation of Labor, in the upper peninsula and northern Wisconsin. Last night's meeting was the first step toward the unionization of various laboring groups, in this community. Other similar meetings will be held during the winter.

Luecke Lauds NIRA

"The National Industrial Recovery Act gives workers the right to organize without interference," Mr. Luecke said. "Such a right probably does not mean much in this community for unionism is well established here and is recognized by virtually every employing group. But in some sections of the country this might be considered an act of freedom."

Mr. Luecke then explained the trade union movement has been fought bitterly by some employers in the past. He called attention to the cruel treatment that was accorded to striking miners in the Harlan coal district in Kentucky and in other localities where labor suffers under oppression.

The trades and labor council president stated that the NIRA has fixed minimum rates of pay and maximum hours of labor, but that the result, in come cases, has been that employers have brought their wage scale down to the minimum. Only through organization, he said, can labor maintain the standard of living to which it is entitled and which it has been enjoying in the past. He also cited several instances of "chiseling" on the NRA, and told the part that labor organizations played in combatting such violations.

Supports Public Education

The speaker also dwelt on the subject of public education, explaining that at the present time powerful interests are at work in attempting to deny free schooling to children above the eighth grade.

"Organized labor has always stood for adequate public education," Mr. Luecke declared. "We feel that our boys and girls have a right to an education at public expense until the time when they are ready to go to college. Organized labor is opposed to those selfish interests who are thinking more of the interest on their municipal bonds than the welfare of the boys and girls of the nation."

Caspar C. Stephenson presided as chairman of the meeting. The retail clerks present were given literature, explaining the nature of the activities of the International Retail Clerks Union. Another meeting will be held in the near future to perfect a local organization.

CWA OFFICIALS TO MEET TODAY

Progress of Program To Be Reviewed at Marquette Parley

Civil works administration problems will be discussed at length at a meeting of public officials of the upper peninsula at Marquette today.

Delta county will be represented by the following: George E. Weingartner, James T. Jones, J. P. Cameron, members of the civil works commission; N. P. Thompson, federal re-employment agent; Ben F. Sparks and Charles Hainsey, state highway department.

Louis E. Nims, Lansing, and Walter M. Berry, Crystal Falls, officials of the state emergency relief and civil works commissions, will present the various phases of the recently launched civil works program.

1300 Work in County

Thirteen hundred men went to work on CWA projects in Delta county yesterday, under the new quota assigned by state officials. Eight hundred and fifty were taken from the relief lists, and the remaining 450 were taken from unemployed, not on welfare.

Escanaba's quota of CWA workers were put to work on various projects. About sixty men were employed at grubbing and clearing at the Boy Scout campsite near the sewage plant. Other crews are working at the small playground sites at Nineteenth and Seventh avenue south, and Twelfth street and Eleventh avenue south.

Thirty men were also engaged yesterday in removing weeds and in filling in along the Ludington park shore. Some sand was being banked against the tennis courts to prevent undermining of the foundations.

Plans are being drawn up for other city projects to be carried on under the CWA program.

BOX WORKERS STRIKE

Menominee—The Civil Works program of the federal government, launched to hurry re-employment of the nations' laborers, threatened to be a cause of unemployment here today as approximately 50 workmen left their jobs at the box factory of the Menominee Box and Lumber company.

The men demanded more pay. After leaving the box factory where they refused to begin labor this morning at the current wage, many were reported to have sought work on one of the local projects of the Civil Works administration.

The Civil Works projects are designed to increase employment in the nation by augmenting the employment of labor by private industry, which pays taxes used in part to support the Civil Works program.

Civil Pay Higher

The wage scale announced for the Civil Works projects, 50 cents an hour for workers, 60 cents an hour for foremen, with work limited to 30 hours a week, has created dissatisfaction among some workmen employed at lower wages by local industries.

The Menominee Box and Lumber company, which employed more than 125 workers during the rush of business created by legalization of 3.2 beer last summer, had about 55 men on the payroll when the walk-out occurred this morning. The company is paying the wage scale prescribed by the lumber manufacturers' code approved by President Roosevelt—a minimum of 30 cents an hour for men laborers with a maximum working week of 40 hours. This would bring a worker $12 for a week's work, whereas the Civil Works laborers receive $15 for a week's work, which contains 10 less working hours.

90-Day Program

The Civil Works program has been planned for only 90 days.

Last Friday night after the plant of the box company stopped operating a committee of three plant workers headed by Bert Goodchild, unsuccessful candidate for nomination as alderman of the Seventh ward at the last election, met A. L. Washburn, general manager of the company and asked an increase in the wage scale.

Mr. Washburn said he told the committee that the company was paying the code scale, which is all it can afford to pay. The plant has not been operating full-time for the past two months because of slack business. The workers' representative left the conference and the workers refused to resume work this morning at the current scale.

JOHNSON'S TELEGRAM

The following telegram was received from Fred R. Johnson, state civil works adimnistrator, by George E. Weingartner, chairman of the Delta county commission:

"Rules promulgated by Harry Hopkins, federal civil works administrator, are: 'On road projects the wage rates shall be those which have been fixed by the state highway department in accordance with Section 204-C of the National Industrial Recovery Act.

"It is my understanding that the rate set by the state highway department for Delta county is 40 cents an hour. There will be full opportunity to discuss this and other kindred subjects at the conference to be held in Marquette on Tuesday.

A FINE BUNCH

On Tuesday the C. C. C. company 1661 will leave the John street school building where they have been quartered since November 13 and will move into new barracks at Germfask. These boys have stayed here while the construction of the winter quarters was being completed. Nearly 200 young men placed in a small town and with little to do but wait the passage of time, are apt to cause more or less commotion, but in the case of this group there has been no disorder and only the highest quality of behaviour. Quiet on the streets and business places, spend hours in the public library or in and about the old school there has been no cause for complaint. A ten o'clock bed rule to which all appeared to subscribe and close control by the officers as well as the high type represented by the boys themselves may be credited for this fine record. Company 1661 is in charge of Lieut. C. E. Beauchamp. Other officers are Lieut. H. R. Davis and Medical Officer Lieut. A. C. Neeseman.

500 REGISTERED

C. W. A. registrations at the county garage have reached the high number of 500, according to A. A. Mattson in charge of the office. Projects to date have taken a total of 116 men, 56 of whom were added to the McMillan road job on Monday morning. County Engineer Sleeper left today for Lansing with plans for other projects and to look after other matters pertaining to the work. As rapidly as new projects can receive an okeh of the state officials other men will be taken on. Many are also applying to the conservation officers for work on the slash disposal projects now being outlined. It is believed that all persons who wish to work and are able will be given jobs before December 15.

AMUSEMENTS

Co-starred for the first time on the screen, Marie Dressler and Lionel Barrymore bring comedy, heart interest and gripping drama to their fans in an inimitable blend in "Christopher Bean," currently playing at the Delft Theatre.

The two beloved figures who received Academy awards together provide vivid personalities in a vigorous story which is replete with laughs as well as dramatic interest. As Abby, the faithful old servant who finds herself suddenly in possession of a priceless painting and consequently becomes the center of intrigue and plotting, Miss Dressler gives another of her forceful and intensely human portrayals. Barrymore as the kindly old Dr. Haggett who becomes obsessed at the thought of riches almost in his grasp, gives an equally brilliant performance.

The story deals with the family of a country doctor who in the past had befriended an artist long since dead. The paintings of this artist are discovered to be worth a fortune. The old doctor, under the lash of avarice, seeks to steal the portrait of the servant, Abby, thus uncovering a romance of the past and precipitating a striking denouement.

LUECKE TALKS ON "UNIONISM"

Outlines Benefits Labor Can Receive By Organizing

New opportunities that have been created for labor by the National Industrial Recovery Act were described at length by John Luecke, president of the Escanaba Trades and Labor council, at a meeting of retail clerks and labor union members at the city hall last evening.

Mr. Luecke has been identified with the trade union movement for 30 years, and of late has been active in the organization of unions, under the auspices of the American Federation of Labor, in the upper peninsula and northern Wisconsin. Last night's meeting was the first step toward the unionization of various laboring groups, in this community. Other similar meetings will be held during the winter.

Luecke Lauds NRA

"The National Industrial Recovery Act gives workers the right to organize without interference," Mr. Luecke said. "Such a right probably does not mean much in this community for unionism is well established here and is recognized by virtually every employing group. But in some sections of the country this might be considered an act of freedom."

Mr. Luecke then explained the trade union movement has been fought bitterly by some employers in the past. He called attention to the cruel treatment that was accorded to striking miners in the Harlan coal district in Kentucky and in other localities where labor suffers under oppression.

The trades and labor council president stated that the NIRA has fixed minimum rates of pay and maximum hours of labor, but that the result, in come cases, has been that employers have brought their wage scale down to the minimum. Only through organization, he said, can labor maintain the standard of living to which it is entitled and which it has been enjoying in the past. He also cited several instances of "chiseling" on the NRA, and told the part that labor organizations played in combatting such violations.

Supports Public Education

The speaker also dwelt on the subject of public education, explaining that at the present time powerful interests are at work in attempting to deny free schooling to children above the eighth grade.

"Organized labor has always stood for adequate public education," Mr. Luecke declared. "We feel that our boys and girls have a right to an education at public expense until the time when they are ready to go to college. Organized labor is opposed to those selfish interests who are thinking more of the interest on their municipal bonds than the welfare of the boys and girls of the nation."

Caspar C. Stephenson presided as chairman of the meeting. The retail clerks present were given literature, explaining the nature of the activities of the International Retail Clerks Union. Another meeting will be held in the near future to perfect a local organization.

INTER-AMERICAN MONEY DESIRED

Cuba Asks Recognition at Conference Held In Montevideo

By G. D. SEYMOUR
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

Montevideo, Dec. 4 (AP)—A proposal for an Inter-American system of money and banking and a plea for the recognition of the Cuban government were heard by delegates to the seventh Pan-American conference today.

Dr. Jose M. Puig Casaurane, foreign minister of Mexico, offered the radical suggestion of a Pan-American banking institution in an amendment to the conference Agenda which was concerned with silver and monetary problems.

The Mexican diplomat suggested that a central banking house be established which would have supervision over a series of central banks. At the same time he advocated the establishment of a Pan-American currency, backed in part by silver, and established on the basis of commodity price levels.

Dr. Alberto Giraudy of Cuba asked that all nations grant diplomatic recognition to the admistration of President Ramon Grau San Martin. He said his government lamented the fact that thus far only Mexico, Peru, Panama, and Spain have granted this courtesy.

Previously to the presentation of the Cuban remarks, somewhat of a tempest had been raised among the delegates by the fact that the conference secretariat was not pleased with the speech draft as first prepared and members of the Colombian delegation were asked to suggest to the Cubans that controversial remarks regarded as unfriendly to the United States and in poor taste be erased.

cution and defenders he would consider it unethical for either side to give any more interviews. Since the mystery began intriguing the country two weeks ago, solutions, confessions, repudiations and new theories have been offered almost daily by accused and accusers.

BODY EXHUMED

Indianapolis, Dec. 4 (AP)—The body of Rheta Gardner Wynekoop was taken from its grave here today, examined by two physicians representing Coroner Frank Walsh of Chicago, and was quickly returned to its resting place.

Dr. John G. Frost and Dr. Jerry Kearns obtained an order from Judge Frank P. Baker of the criminal court for examination of the body. Moving rapidly they circumvented an attempt by counsel for Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, mother-in-law of Rheta and under indictment for her murder, to have a representative present when the body was taken from the ground.

The two Chicago physicians first called on Attorney General Philip Lutz, Jr., and asked concerning the legal steps necessary for exhumation. The attorney general said the physicians informed him they had the consent of Rheta's father, B. H. Gardner, local flour broker.

Business Upturns Best In November

Chicago, Dec. 4 (AP)—The monthly report of the Union Central Life Insurance company today asserted business conditions in virtually all sections of the country, as reflected in life insurance sales, took the sharpest turn upward of the year in November. Net paid business for the month was $10,559,770, an increase of 21 per cent over the highest previous month of 1933.

STATE INCOME TAX PROPOSED BY COMSTOCK

mental units, the governor said.

He described the proposed income tax power as an emergency weapon to let the state collect funds to provide relief for school districts and other "unforseen emergencies." He cited as a possible future emergency "virtual bankruptcy" for the city of Detroit.

The administration resolution, after wiping out all barriers to legislative tax powers, proposes that:

"The legislature shall also provide by law for such other taxes and revenues as may be necessary for the support of counties, townships, school districts, villages, cities and other local governmental units. The legislature may provide by law for the taxation of incomes, either personal or corporate, or both, from whatever source or sources derived, at such rates as it may deem proper, and such rates may be graduated and the legislature may provide exemptions. The legislature may also provide for the assessment by a state board of such property as it may deem desirable."

Not a Substitute

The governor said the income tax was not intended as a substitute for the sales tax, although he believed that the sales tax ultimately should become entirely a federal measure, with revenues apportioned back to the states. He contended that the proposed amendment was designed solely to give the state power to meet any future tax crisis, and to give the legislature power to come to the rescue of any harrassed community.

The amendment would repeal the 15 mill limit on real property. The primary school fund would be retained. Otherwise it would place entire taxing authority in the hands of the legislature, with that body empowered to enact almost any sort of a tax system for both state and local government units it pleased.

Martin R. Bradley, speaker of the house and chairman of the legislative council, said that while the proposed amendment would give the legislature almost unlimited power in tax matters, the council expected the legislature would "use discretion."

The anti-lobby measure was submitted in the house by Rep. William M. Donnelly, Democrat, Detroit. It would make the expenditure of more than $5,000 in any year by a corporation, individual or representatives of a group or association to influence legislation a felony, punishable by a fine of not more than $2,000 or two years imprisonment, or both. Corporations and associations would be required to file annually with the secretary of state a report showing how much money had been spent to influence legislation. A limit of $5,000 would apply to the expenses and pay of lobbyists as well as to advertising or any other form of attempted influence.

During the last regular session of the legislature a protracted "lobby investigation" was conducted by a house committee.

Appropriations Asked

Other measures introduced in compliance with the governor's message were:

A bill carrying an appropriation of $15,000 for the Jean Nicolet celebration to be held on Mackinac Island and in the northern part of the state next year.

A $20,000 appropriation to establish a state agency to serve as a clearing house for applications for federal farm loans. Representatives of the federal land bank recently stated at least $20,000,000 is available to absorb frozen farm mortgages in Michigan, but that applications are lagging.

A bill prohibiting large depositors in building and loan companies from establishing preference in the matter of withdrawals.

A measure authorizing the secretary of state to allow corporations delinquent in their corporation taxes to pay the debt in instalments and thus gain reinstatement of their corporate franchises. According to Frank D. Fitzgerald, secretary of state, about 3,000 Michigan corporations are in danger of losing their franchises because of delinquency.

Andrews Praised

A resolution proposing the initiation of a constitution amendment to repeal the section requiring the taxation of personal property at the average tax rate. Governor Comstock and others contend the result of the constitutional provision is that personal taxes have not been paid. A nominal tax rate would bring personal property out of hiding, they believe. Bills carrying small appropriations for the state bondholders' advisory committee and the state weather bureau. The appropriations were overlooked during the regular session.

In asking for an appropriation for the Nicolet celebration on Mackinac Island next year, the governor said:

"This celebration will be of great historical and financial benefit to the whole northern part of the state. Under the chairmanship of Roger M. Andrews the work of the Mackinac Island commission has been outstanding during the past year.

"The state's splendid property has been reconditioned and beautified through the efforts of Andrews and some $45,000 of federal money has been expended through Civilian Conservation Corps camps and other channels."

Relative to the anti-lobbying bill the governor said:

"This measure should be welcomed as a means of freeing the members of both houses, in some measure, from unwarranted attempts to bias their deliberations."

The governor's message stated definitely that there will be another special session of the legislature called about the middle of January.

Andrew Gust Anderson, 80, Lived in Escanaba 53 Years

Andrew Gust Anderson, 80, resident of this city for the past 53 years, died at the family home, 1110 First avenue south, at one o'clock this morning. Death was caused by senility and arterio sclorosis. He had been ailing four months.

Mr. Anderson was born in Smoland, Sweden, on March 30, 1853. In the spring of 1880 he came to the United States settling in Pennsylvania but in the fall of 1880 he came to Escanaba where he has resided continuously since.

He was employed as a top dock worker until 1927 when he retired. He was a member of the Railway and Steamship Workers union.

He is survived by his wife, four sons and one daughter. The sons are George, Frank, Edgar, and Eugene, all of Escanaba, and the daughter is Mrs. Oscar Utberg, Detroit. Two brothers, Charles of Escanaba, and Oscar of Chicago, and three grandchildren also survive.

The body was removed to the Anderson funeral home but funeral arrangements will not be made until today.

Christmas Buying Means 450,000 Jobs

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—The annual Christmas buying rush will give employment to more than 450,000 additional workers throughout the country, the National Retail Dry Goods Association said today.

Approximately $4,000,000,000 will be spent in retail stores in December, the association wanted.

The state liquor store provision had been removed from the bill by the house and it was considered likely tonight that a joint conference of the senate and house would be arranged in an effort to adjust differences over the measure.

Senator W. F. Doyle (R Menominee) offered an amendment to the committee which would set up a five-man control board in place of the present 17-member organization. Senator Doyle's proposal was that at least one of the five members of the board be from the upper peninsula and that not more than three members of the same party be included on the board. The amendment was rejected by a vote of 3 to 2.

Bars Not Down

Meanwhile the state, first to vote for repeal, was unprepared to celebrate its arrival tomorrow afternoon. All hope of enacting the liquor bill and setting up the control machinery by that time had vanished. Governor Comstock and Frank A. Picard, chairman of the state liquor control commission, said national repeal will bring no change in prohibition enforcement in the state.

The controversial issue relative to the makeup of the state liquor control commission was purposely passed over pending the night session together with the question of reinstating state operated stores in the measure.

An effort by Senator Francis A. Kulp, Democrat, Battle Creek, to speed action on the measure by releasing it to the floor without recommendation was rejected. The Battle Creek senator favored the precipitation of the entire controversy to the floor but other members of the committee did not agree with the plan.

Doyle Dissatisfied

"I don't care if we stay here until summer," Senator W. F. Doyle, Republican, Menominee, said as he offered amendment after amendment. "There are a lot of changes which ought to be made in this bill before it gets to the floor."

Amid charges that the proposal meant saloons "under a new name," Chairman Anthony J. Wilkowski surprised the committee by pressing for an amendment to permit beer gardens, restaurants, and hotels to sell liquor for consumption on and off the premises. After the committee had registered a majority vote of approval for such a plan, Senator Wilkowski later withdrew the amendments but said he would insert them in another section of the bill.

Senator Doyle charged the Wilkowski amendments were "hypocritical." "All you are trying to do is to give a new name to the saloon by making it a restaurant or hotel." Doyle and others pictured in the amendments a return to the "beer bucket" days of the saloon era.

Home Rule Wins

Class sales gained a victory in the opening test on the issue in the committee. Senator Kulp sought to insert an amendment to prevent restaurants from selling hard liquor, admitting that it was the opening thrust in his fight to prohibit glass sales. The proposal, however, failed to muster support.

Home rule advocates, however, won a victory in their opening joust on the issue. Senator Doyle was successful in inserting an amendment requiring the approval of local legislative bodies to licenses issued to hotels in communities under 100,000 population. Should the amendment remain in the measure, hotels in every city outside of Detroit Grand Rapids and Flint would be required to obtain local approval to their applications for licenses.

Full enforcement of the proposed liquor act was placed in the hands of the state police and local officers under another successful amendment by Senator Doyle. A provision in the measure as it came from the house placing enforcement under such officers but under the direction of the commission was erased. Senator Kulp lost an effort to fine officers and have them removed if they failed to enforce the new law.

Breweries Warned

A controversy between breweries and the state liquor control commission was revived when Senator Adolph F. Heidkamp, Republican, Lake Linden, demanded that breweries be permitted to make home deliveries of beer. The amendment was voted down, however.

While the senate committee labored over the bill, Governor Comstock stated that "inasmuch as we have no law regulating sale of liquor in Michigan will presumably go along just as they did under the 3.2 beer law" in reference to national repeal. He said the interim between repeal and enactment of the liquor law "should not seriously injure any one."

Picard warned breweries their licenses will be revoked if they sell beer of stronger alcoholic content than 3.2 per cent pending enactment of a new control statute. He had previously given breweries the right to manufacture stronger beer for storage purposes pending the new law.

Berlin. — German newspapers devoted considerable space to discussions of the repeal of prohibition in the United States Monday while vintners and distillers laid plans to capture some of the expected export trade.

Trenton.—New Jersey Monday night faced the possibility of a gubernatorial veto on the unsigned state liquor control bill. Gov. A. Harry Moore who has signed the liquor taxation measure has withheld his approval from the control bill pending an opinion on its constitutionality from the attorney general. A legislative overriding of the veto seemed likely.

Concord, N. H.—The state Anti Saloon league says it will not oppose calling of a special session of the legislature to act on a state dry law. Governor Winant continues silent as to whether he will call such a session.

Jefferson City, Mo.—Tuesday will see the end of prohibition but, for Missourians, it will be simply Tuesday—legally speaking. The legislature has yet to enact a liquor control bill and the bone dry law remains on the statute books. Meanwhile efforts to pass a state liquor law are continuing.

Columbia, S. C.—South Carolina's state convention Monday adopted an anti-repeal resolution offered by former Gov. John G. Richards. The convention acted on the mandate of the voters given in the November referendum.

Indianapolis.—Regulations forbidding the sale of whiskey by the drink in Indiana were issued on Monday night. The state law provides for purchase only at drug stores in sealed containers.

London.—Lady Astor, American-born peeress, Monday night sent a message to members of the London Post of the American Legion regretting her inability to attend a dinner dance given by the post in honor of Ambassador Robert W. Bingham. "Drunk or sober, I like a veteran," she said, "but I like them best sober."

Detroit.—A shipment of 2,833 cases of whiskey consigned to a Philadelphia concern from Hiram Walker and Sons, Inc., entered Detroit from Canada Monday. It was the second legal importation since pre-prohibition days.

Baltimore. — There were 2,000,000 gallons of matured liquor here Monday night awaiting the government's starting gun on repeal but cosiderable confusion existed as to distribution. The state assembly still is working on a liquor control bill.

New York.—George W. Brewer, solicitor of the port of New York, said Monday that the repeal of the 18th amendment will not contract the 12-mile limit to the old international three-mile boundary. He said the rum-runners seeking immunity within the disputed nine miles of ocean will have to get a court ruling to that effect first.

No Restrictions

Washington and Oregon were two of the few states that stood without restrictive laws regarding the sale of liquor on the eve of repeal. In Washington, the legislature met in special session yesterday to formulate legislation. In Oregon, that legislature was working on a bill. Whether liquor could be sold legally in Indiana was doubtful with an advisory commission working on a report for transmission to Governor McNutt.

In Massachusetts there was a possibility of the legislature acting last night to make legal sales possible in some sections today.

Another barrier to repeal was threatened late yesterday. Canon William Sheafe Chase, president of the International Reform Federation, who already has pending in the District of Columbia supreme court a petition seeking to prevent the acting secretary of state from proclaiming repeal, said he would bring action tomorrow in Pennsylvania to keep that state from ratifying repeal.

SYSTEM COMPLETE

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—Powerful federal machinery for control of the flow of liquor was adjusted tonight for immediate operation upon repeal tomorrow.

All branches of the alcoholic beverage industry were being brought under the supervision of the federal alcohol control administration to await enactment of permanent legislation by congress.

The system was adopted after an exhaustive study by experts of different methods of liquor control in various countries, ranging from government monopoly to local administration.

Using the power granted the president by the farm administration and recovery acts, the government created the federal alcohol control administration through codes worked out for the different branches of the liquor industry.

Choate Is Chief

These documents, binding the domestic distillers, importers and brewers, are designed to prevent high prices of liquor that might permit the bootlegger to continue in business, and an overproduction that would lead to cut-throat competition. In addition, their aim is to protect the domestic market and assure consumption of American farm products.

They provide for code authorities to be organized within the industries to work with the control administration which has been given power to approve or reject all decisions.

Joseph H. Choate, Jr., a New York attorney, is the director of the administration of five. The other members are government officials.

They are: Edward G. Lowry, Jr., economic advisor of the treasury; Harris E. Willingham, chief of the beverage section of the farm administration; Willard L. Thorpe of the commerce department, and W. A. Tarver of the justice department.

Licenses Required

Under the codes, power is given the control administration to control plant capacity and production of domestic distillers, importations of foreign liquor, and the fixing of prices if it is found that those posted by the industries are out of line.

Distillers and importers as well as brewers have to be licensed.

Representatives of the treasury and agriculture secretaries are empowered to issue permits on foreign liquor shipments until February 1. Thereafter the control agency will issue permits based on average imports from foreign countries from 1910 to 1914. Administrator Choate is the recovery representative, Ray Miller the agriculture representative now.

Although they have not been promulgated, codes for wholesale liquor dealers, rectifiers and blenders of whiskey, and wine producers will bring those industries under the control administration.

ROOSEVELT BACK

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—President Roosevelt returned to his desk today to check over the liquor control organization that will start operating tomorrow after repeal of prohibition.

Joseph H. Choate, Jr., the administrator of the newly organized federal alcohol control board, informed the president he was ready to begin operations.

They discussed methods of speeding up the allotments and quotas on imported liquor.

Secretaries Wallace and Roper also discussed the liquor control problem with the president.

All the cabinet officers in the city called at various times at the White House after the arrival of Mr. Roosevelt from his Warm Springs, Ga., home.

Most of them came to pay their respects. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., the acting secretary of the treasury, was a luncheon guest and went over treasury affairs with Mr. Roosevelt.

However, there was no intimation of any new move in the monetary program.

The president returned tanned and refreshed by his two weeks in Georgia.

Roper reported to the president that his special committee was preparing recommendations on the stock exchange question and would turn over its report to the senate banking committee.

Senator Fletcher, who called at the White House later, said Mr. Roosevelt was interested in having a study made of the effect of the new securities control act but that he did not want this whole law opened up for revision.

Fletcher said his committee expected to conclude its hearings in the near future on stock exchange practices and after that it would draft its recommendations.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—Speculative markets watched dollar appreciation with indifference today, making scanty changes in listless dealings. Bonds, on the other hand, improved sufficiently to lift the averages a trifle, though U. S. governments turned slightly easy toward the close.

With the treasury's gold price holding at $34.01 for the third successive day, foreign exchanges declined sharply; later their losses were substantially reduced, but the dollar's strength was an interesting feature of the financial day. Wheat and corn finished virtually even with Saturday's final quotations. The average net change for stocks was a minor fractional decline in a turnover of 670,584 shares.

Few stocks varied more than a point all day and net changes were largely in small fractions. U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Can, General Motors, Harvester, Santa Fe, National Distillers and Pennsylvania were up moderately, while Westinghouse, General Electric, Kennecott, Standard Oil of New Jersey, American Telephone, Sears Roebuck and National Biscuit averaged half a point off. Canada Dry fizzed up more than 2 points.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, Dec. 4—Reluctance to enter into new commitments characterized grain trading today, and wheat at one time sagged to fresh bottom price levels unequalled since October 20.

Hesitance was ascribed largely to uncertainties of financial prospects. The fact that unofficial December crop reports indicated no curtailment of United States winter wheat acreage, despite the Washington administration's control program, was construed as somewhat bearish.

Wheat closed unsettled, at the same as Saturday's finish to ¾ cent lower, corn also unchanged to ¾ off, oats ¼ down to 3-8 up, and provisions varying from 27 cents decline to a rise of 2 cents.

Corn and oats paralleled the action of wheat. Disappearance of corn on farms to December 1 was unofficially estimated at 446,000,000 bushels, compared with 467,000,000 the corresponding period last year.

Provisions averaged lower with grains.

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—Prime investment corporation bonds firmed today, as the dollar rallied in foreign exchange markets, but, perversely, United States government securities, which heretofore have followed exchange movements rather closely, turned irregularly lower.

Trading in all groups was at a low ebb, with sales totaling only $8,879,000, par value. The average for 60 domestic corporate loans, however, moved up two-tenths of a point.

While treasury 4s and Liberty first 4¼s managed to hold gains of 3-32nds and 4-32nds of a point, respectively, most other listed federal maturities were off 1-32nd to 12-32nds of a point. Hesitancy in the government section was attributed partly to uncertainty regarding the terms of the treasury's December 15 financing which are expected to be announced this week.

The rails were the best of the corporation groups. Advances of 1 to around 2 points were recorded by some bonds of Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, Burlington, Cincinnati Union Terminal, Erie, Illinois Central, Kansas City Terminal, New York Central, Nickel Plate, Norfolk & Western, Northern Pacific, Oregon Western, Pennsylvania, Reading, Southern Pacific, Southern, Union Pacific and Western Maryland.

Among utility and industrial gainers of fractions to a point or more were some loans of American Telephone, Certain-Teed, Consolidated Gas, Detroit Edison, Dodge Bros., Kresge Foundation, Lehigh Valley Coal, New England Telephone, Pennsylvania Power, Phillips Petroleum, U. S. Rubber, Utah Power and Western Union.

Prices Are Mixed On Curb Market; Alcohols Easier

BY BERNARD S. O'HARA
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—Tranquility continued to reign on the curb exchange today. Prices closed slightly mixed after milling about narrowly over the entire session. Transfers approximated only 160,000 shares, about the same as last Friday.

Alcohols were a shade easier. Oils, utilities and metals were mildly irregular while a number of specialties were improved. Montgomery Ward A closed at $4, up 5 points, for a new high for the year. Axton Fisher gained half as much in a light turnover, while improvement of around a point or so was shown by International Mining, Insurance Company of North America and Tubize Chatillon A.

Small fractional advances occurred in New Jersey Zinc, Gulf Oil, Ford Motor Limited and Swift International. But similar recessions were registered by Humble Oil, Hiram Walker, Electric Bond and Share, Distillers Corporation-Seagrams, Newmont and Wright Hargreaves.

The UNKNOWN BLOND

When he was connected with the city desk and heard Austin's voice over the wire he said, "Denise Lang is here. She's come to identify the girl they're holding in jail. Said she saw the girl with King. If you'll send a photographer I think you can get pictures—"

For the next 10 minutes Bannister was all newspaper man. The story, he assured Austin, was for the present, at least, exclusive. He repeated it to a rewrite man, promised to call back as soon as Denise Lang's verdict came. Yes, sure, he'd let them know right away.

Bannister put down the telephone and walked out into the hall. Well, that was that! He couldn't hold up news of that sort. Denise Lang would identify the other girl, all right. Of all those involved, Bannister was most certain on that point. Denise had spoken of the green suit with black fur on it, the small green hat. Oh, yes, there was no doubt that Denise would identify the other girl.

The door of McNeal's office was closed and there was no one in sight. Bannister walked the length of the corridor, turned and walked back. He looked at his watch. Almost 2:45. That photographer should be here by this time. What was the matter with him? What was the matter with everybody? Why didn't someone come out of McNeal's office? It shouldn't have taken two minutes for Denise Lang to say whether or not she'd seen the other girl before.

But the door did not open and rage mounted in Bannister's heart. Then, from behind the door, he heard a cry.

PREDICT HEAVY ORE BUSINESS

Claim 40,000,000 Tons To Be Shipped on Lakes in 1934

Under the stimulus of gradually mounting shipments, steel works operations have held between 28 and 29 per cent for the third consecutive week, and this week may develop a slight rise, contrary to the seasonal trend which usually begins to draw down the rate from the middle of November to the close of the year, states the magazine Steel.

Less flexible, pig iron production in November was not affected by the steadier trend in steel, and a 16.4 per cent decline lowered the daily average output for the month to 36,627 tons. However, the net loss of four stacks as of Nov. 30 will be partially neutralized this week by the lighting of three additional stacks at Birmingham. November output of 1,098,815 tons makes the 11-month total this year 12,044,646, compared with 8,674,067 tons in all 1932.

Higher Prices

With few exceptions, higher prices will apply on practically all finished steel products Jan. 1, either through outright advances being made effective now, or through application of price schedules announced early in the fourth quarter, after practically all fourth quarter requirements were covered at lower levels.

Coupled with the generally improved sentiment for business in early 1934 these advances supply a cogent reason for specifying expiring contracts. They have led to a broader and more diversified demand.

More definite track material requirements have matured. Structural awards are heavier, and tonnage up for early action remains large. Orders from farm implement builders have expanded.

With the first of the 1934 automobile models now rolling off the assembly line, consumption in the Detroit area can be expected to increase until late January or early February, when dealers will have been supplied.

Railroads Are Buying

Railroad orders for December now appear more promising. Releases by the Pennsylvania on its requirements for 159,000 tons of rails and fastenings are expected momentarily.

The Missouri Pacific has been authorized by federal court to purchase 25,000 tons of rails, and necessary fastenings.

The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy has divided an order for 25,000 tons of rails among three makers, and is to close shortly for 8000 tons of track fastenings. Chicago & North Western is completing final loan details for the purchase of 65,000 tons of rails and 18,000 tons of fastenings; and Chicago & Eastern Illinois is arranging a loan to buy 4500 tons of rails and fastenings. Northern Pacific has ordered 6500 tons of rails.

Erie railroad has issued an inquiry for an indefinite tonnage of track fastenings for delivery from March to September, which would extend beyond the six-months period authorized for railroad material sales.

Structural shape awards for the week jumped to 32,145 tons, more than double the year's weekly average, by the placing of 12,000 tons for New York's Triboro bridge towers, and 8000 tons for that city's west side elevated highway.

Pig iron shipments are increasing, furnace interests anticipating a larger tonnage this month than in November due to the completion of contracts by Jan. 1. Contributing to a heavier inquiry at Chicago are fears of a price advance. Also, scrap prices there and at Pittsburgh are firmer.

CWA OFFICIALS TO MEET TODAY

Progress of Program To Be Reviewed at Marquette Parley

Civil works administration problems will be discussed at length at a meeting of public officials of the upper peninsula at Marquette today.

Delta county will be represented by the following: George E. Weingartner, James T. Jones, J. P. Cameron, members of the civil works commission; N. P. Thompson, federal re-employment agent; Ben F. Sparks and Charles Hainsey, state highway department.

Louis E. Nims, Lansing, and Walter M. Berry, Crystal Falls, officials of the state emergency relief and civil works commissions, will present the various phases of the recently launched civil works program.

1300 Work in County

Thirteen hundred men went to work on CWA projects in Delta county yesterday, under the new quota assigned by state officials. Eight hundred and fifty were taken from the relief lists, and the remaining 450 were taken from unemployed, not on welfare.

Escanaba's quota of CWA workers were put to work on various projects. About sixty men were employed at grubbing and clearing at the Boy Scout campsite near the sewage plant. Other crews are working at the small playground sites at Nineteenth and Seventh avenue south, and Twelfth street and Eleventh avenue south.

Thirty men were also engaged yesterday in removing weeds and in filling in along the Ludington park shore. Some sand was being banked against the tennis courts to prevent undermining of the foundations.

Plans are being drawn up for other city projects to be carried on under the CWA program.

BOX WORKERS STRIKE

Menominee—The Civil Works program of the federal government, launched to hurry re-employment of the nations' laborers, threatened to be a cause of unemployment here today as approximately 50 workmen left their jobs at the box factory of the Menominee Box and Lumber company.

The men demanded more pay. After leaving the box factory where they refused to begin labor this morning, many were reported to have sought work on one of the local projects of the Civil Works administration.

The Civil Works projects are designed to increase employment in the nation by augmenting the employment of labor by private industry, which pays taxes used in part to support the Civil Works program.

Civil Pay Higher

The wage scale announced for the Civil Works projects, 50 cents an hour for workers, 60 cents an hour for foremen, with work limited to 30 hours a week; has created dissatisfaction among some workmen employed at lower wages by local industries.

The Menominee Box and Lumber company, which employed more than 125 workers during the rush of business created by legalization of 3.2 beer last summer, had about 55 men on the payroll when the walk-out occurred this morning. The company is paying the wage scale prescribed by the lumber manufacturers' code approved by President Roosevelt—a minimum of 30 cents an hour for men laborers with a maximum working week of 40 hours. This would bring a worker $12 for a week's work, whereas the Civil Works laborers receive $15 for a week's work, which contains 10 less working hours.

90-Day Program

The Civil Works program has been planned for only 90 days.

Last Friday night after the plant of the box company stopped operating a committee of three plant workers headed by Bert Goodchild, unsuccessful candidate for nomination as alderman of the Seventh ward at the last election, met A. L. Washburn, general manager of the company and asked an increase in the wage scale.

Mr. Washburn said he told the committee that the company was paying the code scale, which is all it can afford to pay. The plant has not been operating full-time for the past two months because of slack business. The workers' representative left the conference and the workers refused to resume work this morning at the current scale.

JOHNSON'S TELEGRAM

The following telegram was received from Fred R. Johnson, state civil works adimnistrator, by George E. Weingartner, chairman of the Delta county commission:

"Rules promulgated by Harry Hopkins, federal civil works administrator, are: 'On road projects the wage rates shall be those which have been fixed by the state highway department in accordance with Section 204-C of the National Industrial Recovery Act.

"It is my understanding that the rate set by the state highway department for Delta county is 40 cents an hour. There will be full opportunity to discuss this and other kindred subjects at the conference to be held in Marquette on Tuesday.

"Fred R. Johnson."

Cornell, Mich.—A party of friends and relatives gathered at the David Delvaux home on Saturday night to help him celebrate his birthday anniversary. The crowd then went to the River Garden where the evening was spent in dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Flemal and children Clarona, Thomas, Thomas Flemal, Louis Flemal, Jr., and Mr. Flemal's brother, Nelson, went to Sturgeon Bay, Wis., Wednesday to be with Mr. Flemal's folks over Thanksgiving. EVANS' PLANE TRIP DELAYED

Lieut. Col. Floyd Evans, director of the state board of aeronautics, was unable to make his scheduled flight to Escanaba from Lansing yesterday because of the heavy fog. He will come here later in the week.

Director Evans will confer with the Escanaba civic committee and other public officials concerning the proposal to establish an airport here with CWA labor.

Several projects of this type are already under way in Michigan. Included among these airport jobs that have been launched and the amounts allocated to each are the following: Lansing, $18,000; Grand Rapids, $50,000; St. Ignace, $12,200; Pontiac, $12,600. Tentative allocation of $25,750 for a field at Laurium has been made.

It is estimated that Michigan may receive funds through the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce for about 78 fields, which would give work to some 3,000 men. A tentative program drawn up by Mr. Evans as soon as the CWA program was announced included 53 fields, with an estimated employment of 2,500 men.

A FINE BUNCH

On Tuesday the C. C. C. company 1661 will leave the John street school building where they have been quartered since November 13 and will move into new barracks at Germfask. These boys have stayed here while the construction of the winter quarters was being completed. Nearly 200 young men placed in a small town and with little to do but wait the passage of time, are apt to cause more or less commotion, but in the case of this group there has been no disorder and only the highest quality of behaviour. Quiet on the streets and business places, spend hours in the public library or in and about the old school there has been no cause for complaint. A ten o'clock bed rule to which all appeared to subscribe and close control by the officers as well as the high type represented by the boys themselves may be credited for this fine record. Company 1661 is in charge of Lieut. C. E. Beauchamp. Other officers are Lieut. H. R. Davis and Medical Officer Lieut. A. C. Neeseman.

500 REGISTERED

C. W. A. registrations at the county garage have reached the high number of 500, according to A. A. Mattson in chargo of the office. Projects to date have taken a total of 116 men, 56 of whom were added to the McMillan road job on Monday morning. County Engineer Sleeper left today for Lansing with plans for other projects and to look after other matters pertaining to the work. As rapidly as new projects can receive an okeh of the state officials other men will be taken on. Many are also applying to the conservation officers for work on the slash disposal projects now being outlined. It is believed that all persons who wish to work and are able will be given jobs before December 15.

NEWBERRY LOCALS

AMUSEMENTS

Co-starred for the first time on the screen, Marie Dressler and Lionel Barrymore bring comedy, heart interest and gripping drama to their fans in an inimitable blend in "Christopher Bean," currently playing at the Delft Theatre.

The two beloved figures who received Academy awards together provide vivid personalities in a vigorous story which is replete with laughs as well as dramatic interest. As Abby, the faithful old servant who finds herself suddenly in possession of a priceless painting and consequently becomes the center of intrigue and plotting, Miss Dressler gives another of her forceful and intensely human portrayals. Barrymore as the kindly old Dr. Haggett who becomes obsessed at the thought of riches almost in his grasp, gives an equally brilliant performance.

The story deals with the family of a country doctor who in the past had befriended an artist long since dead. The paintings of this artist are discovered to be worth a fortune. The old doctor, under the lash of avarice, seeks to steal the portrait of the servant, Abby, thus uncovering a romance of the past and precipitating a striking denouement.

LUECKE TALKS ON "UNIONISM"

Outlines Benefits Labor Can Receive By Organizing

New opportunities that have been created for labor by the National Industrial Recovery Act were described at length by John Luecke, president of the Escanaba Trades and Labor council, at a meeting of retail clerks and labor union members at the city hall last evening.

Mr. Luecke has been identified with the trade union movement for 30 years, and of late has been active in the organization of unions, under the auspices of the American Federation of Labor, in the upper peninsula and northern Wisconsin. Last night's meeting was the first step toward the unionization of various laboring groups, in this community. Other similar meetings will be held during the winter.

Luecke Lauds NIRA

"The National Industrial Recovery Act gives workers the right to organize without interference," Mr. Luecke said. "Such a right probably does not mean much in this community for unionism is well established here and is recognized by virtually every employing group. But in some sections of the country this might be considered an act of freedom."

Mr. Luecke then explained the trade union movement has been fought bitterly by some employers in the past. He called attention to the cruel treatment that was accorded to striking miners in the Harlan coal district in Kentucky and in other localities where labor suffers under oppression.

The trades and labor council president stated that the NIRA has fixed minimum rates of pay and maximum hours of labor, but that the result, in come cases, has been that employers have brought their wage scale down to the minimum. Only through organization, he said, can labor maintain the standard of living to which it is entitled and which it has been enjoying in the past. He also cited several instances of "chiseling" on the NRA, and told the part that labor organizations played in combatting such violations.

Supports Public Education

The speaker also dwelt on the subject of public education, explaining that at the present time powerful interests are at work in attempting to deny free schooling to children above the eighth grade.

"Organized labor has always stood for adequate public education," Mr. Luecke declared. "We feel that our boys and girls have a right to an education at public expense until the time when they are ready to go to college. Organized labor is opposed to those selfish interests who are thinking more of the interest on their municipal bonds than the welfare of the boys and girls of the nation."

Caspar C. Stephenson presided as chairman of the meeting. The retail clerks present were given literature, explaining the nature of the activities of the International Retail Clerks Union. Another meeting will be held in the near future to perfect a local organization.

Although Captain Cook, famous explorer, died more than 150 years ago, a tortoise which belonged to him still is alive and flourishing on the island of Tonga, where it enjoys the native rank of "chief."
